Taft Manager on the Opposition.

McKinley Exults Over Discomfiture of Dixon's Defeat in Montana.

Says Present Week Will Give President Two Hundred and Fifty Votes.

County Chairmen in Ohio Put a Quietus on the Talk of Insurgency There.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Taft Bureau tonight appraised the developments of last week in the political campaign as follows:

"The climax of the Republican anti-convention campaign will soon be reached. Developments of this week have the opposition to President Taft's renomination scattered and shattered. Results in New York, Indiana, Colorado, Mississippi and elsewhere will make the situation clear.

"The week just ended brought President Taft's convention strength to 341. This week will see it materially increased and by Saturday it will have passed the 350 mark. Indiana's action is foreshadowed by its primaries which turn the State organization over to the President's supporters and give him a majority of the districts. New York also has given many preliminary evidences of her purpose—the New York City Republican Club's unanimous indorsement of the President being the most recent—that a favorable outcome is conceded even by the opposition.

"Only eight delegates were elected last week, exclusive of the ten in North Dakota, which Senator La Follette easily won at the primaries in a contest with Col. Roosevelt. Col. Roosevelt's North Dakota managers are dissatisfied with the results, charging participation of Democrats and Socialists in the primaries—a condition against which President Taft had warned in his disussion of primaries not properly safeguarded. Of the eight delegates chosen, six were instructed for President Taft with a contest promised in the case of two and two are pledged to him. The total strength of the candidates is now recorded as follows: Taft, 143; Roosevelt, 15; La Follette, 10; Cummins, 2.

"Reports from Iowa continue to show the trend of popular favor and approval, county after county falling in line and assuring President Taft of the delegates at large, four of the five district conventions thus far held having already instructed for him. Reports from Michigan, Missouri, Colorado and West Virginia, show one county after another going on record for the President, by instructing delegates to State and district conventions. In Michigan Gov. Osborne lost not only his home county, but his city and ward as well and Taft delegates from the Tenth and Twelfth districts are now assured.

"In Missouri the change in favor of the President has come with sufficient force and conviction to wrest from Gov. Hadley the announcement that any ambition he may have had to be Vice-Presidential candidate of a ticket with other than President Taft, as its head has been abandoned. Kentucky went on record through its State Central Committee which indorsed the candidacy of President Taft. In Montana, Senator Dixon's State, the State committee by a vote of 27 to 10, on Saturday, declared for Mr. Taft's renomination.

"Two Idaho counties—Kootenai and Clearwater—have chosen Taft delegates to the coming State convention.

"And Ohio, the President's State, to which the opposition has been pleased to point as a hot-bed of anti-Taft sentiment, put a quietus on that declaration through the action of its eighty-eight county chairmen. All but thirteen of these at a recent meeting went on record in praise of the Taft administration and in enthusiastic support of his renomination."

Regiment Held for Mine Crisis.

Crack Highlanders at Glasgow Ready for Prompt Response.

Fate of American Coal Industry to Be Decided This Week.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As significant of the intention of the government to use drastic measures in case the striking coal miners refuse to accept the minimum wage bill at tomorrow's conference between them and the mine owners, the Ninety-third Highlanders, who, owing to the strike, have been detained for more than a week at Glasgow, instead of proceeding to Ft. George, have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to go anywhere at a moment's notice.

It is believed that similar orders have been given to many regiments stationed in various parts of the kingdom.

Whereas, the gloomiest view was taken of the prospects of a coal war yesterday, matters are brightening today, according to reports from the various coal fields.

The Premier's determination to end the strike, whatever the owners and miners agree upon tomorrow, together with the fact that many families are starving, is having an effect.

Even the Welsh miners, who were the stubbornest section, are discontented at the leaders' failure. At the Brymkinalt colliery, North Wales, 300 miners returned to work yesterday and brought to the surface eighty tons.

Others are eager to return. It is thought that these mines will be in full working order tomorrow, and this is expected to have a far-reaching effect.

As discontent has been growing since the strike pay was stopped or reduced, many more will follow the Brymkinalt miners' example.

AMERICAN CRISIS IS EXPECTED THIS WEEK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND (O.) March 24.—A crisis in the coal situation, determining whether more than 450,000 miners in the bituminous and anthracite fields shall strike on April 1 or suspend until new wage agreements can be effected, is expected this week.

Members of the executive board and Policy Committee, United Mine Workers of America, began to arrive today to prepare to draw up recommendations for a referendum vote by the union. They will not act, however, until after the bituminous operators and miners of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, at their session Tuesday, have decided whether they can agree on a two-year wage scale.

John P. White, president of the union, and the district presidents, today considered a proposal that the bituminous miners drop all demands except that relating to increase pay, and that they ask for 5 per cent. instead of 10. The compromise was not agreed upon definitely, but it was considered a possibility in view of the emphatic stand taken by the operators that they were not inclined to yield. It was proposed that the single suggestion for a 5 per cent. increase be considered by both sides before it was taken into conference.

Even if this plan were agreed upon, it was declared, it still would have to be adopted by the Policy Committee and supported by a referendum vote. Then union officials are in doubt whether such a compromise would be approved at the referendum vote, since the full convention at Indianapolis several months ago expressly stood not only for 10 per cent. increase, but for many changes in conditions, such as a reduction of eight hours a week in the working time. A 5 per cent. increase, they say, would give them less than one-fourth of what they asked for.

Union officials say an adjustment of the bituminous dispute would have much influence in securing for the 175,000 anthracite miners a settlement of their difficulties.

Forty-Day Faster From Los Angeles to Assist Mrs. Hazzard in Her Undertaking.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Tanner, the original "forty-day faster," has arrived here from Los Angeles to assist in the proposed six-weeks' fast of Dr. Linda Burfield Hazzard, who is under sentence of two to twenty years in the penitentiary for the manslaughter of one of her patients. Dr. Hazzard has invited the local medical society to place guards over her during the period of her fast, but the invitation has been ignored.

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Maitland Jarvis, a 12-year-old boy scout who was arrested this morning charged with the killing of Henry Luckhardt, 9 years old, in a vacant lot in the Bronx remained in custody of the Children's Society today. Before Luckhardt died he told detectives he did not know the boy who had shot him, but said he wore the khaki uniform and campaign hat of boy scouts. Jarvis admitted he shot Luckhardt because he had been throwing stones.

DEAN SUMNER LAYS DOWN NEW RULE ON MARRIAGE.

No More Ceremonies Will Be Performed by Clergymen Attached to His Episcopal Parish Until They Are Satisfied Contracting Parties Are Free from Maladies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A decided and unprecedented stand was taken today by the Very Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul, against the marriage of persons suffering from communicable maladies. Dean Sumner, who was head of the Chicago Vice Commission, announced at the morning services at the cathedral that hereafter no marriage would be performed by any of the clergymen attached to the parish until the contracting parties had secured a "clean bill of health," signed by a reputable physician.

The announcement reads:

"After consultation with the Rt. Rev. C. P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago, and with his approval, Dean Sumner and his co-workers of the cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul, have agreed upon an advanced policy with regard to the administration of marriage in the cathedral.

"Beginning with Easter, no persons will be married at the cathedral unless they present a certificate of health from a reputable physician to the effect that they are normal physically and mentally and have neither an incurable nor a communicable disease.

"This step is taken only after months of study of the situation and deliberation as to its advisability. It is believed this stand will meet with the immediate sympathy of the clergy in the church at large."

"We do not expect to bring about any great good at once by this plan of ours," Dean Sumner told his congregation, "but we are hopeful, that, standing as a protest, it may encourage other clergy to take a similar stand."

PRINCESS HASSAN ADVERTISES FOR A POSITION.

California Girl Finds It Impossible to Be Wife of Prince and Maintain Self Respect—Notified that Her Board and Pay Have Been Shut Off by Husband.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Princess Hassan, who was Ola Humphrey, the star of "The Fatal Wedding," "The Climbers" and other shows before she married Prince Ibrahim Hassan, cousin of the present Khedive of Egypt, in London last April, has decided that it is more fun to be an American actress than an Egyptian Princess, and if she gets the kind of vaudeville act she wants she won't go back to Prince Ibrahim.

On the advice of Lillian Russell and other friends, the Princess advertised for a sketch which would give her the chance, she believes, to show her familiarity with oriental court life.

She expressed her need as follows:

"A sketch for a twenty-minute act in vaudeville desired. Oriental story treating with the marriage of an American lady to an Oriental Prince. Address Princess Hassan, Rector's Hotel."

"Am I going to return to Prince Ibrahim?" asked the Princess in answer to the question. "Well, I am here, am I not? I am informed through Turkish diplomatic circles that I will receive no income from the Prince while I am in this country. But that will not move me. The life I led was impossible. No American girl could endure it. I was the victim of their ages-old treatment of women. Such treatment was intolerable."

The Princess was born in California and went on the stage there when she was 15 years old. Her first husband was Edwin Mordaunt, who was leading man in "The Fatal Wedding." She divorced him

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME (Italy) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. P. Morgan went on a long motor ride today with his sister, Mrs. Barns, and dined with the Princess Radziwill, where a select party of the Italian nobility had been invited including the Prince and Princess (nee, Deacon) Radziwill.

The money king had been deluged with invitations to all sorts of functions, but with a couple of exceptions, declined all on the ground he desires not to overtax his strength.

He left Princess Radziwill's at 9:30, the dinner being at 7:30. He is expected to leave for Florence about Wednesday visiting Perugia, Siena and Assisi en route. It is not divulged whether he travels by train or automobile. In fact all his plans are carefully concealed. He told friends here that there is no place in the world that interests him so much as Assisi and he would give all his collections to possess the Church of St Francis at that place.

It is believed he will have an audience with the Pope before leaving as His Holiness has expressed a wish to have the views of this "wonderful American" on the labor outlook and Socialism.

PLEAD GUILTY AND PAY FINES FOR REBATING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND (O.) March 24.—The six dock companies and four railroads indicated by the Federal Grand Jury here last April for rebating pleaded guilty before Judge Killits in Federal Court here yesterday and were assessed fines aggregating $123,000. The railroads pleading guilty were: The Pennsylvania, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Bessemer and Lake Erie, Nickel Plate.

The dock companies were: Angeline Dock Company, Mahoning & Shenango Dock Company, and Ohio & Pennsylvania Dock Company; Union Dock Company, Ashtabula Dock Company and the Pittsburgh Conneaught Dock Company.

D. T. McCabe of Pittsburgh, fourth vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Dan R. Hanna and R. L. Ireland of Cleveland, respectively president and general manager of the Mohanna & Company, coal and iron ore, also were indicted with the ten corporations for conspiracy to rebate. After a recommendation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the indictments against the three individuals were nolled when the incorporated defendants pleaded guilty.

It is understood the railroads now will take over the dock companies, which formerly operated ostensibly as independent corporations.

Far-reaching.

ERASING FROM THE MAP LINES OF THE STATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Interstate Commerce Commission, in an opinon made public today, established the far-reaching principle that a railroad must so adjust its rates that justic shall be done between communities regardless of State lines.

If a railroad makes a low rate tariff wholly within a State, even when forced to do so by a State commission, it must accord the same rate to interstate traffic moving under substantially similar conditions.

The supremacy of Federal over State laws also it set forth by the commission, this being its first utterance on that point.

THE RULING.

The ruling says:

"An interstate carrier must respect the Federal law and if it is also subjected to State law it must respect that insofar as it can without doing violence to its obligations under the national authority."

The principle was laid down by a vote of four to three. The minority held that the powers of Congress were usurped by the majority opinion and that the remedy for such a situation should be applied through additional legislation.

Chairman Prouty and Commissioners Clark and Mever concurred with Commissioner Lane, and Commissioners Clements, Harlan and McChord dissented.

A proceeding brought by the Louisiana Railroad Commission placed in issue the right of interstate carriers to discriminate in favor of State traffic and against interstate traffic.

"The gravamen of complaint," the opinion says, "is that the carrier, as defendant, made rates out of Dallas and other Texas points into Eastern Texas which are much lower than those which they extend into Texas from Shreveport, La

"A low rate within the State of Texas was forced upon the railroads by the Texas Railroad Commission in furtherance of a policy to protect and promote the jobbing interests of Texas. The Louisiana commission declared that Louisiana was being discriminated against because of the exaction of the higher rates from Shreveport westward and demanded an adjustment. The contentions of Louisiana were sustained by the commission

Fierce Fighting in Mexico.

Insurrectos Send Engine Loaded With Dynamite Into Federal Train.

Both Sides Suffer Casualties in Battle Said to Have Lasted Three Days.

Gen. Gonzales Salas Among the Wounded—Madero on the Situation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JIMINEZ (Mex.) March 24.—The rebels, after three days of fighting, claim victory today. There are many dead on both sides. Gen. Gonzales Salas, the Federal leader and late Mexican Minister of War, is among the wounded. He resigned his portfolio to take the field.

Sixty of the Federal dead were accounted for when the insurgents loaded a light engine with forty boxes of dynamite and sent it headlong into an oncoming armored train, loaded with Federal soldiers.

During the fighting around Escalon, Friday and Saturday, the rebels captured two rapid fire guns. Last night Gen. Campa fell back to the town of Corralitos, which is a few miles south of this city. Corralitos is built on an eminence and more easily defended than Escalon.

The Federals entered Escalon and today, 2000 strong, loaded on three freight trains and preceded by an armored train of three cars, began to follow up the retreating rebels.

Campa got a light engine and an engineer who agreed to accept the hazardous task of starting it after it had been loaded with the explosive. He ran it until a down grade was reached and then, opening the throttle, jumped. The wild locomotive tore down the track at terrific speed. The engineer of the armored train saw his danger and stopped but could not escape the onrushing menace. The runaway engine telescoped the engine and first car of the Federal train and derailed the last two cars. At the same instant the dynamite exploded.

Gen. Campa justified this method by declaring that in yesterday's fighting the Federals set fire to sagebrush, burning to death both their own and rebel wounded.

Gen. Campa states his force numbers 4000 men and that the Federal column is but 2000. When the armored train was destroyed, the main body of government troops in the three trains detrained and prepared to defend themselves. Meanwhile Gen. Campa had sent a strong detachment on a detour to get in their rear and destroy the railroad behind them. It was reported tonight that this maneuver was successful and that tomorrow the Federals will find themselves hemmed in by a superior force.

In the fighting of the last three days the rebels have captured thirty prisoners, six of them wounded, and an officer; captured two rapid firers, and claim to have killed about 100 of the enemy.

GOODS RELEASED FOR SHIPMENT TO MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 24.—A half-million dollars worth of grain and merchandise consigned to Mexican points, held in San Antonio and vicinity on account of uncertainty of the meaning of President Taft's proclamation bearing upon the exportations of munitions of war, was released yesterday for shipment across the border.

United States Marshal Nolle has revoked his order to apprehend shipments of foodstuffs evidently not intended for consumption by individuals to whom they were consigned.

FEDERALS BEATEN IN SIX HOURS FIGHT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, (Tex.) March 24.—An official report given out at Juarez tonight claims that in the fighting at Escalon, which continued today, the rebels scored a victory. The message was received by Col. Pascual Orozco, commander of the Juarez garrison and quoted Gen. Campa's report to Gen. Pascual Orozco, the rebel commander-in-chief. It follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that we have beaten the Federals after six hours of hard fighting, capturing two machine guns and thirty prisoners, six of the latter wounded, and about 100 Federals dead. Will give you exact number later. Among the dead was a lieutenant colonel of the twentieth batalion. I am sending a train with prisoners and wounded to Chihuahua."

FEDERAL VICTORY CLAIMED BY MADERO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, (Tex.) March 24.—Alberto Madero and other agents of the Mexican government now here, said tonight that the retreat of the rebels from Escalon as described in press despatches from Jimenez is proof of the government claim that the rebels were defeated at Escalon and retreated to save themselves

INDIANA GIVES TAFT MAJORITY.

He Wins Seven and Roosevelt Six of the Districts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, March 24.—According to complete but unofficial returns from the Republican primaries in Indiana Friday and Saturday, Roosevelt won in six and Taft in seven of the Congressional districts, and of 1439 of the delegates in the State convention, which meets here Tuesday, to elect four delegates-at-large to the national convention, Taft will be supported by 784 1-42, and Roosevelt by 646 41-42, a majority of 137 1-21 delegates for Taft. According to these figures, Taft should have eighteen of Indiana's delegates in the national convention and Roosevelt twelve.

Six of the delegates in Vanderburgh county in the First District, instructed for Roosevelt, will be contested, and two delegates in Sullivan county, Second District, are uninstructed.

Edwin M. Lee, former State chairman and head of the Roosevelt campaign in Indiana, however, claims a majority in the State convention of eighty-five. He declared Roosevelt has the Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth Districts for a total of 606 delegates.

He says the Roosevelt faction hopes to be able to unseat many delegates elected in the primaries in this (Marion) county, and the fight for the control of the convention will begin with the meeting of the Credentials Committee.

Harry S. New, national committeeman and leader of the Taft forces, tonight declared the President would be upheld by a majority of 200 in the State convention. He did not designate the districts claimed for the administration, but said the President would have eight certainly, and possibly ten districts.

"There is not the least doubt that Taft will have a majority of approximately 200 in the State convention Tuesday," said Mr. New. "He will also carry a majority of the Congressional districts, certainly eight and possibly ten. These include the first and seventh districts, which have already elected their delegates."

McKINLEY SMILES AND DIXON FROWNS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Director McKinley, in charge of the Taft headquarters, was all smiles today. The news of the failure of Senator Dixon of Montana, the Roosevelt campaign manager, to carry his own State for the colonel was the principal reason for Representative McKinley's jubilation.

Yesterday the State Committee of Montana, by a vote of 23 to 10, indorsed President Taft for renomination. According to information received at Taft headquarters, several members of the committee voted against the President's indorsement out of regard for Senator Dixon's official position in the Roosevelt campaign.

"The action of the State Committee of Montana," said Director McKinley, "merely reflects the actual sentiment among the voters as it has been known to exist to the managers of President Taft for some time. There never has been any question in my mind that Montana's eight votes to the Republican national convention would be cast for the President's renomination."

THE INDIANA SITUATION.

Conflicting Statements Are Made But McKinley Insists Taft Has the Majority There.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Conflicting claims about the results of the Republican primaries in Indiana on Saturday are made by the national Taft bureau and the Roosevelt Executive Committee here:

Director McKinley of the Taft bureau issued tonight this statement:

"The latest advices from Indiana indicate beyond a doubt that the Taft people control the State convention by a majority of at least 250 and will send four delegates at large instructed for Taft on Tuesday, March 26. It is settled beyond question that Taft will have twenty-two out of the thirty in the State. The First and Seventh districts already have sent instructed delegates and it is absolutely certain that Taft delegates will be sent from the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth and Thirteenth districts.

"The Eleventh District, with its two delegates, is conceded to Roosevelt. The Sixth, Eighth and Twelfth districts are so close that it is doubtful if the result is known until the conventions are held. The probabilities are that the Taft people will get two out of these three.

"The Third, Fourth, Fifth and Eleventh districts will hold their conventions on Monday, March 25. The Second, Sixth, Ninth and Tenth districts will hold their conventions on March 28, the Thirteenth District on April 2 and the Twelfth District on April 27."

THORNS ON THE STICK.

LYON IS STUNG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) March 23.—H. C. MacGregor, Texas campaign manager for President Taft, replied today to the Roosevelt charge that the Taft forces were using the newspapers of Texas in an effort to force Federal officeholders in line for the President.

After declaring that Cecil A. Lyon, Roosevelt leader in Texas, had solicited contributions from Federal appointees, the manager says:

"There are 2000 Federal officeholders in Texas, the bulk of whom I do not know, and not wishing them to be influenced by such methods I used the newspapers of the State to notify the loyal Taft people they could assert their independence and not suffer therefrom, if I had any influence that would prevent it.

"There is nothing new about the proposition that the State chairman (Mr. Lyon) has been building up an organization with the patronage as the 'big stick' and I merely wanted the people of Texas to know that he no longer holds it."

MARINES IN CHARGE.

Americans Take Charge of a Haytien Gun Boat on Which There Was a Mutiny.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHARLESTON (S. C.) March 24.—United States Marines from the revenue cutter Yamacraw are in charge of the Haytien gun boat Ferrier, whose crew mutinied here today.

The men went on strike because they had not received their pay for three months and fearing serious trouble commanding officer William F. Watts called upon Capt. West of the Yamacraw for protection. The United States officer sent Lieut. Brookwater and fifteen marines to the gunboat and they are keeping watch over the mutinous sailors.

Rhode Island Woman Inherits Vast Estate of California Forty-niner and Alaska Gold Miner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A loving inscription on a photograph of herself which she sent to her uncle, John J. McGrath, in Juneau, Alaska, sixteen years ago has brought an estate worth millions to Mrs. Margaret O'Neil Berry of this city, her father, brothers and sisters.

McGrath was a California forty-niner. He was one of the first to enter Alaska when gold was discovered there. Last January he died in a San Francisco hotel and the only clew to his relatives was a photograph of a 15-year-old girl in an inside pocket of his coat. Miss O'Neil's name and address were on the back and she was located through the San Francisco and Providence police.

Since she sent the photograph to her uncle she has married and she is still working in a department store.

The administrator of the estate has informed her that she and her relatives will inherit the property, and one of them is to go to Juneau. McGrath was 72 years old when he died.

RALLY AT STOCKTON.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON (Cal.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With flying colors and inspiring music, 1500 Knights of Columbus paraded Main street this morning and then marched to St. Mary's Catholic Church, where low mass was celebrated. The parade was formed at the Southern Pacific depot, where the local members of the order met nearly 1000 visitors who came in on special excursion trains.

The occasion of the visit was the district initiation of sixty candidates by Stockton Council, No. 1311. The first train brought 450 delegates from San Francisco, Oakland and other bay points, the next 350 from Sacramento and Chico, while large numbers came from distant points on regular trains. Many of the delegates were accompanied by their wives, for whom entertainment was provided by the Young Ladies' Institute of this city. The ladies of Weber Institute No. 49 served the visitors with luncheon. In the afternoon a team from Sacramento conferred the second degree and soon afterwards the third degree was exemplified by the State team, headed by Deputy Neal Power. Later the Sacramento council band gave a concert on Hunter square.

CARNEGIE WORK IS SUMMARIZED.

Fifteen Recipients of Allowances Pass Away.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—The sixth annual report of the president and the treasurer of the Carnegie Foundation covers the year ending September 30, 1911.

The endowment amounted at that time to $12,123,000, comprising Mr. Carnegie's original gift of $10,000,000 in 1905, an accumulation from income of $1,123,000, and $1,000,000 received in 1911 as the first installment of Mr. Carnegie's additional gift of $5,000,000 in 1908.

Of the income of $590,000 for the year 1910-1911, $526,000 was expended in retiring allowances and pensions, $36,000 in general administration, and $16,000 in educational publication. Fifteen recipients of allowances died during the year, including Professors Bowditch of Harvard, Corson of Cornell, Harrison of Virginia, and March of Lafayette. Thirty-one retiring allowances and seventeen widow's pensions were granted during the year, increasing the number in force to 373, the average annual payment being $1631, and the total distribution to date $1,746,000. All of the new allowances were granted to persons connected with institutions that are on the accepted list of the Foundation, other allowances proving inexpedient as expenditure has approximated the income and as the accepted list has enlarged. This list now includes seventy-two universities, colleges, and schools of technology, the University of Virginia having been added during the year.

The presidents of Harvard University, Indiana University, and Vassar College were elected to membership in the board of twenty-five trustees, which is composed of university and college presidents and financiers. No grants having been made under the rule permitting allowances to presidents and other administrative officers after twenty-five years of service terminating before the age of sixty-five, the trustees rescinded it and established a new rule, under which the Foundation will continue to a professor when he reaches sixty-five, an allowance begun by his own institution at the expiration of twenty-five years of professorial service or thirty years as instructor and professor.

In theological education the report points out a hitherto unnoticed increase in attendance since the recognized decline which terminated in 1905. A study of the attendance in theological seminaries disproves the claim that denominational colleges are the chief source from which students enter the seminaries. In the colleges themselves there is noted a genuine gain in religious education, due to a decline in the severity of both doctrinal teaching and scientific opposition, and to a new emphasis on the fundamentals of religious faith and living.

Politics still play a large part in the appointment and dismissal of State university boards, presidents and professors, and in lobbying for legislative funds. Public criticism of recent action of this sort in Kentucky and Oklahoma, however, indicates a movement toward a more careful constitution of governing boards. The influence of organized alumni also needs to be more carefully directed, so that instead of insisting on low athletic ideals as recently in Michigan and Alabama, it shall become a real educational influence.

In general, the sense of public obligation to the cause of education appears to be stronger and more widespread than ever, but the time has plainly come when private and local initiative need more guidance from the point of view of the State and of the nation. Education is the most important interest in any nation, and is nowhere so important as in a nation in which every citizen assumes full political responsibility.

"ALL TOMMYROT," SAYS JOHNSON.

COURTS OF ENGLAND NO BETTER THAN HERE.

Honored by the Bar Association, Cites Statistics to Prove that Divorce Is More Common Abroad Than the "Reformers" Would Believe.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "All tommyrot" is the way Grove L. Johnson characterizes some of the oft-declared superiority of the courts of Europe over those of this country.

Returning from a trip of a year in foreign lands, the father of the Governor was the guest of honor at a banquet by the Bar Association last night. He described the courts of England and their methods of procedure, declaring that technicalities are more forced there and that the laws and courts of England do not compare with those of California, particularly the criminal courts.

"I sometimes hear people tell about how they do things in England, and it makes me sick. I have investigated, and I know better than these things I have been told. To use the expression of a certain distinguished reformer in California, it is all tommy rot. And I remember how many times have I been told that there are more divorces in this country than in England. I believe it is said there are but nine divorces in England in one month. Well, the record I found in London was this:

"June 20, 1911, thirty-two divorces: July 25, forty-four; August 1, there were sixteen and December 6, because it was cold weather I suppose, there were but fifteen. Now, there is a record of 107 divorces in four days, which is going some, even for staid old England."

OUTLAWS ON THE DODGE.

The Allens Elude Their Pursuers, But Sidna Edwards Hopes They Will All Surrender.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALAX (Va.) March 24.—Claude Allen, the 22-year-old son of Floyd Allen and one of those indicted for the Hillsville Courthouse murders, has cleanly eluded all pursuers, but his uncle, Sidna Allen, and his cousins, Wesley Edwards and Friel Allen, are pressed so closely on the south side of the Blue Ridge that they probably will be captured within three days.

Claude Allen, who once attended a military school at Raleigh, N. C., and knows more of the outside world than the average mountaineer, it was learned today, took a pocketful of gold from the family cash drawer on the night of the tragedy, put on his best clothes and vanished on horseback beyond the North Carolina line. Hope of finding him in the mountain region has been abandoned.

The three other outlaws are dodging about in the crevices of the Blue Ridge between here and Mt. Airy, N. C. They have been seen at a distance.

"I hope they will all give themselves up. They had better do it, for they have no chance at all," was the comment of Sidna Edwards, likewise indicted for murder, who was taken today for safekeeping from Hillsville to the Roanoke jail, where he joined his uncle, Floyd Allen, his cousin, Victor Allen, and his chum, Byrd Marion, all indicted for complicity in the Courthouse shooting.

BRIGANDS SLAY CHILDREN.

American Missionary and Wife Ar rive at San Francisco After Fearfu Experience in China.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Their two children, Oscar, aged 13, and Hulda, aged 12, murdered with eight missionaries in a schoolhouse in the walled city of Sianfu, Northwestern China, when the revolution broke out October 22 last, the Rev. Solomon Bergstrom and his wife returned to America yesterday on the Pacific Mail liner Nile.

The Rev. Mr. Bergstrom and his wife spent twenty-one years in missionary work in China. With their four children they were fleeing from the revolutionary-ridden country when their two little ones were murdered.

"We were in Hingping, a walled city thirty-three miles from Sianfu, when our boy and girl were murdered by the irresponsible and savage brigands," said Dr. Bergstrom.

"Oscar and Hulda had gone ahead with another small party to Sianfu, where we expected to join them a few days later.

"When we heard the news of the murder we were ourselves in great danger and unable to even go to Sianfu and see that they were given a Christian burial.

"Later we heard that their bodies were buried by the few remaining missionaries in the besieged town."

San Francisco Chinamen Cause Arrest of an Oriental for Murder Done Thirteen Years Ago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Constant vigilance and the unfailing trait of the oriental to remember a face once seen, bridged thirteen years and resulted in Ah Hin, a Chinese, being placed in the city prison with a charge of murder lodged against him.

Thirteen years ago, Ah Hin was employed as cook on the famous old Spansbury ranch, on the outskirts of Chico in the northern part of the State.

Hin's accusers say that through a conspiracy, in which Hin was the chief factor, eight Chinese were poisoned. Five recovered and two died. One man was buried and forgotten, as he had no friends, but the other, Ah Jim, had friends on the ranch who, after Hin's sudden departure, set about to bring him to justice.

In the years which have elapsed since the death of Ah Jim the dead Chinaman's friends have pursued a ceaseless and unremitting search for Ah Hin. Chinese in Chico yesterday received word, from a hidden source, that Ah Hin had been seen in this city.

Endeavors to Interview Prisoners and Carrying Concealed Whole Kit of Jail-Breaking Instruments.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) March 24.—A daring scheme to carry aid to prisoners in jail was halted last night when Sheriff L. A. Thomas took the precaution to search a young woman visitor. She claimed to be a sister of George Muir, alias George Kidd, and asked permission to communicate with Muir and his accomplice, Paul Webster, arrested last Wednesday night on the charge of opium smuggling.

Hidden in the bosom of her dress was a 38-caliber revolver and a box of cartridges. From her stockings were taken a dozen new steel saws and a bottle of oil used in the operation of sawing steel bars.

The woman gave her name as Georgia Allen and said her home was in Vancouver, B. C. She was detained on charges of carrying concealed weapons and attempting to offer aid to prisoners.

Mines and Smelters of Mexico Must Soon Close Unless Explosives Can Be Shipped Through.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) March 24.—Thousands of men employed in the mines and smelters of Sonora, Mex., will be thrown out of work unless the embargo placed on dynamite by President Taft's proclamation is removed within the next ten days, according to the forwarding agents for these companies in Nogales.

The embargo has caused the accumulation of dynamite, fuse and caps at all of the principal border ports and much uneasiness is being displayed by mining men who are dependent upon frequent shipments of explosives from the United States. They declare that the absence of revolutionary activities in Sonora should result in a lifting of the embargo at ports of entry into that State.

Oregon Fireman Goes Out On The Pilot to Snatch Infant From the Rails.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HEPPNER (Or.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ed. Templeton, a fireman on the Heppner train, with the assistance of engineer L. M. Woodworth, made a sensational rescue of a small baby on their run to Heppner from Heppner Junction.

Just befort leaving Ione the engineer saw far ahead in the middle of the track a baby girl, which turned its head towards the oncoming danger and complacently watched the approach of the train, apparently not realizing that its life was in danger.

Woodworth immediately applied the emergency brakes and shouted to Templeton. It was impossible to bring the train to a stop before reaching the spot where sat the little girl. Templeton rushed out on the pilot just as the train approached the child and, reaching down, picked her from the rails, and deposited her safely on the pilot beside him. A few seconds later the engineer brought the train to a stop.

Sullen Rage.

SON MORTALLY WOUNDS FATHER

Lodi Cigar Dealer Shot for Administering Rebuke.

Boy Rushes for Pistol When Asked to Take Walk.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LODI (Cal.) March 24.—H. O. Wilson, a cigar dealer of this city, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded today by his 17-year-old son, Philip, when his father suggested to the boy that he take a walk to improve the despondent and sullen disposition which he had manifested for two days. Wilson was rushed to a private hospital, where it was found the bullet had lodged in his abdomen. Philip Wilson, who is a pupil in the grammar school here, gave himself up and was taken to jail at Stockton after he had refused to make a statement.

Members of the family said the boy had flown into a rage when his father reproved him for his sulkiness, rushed into an adjoining room for his father's revolver, and deliberately fired the shot. No reason has been found for his singular despondency.

LOS ANGELES CAPITAL.

MERGER OF PROPERTIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, March 24.—Sale of the Mount Hood Railway properties to the Portland Railway Light & Power Company, negotiations for which have been in progress for more than a year were completed late yesterday. The consideration is said to involve $2,000,000 or $3,000,000. The Mount Hood road was financed by Los Angeles capitalists.

THE TONGS ARE TONGING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE (Cal.) March 24.—Leo Sun, a Hop Sing Tong Chinaman, received wounds of which he died late this afternoon in a pistol fight in North Market street which started when Leo attempted to shoot down Chow Soon of the Sen Suey Yings while the latter was being taken to the County Jail from the City Prison between Detectives John Guerin and Charles Hertel of the police department. Leo Sun jumped from behind a pillar at the North Market-street firehouse as the party passed and opened fire with two pistols, wounding the other Chinaman in the thigh. As Chow Soon dropped to the pavement the two detectives opened fire. Leo Sun turned to run, but was dropped at the door of the firehouse.

The police do not understand the tong trouble back of the shooting. Chow Soon was in jail as the result of a personal quarrel with another Chinaman last July when he beat Kong Hong over the head with a pistol. He was brought here yesterday from San Francisco, where he was arrested.

A TETRAZZINI TABLET.

Bas-relief in Bronze Is Unveiled in San Francisco Where She Joins with Children in a Song.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—A bronze tablet in bas-relief of Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini was unveiled here today to commemorate the appearance of the diva at Lotta's Fountain Christmas Eve, 1910.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr. made the principal address to a large gathering. Mme. Tetrazzini joined with a chorus of Italian children in singing the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The bronze tablet was designed by Haig Patigan of San Francisco. It adorns the fountain erected at Third and Market streets by Lotta Crabtree, the California actress, in 1875, and marks the spot where Mme. Tetrazzini sang in the open air on Christmas Eve for the people of San Francisco.

THE EXCEPTION IS NOTED.

One of Gov. West's Favorites as an Honor Man Makes Good by Returning to the Penitentiary.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALEM (Or.) March 24.—Joseph McMillan, an "honor" convict released from the State Penitentiary to work in the tuberculosis hospital, who broke faith and fled to Oakland, Cal., returned unattended to the hospital early today.

McMillan, after voluntarily giving himself up in San Francisco, professed regret for his ingratitude and was allowed to come north without a guard. He has eighteen months of a two-year sentence for forgery yet to serve.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

A Gift to Willamette.

PORTLAND (Or.) March 24.—P. W. Severson, a wealthy pioneer of this city gave $100,000 yesterday to the Willamette University, and $50,000 each to the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. of Portland.

Havemeyer Stricken.

SAN MATEO (Cal.) March 24.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] William Havemeyer of Chicago, son of the late W. A. Havemeyer, the sugar magnate, is seriously ill at a sanitarium here of heart trouble. His wife is now on the way here from Chicago. Havemeyer came West several months ago to visit his mother at Piedmont. Shortly after his arrival he was taken ill.

Crack Saloon Safe.

Admiral Reynolds Arrives.

Leper Early Has Job.

TACOMA, March 24.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] John R. Early, the Summit leper, started for his new home at Diamond Point, near Port Townsend, yesterday to become an attendant at the hospital there with a pension and salary amounting to $80 a month. The Spanish-American War veterans are raising a fund to build a house for his family near the hospital.

THE NEW YORK PRIMARIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—The delegation of eighty-six district representatives which New York State will send to the Republican national convention will be elected Tuesday at State-wide primaries, the first to be held under the new law.

The line drawn by the vote in New York City will be practically the only index as to the popular preferences toward the candidacies of President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt, except for the Utica district, where Theodore Robinson, Col. Roosevelt's nephew, is running, and the Twenty-sixth District, where Lawrence Abbott, of the Outlook, has been nominated.

The Democrats also hold their primaries Tuesday but will elect only delegates to their State convention, as they have chosen, under the privilege of the law, to allow the State gathering to select the delegates to the Baltimore convention.

ORGANIZING TAFT CLUBS THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Increase of President's Increasing Popularity in California Is Reflected by Demands Upon Headquarters at San Francisco for Speakers—Preparation of Nominating Petitions Will Soon Be Completed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports of the increasing strength of President Taft's candidacy throughout the State are being received daily at the headquarters of the Taft Republicans of California, in the Hotel St. Francis. One of the best indications thus far given in tangible form is the large number of applications received from small towns and cities for speakers from headquarters to aid in organizing of local clubs in the counties.

In the San Francisco Bay section, the campaign is going under a full head of steam. Verification deputy chiefs are looking over the field in this city and all the surrounding counties, and reported today that the work of getting the necessary signatures to the nominating petitions will be completed within a few days, and the petitions filed with the county clerks.

Deputies are already engaged in each of the counties from one end of the State to another, and are ready to go into the field on Monday and rush the work of getting the signatures with all speed. From the outlying sections the reports are most encouraging to Col. Hammond and Vice-Chairman, Philip S. Teller.

W. W. Barham, chairman of the Republican County Committee, of Siskiyou county, called on Col. Hammond today and told of the conditions in his section.

"We had quite an interesting situation in Siskiyou two years ago," said Barham. "The party split into two factions, which called themselves regulars and progressives, and the progressives won the victory for Gov. Johnson. It was a fine, healthy fight on State issues; but it never was thought that it would seriously effect the solidity of the party in Siskiyou. And that view of it was right.

"In this campaign all Republicans in Siskiyou are united. It is a national campaign, where personalities are cutting no figure, but where the fight is on the issue of whether or not the Republican party is to be destroyed merely because a man who seeks a third term is attempting to usurp the place of the second-term candidate, President Taft."

HEALTH HYGIENE EXHIBITIONS.

Discoveries of Great Import May Be Announced.

Standardization of Methods in Various States.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Great medical discoveries which may startle the world, will, it is expected, be announced when the International Congress of Hygiene and Demography meets in this city next September. The Washington meeting will be the first held in the United States by the congress since its organization. In connection with the congress there will be one of the most elaborate "exhibitions on health" ever assembled. The exhibit will be opened in the second week of September and will last for three weeks.

The congress has behind it the history of giving formal indorsement to such epoch-making discoveries as the Pasteur treatment for rabies and the anti-toxin treatment for diphtheria and giving to the world the knowledge which enables medical practitioners everywhere to take advantage of these discoveries. It is expected that the congress will mark a greater step in the advancement of health than has any previous congress.

The congress will be the first at which the United States has had appropriate representation. The Governors of forty-three States already have appointed committees of representative physicians, health officers and authorities on hygiene to take part in the discussions in the congress and to arrange State exhibits.

Twenty-five foreign countries, too, have signified their intention of being represented at the congress and the exhibition. Last week hotel accommodations were arranged for a delegation of 300 from Germany alone. Whatever may be the announcements of medical discoveries at the forthcoming congress which may parallel the Von Behring announcement of diphtheria anti-toxin, in 1893 and the Pasteur anti-rabic treatment in 1889, it is intended that the Fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography shall bring about a standardization of hygienic methods throughout the United States and the world. This purpose is well outlined in the formal announcement of the exhibition of health which the Department of State has just issued and which specifies that "one of the pressing needs of the times is the standardization of hygienic methods and the co-ordination of work of Federal, State, municipal and private health agencies."

"The work of the congress is of special importance to the government and citizens of the United States," said Dr. John S. Fulton, secretary-general of the organization. "The congress will bring together about 3000 of the most distinguished specialists, and other thousands will be attracted by the exhibition. Problems of the greatest importance to the United States will be discussed in the sections and illustrated in the exhibition."

NO PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY.

Republican State Committee of Montana Defeats the Proposition By Vote of Eleven to Twenty-Six.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) March 24.—The Republican State Committee of Montana, after a stormy session last night, defeated a proposition for a Presidential primary, by a vote of 11 to 26, and indorsed President Taft for renomination by a vote of 27 to 10. Following adjournment the progressive members of the committee met to consider calling a progressive convention.

FORECAST DIXON'S DEFEAT.

His Failure to Get Primaries in His Own State May Lose Him His Toga.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) March 24.—Defeated in their efforts to have the State Central Committee call a State-wide Presidential preference primary, Montana insurgents agreed today to continue the fight for a primary through the medium of the county organizations. They claim control of twelve of the thirty-one county organizations and plan to have the corresponding county committees order county primaries. It is purposed to have the county committees adopt rules which will bind the delegates to the State convention to abide by the will of the majority of the voters in the respective counties.

Taft supporters claim their victory in the committee forecasts the probable defeat of United States Senator Dixon when he comes up for renomination before the State convention, the last Legislature having passed a law requiring the nomination of Senatorial candidates by party convention and the expression of party choice at the polls.

ANGELENOS FLAYED.

Divorce-Seekers at Goldfield Called Audacious Pair of Affinities by Judge of the District Court.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fred E. Lehman, a chicken commission merchant of Los Angeles, was verbally flayed by Judge Somers, of the District Court, yesterday, after the later had listened to his application for divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

The evidence showed that Lehman and Mrs. Grace Lucille Clancy, wife of Thomas L. Clancy of Los Angeles, also an applicant for divorce, came together to Goldfield. The woman occupied a bungalow adjoining the Courthouse where it is alleged Lehman was a frequent visitor.

Lehman said the woman was his adopted sister, having been reared in his father's family until she was 16 years of age. The court asked for references in his old home to confirm the sister theory, and the plaintiff grew confused. Then the judge turned loose his batteries, stating that the conduct of the pair in "establishing residence in the shadow of the Courthouse" was "a bold defiance of morality and decency," and declared that, although the laws required a six months' residence, it did not imply that the State "was to become the dumping ground for divorcees and their affinities."

WILSON ON THE CANAL.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) March 24.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey invaded Wisconsin yesterday in connection with his campaign for the Presidential nomination and for delegates from Wisconsin to the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore. He delivered one address in Fond du Lac yesterday afternoon and two in Milwaukee last night, the audience being large in each instance.

Speaking of the Panama Canal he said the private individual would be unable to secure capital with which to build ships to carry freight, and that the railroads were the only ones that would be able to borrow money. "If the railroads are going to build ships who is going to determine the freight charges?" he asked.

DEMOCRATIC PLANS.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Headquarters for the Democratic national committee will be in Chicago after the convention in Baltimore in June, according to Edward Sefton of New York, assistant secretary of the committe, who came to Chicago from Indianapolis last night. He found a telegram awaiting him from Secretary Urey Woodson telling him of the plan. Mr. Sefton made tentative arrangements at a downtown hotel for quarters for the committee.

BY THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—A decision by President Taft that Federal office holders may act as delegates to conventions called for the purpose of revising State Constitutions was made public yesterday by the Civil Service Commission. The decision does not change the rule which forbids classified employees of the government from taking part in the management of political campaigns or acting as delegates to political conventions.

SCHOOL TEACHER INDICTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) March 24.—Miss Iva White, a school teacher of Easton, this county, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday for an alleged brutal whipping of Harold White, a pupil. Miss White says she was compelled to punish the boy to maintain discipline.

A WAY OUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin College, addressing the Oberlin Alumni Association of Illinois, at a dinner here yesterday, declared he was opposed to paying a football coach twice as much for a few weeks' service as an instructor in mathematics is paid for an entire year. "I could not have much respect for myself and do such a thing," President King said. "So when another institution offered our coach twice as much as we were paying, we let him go and had a member of the faculty do the coaching. This faculty member got the team in such trim that it beat the school which had taken our man from us."

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DULUTH (Minn.) March 24.—Public ownership leaders, aiming to drive from the Council the Aldermen hostile to establishing a municipal lighting plant, secured last night the charter commission's indorsement of a recall amendment to the city charter. It will now go to the Council and be submitted to the people at an election early in June. The City Council has a majority against public ownership, although it carried by popular vote at the recent municipal election.

HELD FOR MURDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 24.—George Mulkey of this city was arraigned yesterday charged with the murder of his grandmother, Mrs. Esther Cheatham, 68 years old, who died. It is charged, as the result of blows administered by Mulkey. The prisoner's bond was fixed at $10,000, and he was taken to jail to await his preliminary hearing.

HOMELESS AND LEGLESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELGIN (Ill.) March 24.—James Rose, who called himself "a man without a home," was found with both legs cut off, lying beside the Chicago and Northwestern tracks near here today. Two hours previous, he had made a futile house-to-house canvass attempting to get sufficient money for the amputation of an infected leg. Surgeons said that Rose would die. He is 54 years old.

OLDEST PILOT DEAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JEFFERSONVILLE (Ind.) March 24.—Andrew Ferguson, aged 82 years, said to have been the oldest licensed steamboat pilot in the United States, died here yesterday of pneumonia.

Sixty-second Congress.

INVESTIGATION RUNS RAMPANT.

Report in Steel Case Is Expected by May.

Money, Shipping and Strikes Are on Calendar.

Senate Bribery Cases to Be Ended This Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Since the Democrats came into control of the House last spring, this has been an investigating Congress.

The steel inquiry has been under way nearly a year and may close this week.

The report, which probably will be made by May, will be a series of recommendations. One of them is almost certain to be that large corporations, such as the United States Steel corporation, should not own or control common carriers.

The inquiry into the sugar refining company closed some time ago, and while the report recommended no legislation, the data collected was used by Democratic leaders in framing the free sugar bill, which has passed the House and is now up to the Senate.

Investigations into the "money trust" and the shipping combine are about to get under way.

The inquiry into the shipping combine by the committee on merchant marine probably will begin within a week.

The rules committee this week will take up the Lawrence mills strike conditions, which were the sensation of public hearings recently, and may order an inquiry into the affairs of the American Woolen Company. Another hearing that has been going on concerns the circumstances under which the United States took over the Panama Canal strip and demands of Colombia that her claims for damages be submitted to The Hague.

A resolution proposing an investigation of the baseball trust will be taken up by the rules committee this week. The general feeling is that it will be reported adversely.

Of all the standing committees that have been investigating government departments since last summer, none has made a report.

The War Department committee's investigation of alleged political activities of Maj. Beecher B. Ray still is in progress. The State Department committee, headed by Representative Hamlin of Missouri, is planning recommendations to change the department's system of accounting.

An inquiry into the Indian bureau is to be conducted by the Interior Department committee, headed by Representative Graham of Illinois.

Senator Stephenson's case will come up in the Senate tomorrow and probably will be discussed until Wednesday. His supporters claim a safe majority for him.

Senator Lorimer's case comes to a vote before the special investigating committee on Wednesday. His supporters hazard no prediction as to the outcome in the Senate.

Leaders of both parties are making efforts to adjourn Congress before the national convention. In the House June 10 has been set tentatively as the date for which the leaders aim. Senate leaders are co-operating in this.

WANAMAKER IS FOR TAFT.

Merchant Prince and Former Postmaster-General Is Candidate for Delegate to Nominating Convention.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—The time for filing petitions of candidates for delegates to the national conventions for the State-wide primary election on April 13 closed last night. All records for the number of petitions filed in this city were broken.

The regular Republicans filed a full list of candidates for national delegates who favor the renomination of President Taft. Among those on this list are John Wanamaker, E. T. Stotesbury, and Edgar F. Smith, provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

A full list of candidates also was filed by Roosevelt Republicans. Among the names appear William Draper Lewis, dean of the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, and Samuel Crothers, a leader of the reform element of this city.

The Democratic organization filed a complete list of candidates for national delegates who favor Woodrow Wilson. "Reorganization Democrats" handed in a list of national Democratic candidates who will favor Gov. Wilson. Another full list was filed in the interest of Champ Clark. Only one petition filed was in behalf of Judson Harmon.

"FIGHTING MARINE" DIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Robert F. Wynne, former captain in the United States Marine Corps, known in that service as the "fighting marine," died here today at the home of his father, former Postmaster-General Robert Wynne. Capt. Wynne was 26 years old. He died of tuberculosis, contracted in China during the campaign against the Boxers.

Capt. Wynne had a spectacular career, that earned for him his nickname. He served in Cuba, the Philippines and China and received the thanks of Congress and several medals. He resigned from the service after a dramatic court-martial several years ago.

Former President Roosevelt accepted Capt. Wynne's resignation because of Capt. Wynne's splendid record. His friends believe that his gradual decline in health was due largely to his forced retirement.

WORK OF AN ASSASSIN.

Prince-Governor of the Island Is Laid Low by a Bullet—A Political Crusade On.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 24.—Andree Kepassis Effendi, Prince-Governor of the island of Samos, was assassinated today by a Greek who fired several shots at him. The assassin was arrested. The crime was due to a political crusade against the Prince-Governor, against whom the enmity of the Hellenic party in the island had been directed since his appointment as ruler by Turkey in 1907.

CANDIATES IN A WRANGLE.

Each Wants to Be Elected United States Senator First By Legislature That Meets in Phoenix Tomorrow.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 24.—Because of the advisory Senatorial primary held in connection with the first State election on December 12 last, there will be no contest over the election of United States Senators in Arizona. However, a controversy has arisen over the matter of precedence in the election by the Legislature, the date which has been fixed for Tuesday.

Friends of Henry F. Ashurst of Prescott, one of the two successful candidates, hold that he should be elected first because of his receiving the highest number of votes at the primary. An additional reason given is that Ashurst was not so conservative in his views as his colleague, Marcus A. Smith of Tucson.

Supporters of Smith desire the honor for him, arguing his long service as delegate in Congress from Arizona.

In any event, it is practically certain that, in view of the Senatorial deadlock in New Mexico, the Arizona Senators will be selected and sworn in before the new Senators from the neighboring State.

The report of the Rules Committee of the House, including a drastic anti-lobbying measure, which is said to have the strong support of Gov. Hunt, will be ready for consideration by the Legislature tomorrow.

SOCIALISTS LIKE ROOSEVELT.

They Make Their Announcements on Sundays so as to Get in the Papers on a Day of Light News.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, March 24.—The Socialists Committee of thirty-eight, which is planning a recall campaign against Mayor Mott, and Commissioners Turner and Baccus, held another stormy session today, and revised the list of reasons alleged for the ouster proceedings.

Last Sunday this committee set aside the list drawn up at a mass meeting several weeks ago, and framed a list of its own. Today after much acrid debate, the committee reinstated the mass meeting's list and added several items thereto. P. M. Emery of Oakland was chosen manager of the recall crusade. Petitions, it is said, will be circulated this week.

In general, the complaint against the trio seems to be that they have been not favorable to union labor.

SLEUTHS GUARD NICOLL.

New York Attorney Receives Letter Demanding Ten Thousand Dollars and Threatening Harm.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—Detectives last night guarded the home of De Lancy Nicoll, counsel for Mortimer L. Schiff, in the Folke E. Brandt case, and at present engaged as counsel for the defense in the "sugar trust" criminal trial here, and sought for traces of blackmailers who in a letter to Mr. Nicoll two days ago, demanded instant payment of $10,000. Mr. Nicoll was warned that the last call was to come at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when, if he had not paid the money, something unpleasant would happen to him. Mr. Nicoll said he was not greatly alarmed. Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty expressed belief that the leter had been written by a crank.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

Mob of Fort Smith Men Heedless of His Prayers for Mercy, Hang Him to a Pole.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FORT SMITH (Ark.) March 24.—A mob broke into the City Jail here last night and seized an unidentified negro who previously had shot and probably fatally wounded Deputy Constable Andrew Carr. The black was dragged through the principal business streets in town to the front of a hotel and hanged to a telephone pole. Five hundred men were in the mob. They surged around the jail for almost an hour. After trying to batter down a steel door with a telephone pole, members of the mob tore the bars from a window of the prison and soon thereafter took out the negro. He prayed for his life as he was dragged away. The police did not attempt to interfere.

"FATHER" OF HOUSE DIES.

Gen. Henry H. Bingham, Member of Congress From Pennsylvania, Passes Away at His Home.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—Gen. Henry H. Bingham, member of Congress from the First Pennsylvania District and "Father of the House," died at his home here. He had been a member of the House continuously since March 4, 1879. He was 71 years old. Gen. Bingham had been ill for a long time from a complication of diseases.

FEARS A GRAB IN COLOMBIA.

Says Bogota's Indemnity Demand Causes Worry.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Additional light on the efforts of Germany to strengthen her influence and her position in South and Central America and especially along the Colombian coast, near the northern entrance to the Panama Canal, is cast by a high naval officer, who recently returned from Central America after passing several months there on confidential business for the Navy Department.

This officer's attention had already been called to the information published a fortnight ago of the negotiations between Germany and Colombia for the lease or sale of certain harbors on Colombia's Atlantic coast and of the coincident revival in Washington of Colombia's claim for a heavy indemnity from the United States for the alleged "rape of Panama."

"You have had all the confirmation that could be had without admissions from the President of the United States, the President of Colombia and the German Emperor," was his comment on the revelation.

This officer pointed out the importance of that government's activities in American waters in terms which lose nothing of their significance when taken in connection with the statement sent out by the Associated Press from Washington last Friday night, that the prime purpose of the Secretary of State's trip to Latin America is said to be "the foundation for closer relations between the United States and Latin America to anticipate any possible European aggression in commerce or diplomacy."

"I know," he said, "that the Colombian matter is receiving the most grave consideration and that it has received grave consideration on the part of the United States government for some months. It is undoubtedly true that the leading European nations would be glad to gain a foothold on the Western hemisphere if they thought the United States could be caught in a position in which she would be unable to uphold the Monroe Doctrine. There are certainly several ports in Colombian territory which would be particularly valuable to Germany.

"I cannot tell you what I learned while I was in Central America," he said. "It would be wrong for me to tell you that I verified the report that Germany has negotiated with Colombia for harbors. But I will say this, Germany has been active in all parts of the world and today is one of the most progressive nations. She has been progressive for a score of years and would see that she has reason to seek new territory, whether it be in the western hemisphere or elsewhere."

SIT WITH BLURRED VISIONS AT GOETHE MEMORIAD.

Ambassador Von Bernsdorf Is the Principal Speaker at Elaborate Exercises and Participates in Dramatic Scene as Orchestra Concludes Thrilling Strains.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Count Johann Heinrich Von Bernsdorf, German Ambassador to the United States, was the principal speaker at a great gathering of Chicago German-Americans at the Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe memorial service in the Auditorium this afternoon.

A considerable part of the memorial programme was musical and there was no warmer tribute to the German poet in the eulogistic speeches than in the singing of simple old German "Lieder" by soloists and by the Vereingte Mannerchor of Chicago, five hundred male voices.

The German Ambassador watched seriously as the orchestra sounded a full major chord and the big body of singers rose. With muted violins accompanying, the chorus swept into Goethe's "Roeslein auf der Haide," the familiar old folk song taught to the children in the elementary schools of the fatherland, if they have not already learned it at their mother's knee.

The Ambassador evidently had learned it, for with the 3000 in the audience he started as the first words struck him. Men sank deep in their seats, women leaned forward. Somehow lumpy was going up in 3000 throats and most of those in the vast audience wept.

At the end there was a pause and a audible sob from the audience. The Ambassador jumped to his feet and stopped quickly toward the leader of the chorus, Herr Ohlmar Olden, seized his hand, then with a smile dropped the hand and hugged him in vigorous German fashion. The conductor fairly beamed.

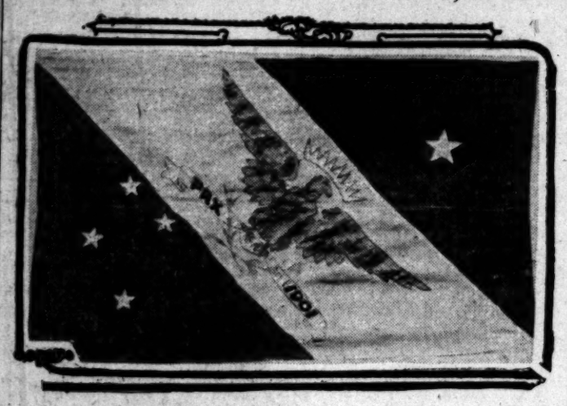
Would Grace World's Palace of Peace.



Treasured by Its Los Angeles Owner.

The Peace Flag that floated over the Pan-American Exposition when the beloved President McKinley was assassinated.

Edward J. Sullivan, who has been a world traveler and who was for some time in the diplomatic service and now has business interests in this city and San Diego, has among his treasures the Peace Flag that floated over the Temple of Music at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo when President McKinley was assassinated, September 6, 1901, by Leon F. Czolgosz. Sullivan was a friend of the martyred President, and was a frequent visitor to his home in Canton, O., as well as to the executive offices in Washington.

Sullivan is also the possessor of photographs and other mementoes signed by President McKinley and Mrs. McKinley. He believes the historic flag should fly over the Palace of Peace at The Hague, as President McKinley was the first to proclaim universal peace among nations. His last words will be forever remembered:

"It is God's way; His will be done."

"DEVIL OF WYNOOCHE" LIVES UP TO REPUTATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At large in a wilderness as large as Massachusetts, armed with at least three rifles and two revolvers, possessing ammunition, food and clothing to last him a year and carrying a warrant for his own arrest as well as a deputy's star and handcuffs taken from the bodies of officers whom he killed, John Tornow, slayer of J. N. and Will Bauer and Deputy Sheriffs Elmer and McKenzie, evidently has the best of the situation. He is an expert woodsman and cunning as a fox.

That Tornow will have practically to himself the entire Olympic Mountain country north of Oxbow, where the deputies were murdered, is evidenced by the fact that scores of hunters, trappers and even settlers who have been living in the upper Wynooche country, have returned to the southern part of Chehalis county. Included in the number are trappers who have lived in the timbered section of the Olympics for years, who through fear of Tornow, now termed the "Devil of the Wynooche," have decided to take no chances.

The search for Tornow will be abandoned by Sheriff Fayette for the present.

While Tornow undoubtedly killed the four men the evidence is all circumstantial.

Individuals will probably seek the rewards offered aggregating $4000, and further tragedies are expected.

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL OF ITALIAN GUN USER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An unidentified Italian emptied his revolver into a group of four Mexicans on the road to the Riverside Cement Works, last night, and Amilos Samang was shot through the left breast and will die, while Juan Perma was shot twice in the right leg.

Spite is alleged to have been the motive, as the Italian was seen to have followed the Mexicans after he had had a minor difficulty with them. All the men were employed at the cement works.

The police have bloodhounds on the trail and are scouring the neighborhood. A revolver was found in the bushes near the scene of the shooting and the scent was secured from it.

The Mexicans had been passing the evening in a blind pig at Crestmore and the alleged owner of the place, Tony Farone, was arrested.

While the police were working on the shooting case, six house robberies were committed, the most secured at any one place being $50.

AMERICANS ATTACKED BY CHINESE PIRATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, March 24.—The American legation here received a telegram today from E. Carlton Baker, Consul at Chung King, saying that the Americans attacked at Wushan are teachers.

The Consul says Mr. Hicks, whose home was at Oshkosh, Wis., was killed, and that his companions, though wounded, are taking his body to Ichang. The Consul adds that the attack was made by pirates and was not due to anti-foreign hatred. Chinese gendarmes are pursuing the pirates.

The American legation here today telegraphed Roger S. Greene, Consul-General at Hankow, to send Vice-Consul-General J. Paul Jamison to Ichang to obtain further information concerning the attack on the Americans.

The Kan Su army arrived at Sian Fu, province of Shen Si, on March 22, and the Chinese soldiers, fearing the Mohammedan troops would loot the city, themselves began looting. The Mohammedans retired. All foreigners are reported safe.

The representative of the Belgian financial syndicate will pay three million taels ($2,000,000) to the government tomorrow unless the powers interfere.

Consular reports say there has been considerable disorder at Che Foo. A dispatch from Tsin, province of Shantung, reports the looting of soldiers of all but two native banks at Sin-Chow-Fu. Foreign property was not molested.

SOLDIERS ON THE WAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ICHANG (Province of Hu Peh, China) March 23.—[Delayed.] A telegram received here from Wushan, province of Sze Chuen, says that three Americans, Hicks, Hoffman and Sheldon, who are presumed to be missionaries, were attacked while exploring the gorges in the Yangtse River in a boat, and all three were robbed and wounded. Soldiers and a doctor have been dispatched from this city to Wushan, which is about seventy-five miles to the west of the Yangtse.

TO SUPPRESS FIGHTING.

POWERS TO UNITE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HONGKONG, March 24.—The powers have agreed to suppress fighting in the European quarter of Swatow. A conflict with the Chinese seems inevitable and Europeans are coming to Hongkong. The provinces of Kwang Si and Kwang Tung are in a state of turmoil. Insurgents along the Canton River are defiant in spite of the gunboats. The French steamer Paul Beau was attacked by pirates armed with modern rifles. he captain ordered full speed ahead and the steamer crashed into a junk. Other junks threw grappling irons, and the pirates then attempted to climb aboard. The captain and his officers opened fire and succeeded in driving the attacking party back. The steamer then pulled away from the junks. Troops at Linchow, Kwang Tung province, have revolted. hey threaten to kill their general and loot the city. A number of cannon on the docks at Hongkong were stolen last night. An American is suspected of being the gun runner, but he has made good his departure.

WHO HICKS WAS.

OSHKOSH (Wis.) March 24.—Bert Hicks killed in China by pirates, was a son of E. R. Hicks, former Attorney-General of Wisconsin, of this city. He was about 25 years old and went to China eighteen months ago to establish a school of mines. He was a graduate of the Michigan school of mines.

Thousands of Poppy Seed Planted in San Francisco to Make the Place Look Nice.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Telegraph Hill, one of the pillars of the Golden Gate, may once more flaunt the golden glow. The upper slopes were attacked today with hoes in the hands of hundreds of men, women and children, who planted California poppy seed on every available patch of ground in pursuance of a plan developed by a civic improvement association and the Outdoor Art League of the California (Women's) Club.

It is designed also similarly to beautify the slopes of the now flowerless hills on the north shore of the channel, so that by the opening of the world's fair in 1915 the Golden Gate will be true to its name.

Labor.

GREAT STRIKE IS TERMINATED.

Textile Workers in New England Are Satisfied.

Three Hundred Thousand Benefit by Increases.

Consumers Will Pay Ten Millions More for Goods.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, March 24.—The great Lawrence strike, which brought in its train increased wages for 275,000 textile workers in New England, officially was declared off at all the mills in Lawrence today, having accomplished its purpose, in the opinion of the leaders.

It generally is believed that advances in wages or reduction in hours of paper mill employees, bagging and burlap workers, machinists and operatives in other industries, all are traceable to the movement which owed its origin in Lawrence. The number of persons thus to benefit is more than 300,000.

Advances in the prices of woolen and cotton goods which have been made, or which are in prospect will place upon the ultimate consumer much of the burden of the additional cost to the textile manufacturers, according to announcements already made. This will aggregate between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 in the next year, it is estimated.

The rise in the price of cotton goods announced up to today is comparatively small—a fraction of a cent a yard in most cases—but selling agents predict that the net advance to the retailer may reach 2 cents a yard. Some increased prices have been quoted on woolen goods and dealers predict higher prices next season.

New Bedford, where the manufacturers of the finer grades of cotton goods, have refused to accede to the demands of their employees for an additional 5 per cent., has displaced Lawrence as the center of interest in the textile situation. Unless the mill owners give the increase demanded within a few days, a strike of from 25,000 to 30,000 operatives may follow.

While an increase of 5 per cent. has been offered, the New Bedford operatives are insistent that they receive 10 per cent. Secretary Devolt of the Manufacturers' Association, has promised that the mill owners would decide early in the week whether this should be granted. The suggestion has been made that an immediate increase of 7½ per cent. be given, with a promise of an additional 2½ per cent. on a given date. This may be the basis of a compromise.

SPINNING EMPLOYEES OUT.

STRIKE IN NEW JERSEY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASSAIC (N. J.) March 24.—Nine hundred spinning employees at Clifton, N. J., and Garfield, N. J., went on strike yesterday demanding higher pay and shorter hours. According to the employers the walk-out was precipitated by agents of the Industrial Workers of the World. So far there has been little violence.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A fire of mysterious origin early this morning destroyed the home of J. Martin Woolsey, writer, literateur, traveler and recluse, at Willow Grove.

Woolsey is a member of the Folk Lore Society of London and of the Folk Lore Society of New York. His chief claim to literary prominence came in 1910 when he won a $10,000 cash prize with the publication of his book "The Garden of Eden," or the discovery and final solution of the mystery of the woman, the tree and the serpent.

TO LIFT THE BAN.

LAWRENCE (Mass.) March 24.—After conducting for ten weeks the fight of the mill workers against the mill owners and securing increased wages and improved working conditions all around, the strike committee voted today to lift the ban on the half dozen mills against which the strike order was still in effect. The strike thus being declared ended, the strike committee voted itself out of existence. The return of the children, nearly 300, of whom are now in homes in New York, Philadelphia and Barre, Vt., where they were sent during the strike, is arranged for next Saturday, and a demonstration is planned. Leaders of the Industrial Workers' of the World, including William D. Haywood, William E. Trautman and William Yates, declared tonight in a statement that the Lawrence strike had achieved "one great and grand victory, far-reaching in results, which always will be remembered."

RATTLE WITH THE RIFFS.

MADRID, March 24.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] A dispatch from Tangier says that a Spanish force had a severe engagement with Riffian tribesmen yesterday. The Spaniards lost a colonel, three lieutenants and twenty-nine men killed. Seven other officers and 81 men were wounded.

STRIKE IS WHIPPED OUT.

Agitators Are Losing Fight in Sawmills of Washington, and Are Out of Jobs As Work Resumes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The lack of the strike which has caused a shutdown of nine big sawmills on Grays Harbor in the past ten days, is believed to have been broken.

Mill men have placed guards around their plants to keep the strikers from entering. In some instances fire hose has been brought into use. One shot has been fired, many stones thrown, and altogether about a dozen arrests made. Nearly all the mill owners have declared they will bring in men from the outside, that only all-American labor will be employed, and that men with families will be given preference.

Three-fourths of the strikers would like to return to work, but are kept from doing so through fear of violence at the hands of the more radical. Two plants which have hitherto been shut down resumed work Saturday. The little mill at Hoquiam, where the first trouble occured, expects to resume operations Tuesday morning with an all-American crew, and is bringing about 100 workingmen with families in from Puget Sound cities.

I. W. W. agitators and strikers held parades today and marched to a point midway between the two cities, where an open air meeting was held and incendiary speeches were made.

Coming to America to Do Vaudeville Turn With Trained Dog, He Develops Melancholy Soon After Vessel Leaves Liverpool—Eludes Nurse and Uses Bed Sheet.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Sterling, an English actor, traveling with his Irish terrier, Patsy, killed himself aboard the steamship Campania of the Cunard line, which arrived here today. He was buried at sea Saturday.

Sterling was coming here to appear in vaudeville with his dog. From the moment he went on board the steamship at Liverpool it was observed that he was melancholy. He became more and more depressed as the vessel approached the American coast, and was finally put into a hospital where he was treated by the surgeon on board.

The nurse in attendance left Sterling alone for a moment on Saturday and when he returned, found the patient hanging by the neck from an overhead iron beam. He had torn a bed sheet into a strip, tied it about his neck and was dead when the nurse returned to the hospital.

Patsy, the dog actor, who was left an "orphan" by the suicide of his master, is not an American citizen, but a British subject, and cannot be taken in charge by the United States immigration authorities. He was left on board the Campania and will be taken back to Liverpool and turned over to the British authorities.

SKYSCRAPERS FOR BOYS.

Phipps of Pittsburgh Hands Them Over to His Sons to Lighten the Burden of His Cares.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ten million dollars worth of Pittsburgh skyscrapers and other property was transferred yesterday afternoon by Henry Phipps, Sr., to his three sons, John F., Henry and Howard Phipps, all of Nassau county, N. Y.

Phipps's representatives here refused to discuss the transfer in detail, but intimated the father was actuated by the same purposes as was the case when he deeded to his "boys" his holdings in Chicago recently, which were valued at $3,000,000.

At that time friends said that Phipps desired to be relieved of the worries incident to his vast real estate holdings and was shifting the burden to his sons.

EXPENSE FUND EXHAUSTED.

So Oregon Governor Will Ride to Boise on Horseback to Attend Meeting of Governors.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALEM (Or.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On one of the most unique trips ever attempted by the Governor of any State, Gov. West next fall will ride on horseback from Salem to Boise, a distance of over 500 miles, directly through the mountains, to attend the meeting of the Western Governors, which is planned to be held in that city. Along the route he will preach the doctrine of good roads to Oregonians, according to statements which he made today.

The reason for this move is found in the fact that his expense appropriation of $500, made by the last Legislature, has been depleted. He says that he wishes to attend the conference of Governors, but does not feel willing to deprive his family of the expense of the trip, nor does he wish to create any deficiency in the travel appropriation account.

"In addition to the fact that the appropriation for travel expenses has been depleted," he said, "I will find an opportunity before the general election, when road measures will be considered, to meet and talk with hundreds of people in the mountainous districts, who have not had the good opportunity of people in the cities to become familiar with good roads talk and prospective good roads legislation."

The Governor has not outlined his exact itinerary, but says that it will be through the Cascade Mountains and a bee-line through Eastern Oregon to Boise.

MAYOR ON WARPATH.

Chief Executive of Nevada City Will See to It That "Bunny Hug" Is Abandoned.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) March 24.—Mayor Chapman, in his annual message to the Board of Trutees, blames the "Texas Tommy" and the "Bunny Hug" and other dances for much of the depravity which exists among the young people, and he says that an effort will be made to stamp it out in this city.

"As it is apparent that the trend of the times everywhere does not show due regard to training the youth of our country to live their lives earnestly, but rather to assume a flippant air of over-confidence and lack of responsibility, we are determined to abolish the baser influences from this community and keep them out," he says.

DETOURS AROUND CORPSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After lying all night on the Saratoga road after being hit by an automobile the body of an unknown man was brought to the Coroner's office today.

Coroner B. E. Kell, disclosed tonight that the victim was cold bloodedly left in the road by the automobilist. At the spot where the body was discovered Kell, found auto tracks indicating the auto driver had run down the pedestrian, backed the front wheels off the body, made a detour, and then went on his way.

The authorities are convinced they will be able to locate the automobilist.

TWICE MARRIED.

Once Was Enough But Happy Stockton Couple Had Another Ceremony to Please Father.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the second time within sixty days, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stitt, each 18 years of age and prominent in the social life of Stockton, have been the principals of a wedding ceremony, the first in Reno two months ago, and the second today, here.

The bride, who was Miss Ruth R. Krutz, is the daughter of a wealthy Woodbridge vineyardist, and the bridegroom is the son of R. H. Stitt, a real estate broker.

Mrs. Stitt several weeks ago cut short a musical course to elope with Stitt. It seems, however, the bride's father was dissatisfied with the clandestine wedding and several days ago, decided the young people should be remarried. Mr. and Mrs. Stitt acquiesced cheerfully.

AFTER THE FUGITIVES.

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) March 24.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Obtaining an information that Modesto Noveo, who shot and killed Francisco Odella on Sherman Island, a week ago, had been seen on Jersey Island, in the Delta district of the Sacramento, Sheriff Dave Ahern today notified San Joaquin and Contra Costa officials and posses will be sent after the fugitive. On the night of the murder, Novero escaped in a launch, which he sunk on Jersey Island.

SPECIAL SESSION.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) March 24.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] A call for the State Legislature to meet in extraordinary session at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, March 26, is in readiness to be sent up early tomorrow morning by Gov. Deneen. The extra session will be called for the main purpose of enacting a law to provide for a preferential vote on president, to be taken at the primary election April 9.

Statistics.

RANK FIRST AS BUTCHERS ACCORDING TO FIGURES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—An increased tendency toward diversification in manufacturing industries in the United States was observed by Federal officials who have compiled statistics of the relative importance of manufacturing industries. The statistics cover the ten-year period ending with 1909 and were collected by the Census Bureau.

The report on the investigation says that the relatively smaller industries of the country showed the greater percentages. By far the highest percentage of increase was noted in the automobile industry. Exceptionally large increases were credited to the copper, tin and sheet iron industries. Large decrease in the average number of wage earners was shown in the iron and steel blast furnaces, sugar and molasses industries.

The manufacturing industries of the United States employ as wage earners 6,615,046 persons, the value of the products of these industries is $20,672,052,000 and the value added by their manufacture is $8,530,261,000.

The slaughtering and meat-packing industries rank first in gross value of products with $1,370,568,000; second are found railway and machine shop products, with $1,228,475,000; third, lumber and timber products, with $1,156,129,000. Fourth are iron and steel products, with $985,728,000, and fifth, flour mills and grist mill products with $853,584,000.

LOZIER TOURING CARS OF QUALITY

Lozier is essentially a car for the luxury-seeking, luxury-demanding class. Luxury in a motor car means not alone personal bodily comfort. It means ease of mind, confidence, satisfaction, and—to the man of affairs—increased business efficiency. Only Lozier cars can give Lozier Luxury.

Don't rub the life out of your clothes

Sprinkle a little Gold Dust in the water, and let the Gold Dust Twins do all the hard part of the task. Gold Dust starts to dissolve and lather the moment it strikes the water; it starts to cleanse the moment it comes in contact with the garment. It instantly softens the hardest water, saves rubbing, saves wear and tear on clothes, and does most of the work without your assistance.

Use Gold Dust next wash day, and have whiter, sweeter, cleaner clothes, with half the effort and in half the time.

Do not use borax, soap, naphtha, soda, ammonia or compounds with GOLD DUST. GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form.

COMMISSION ASKS FOR HELP.

Ask Los Angeles Merchants to Use Influence.

Traffic Congestion Menace to City and Suburbs.

Liquor Problem May Come Up for Discussion.

[Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Fair Oaks Ave.]

PASADENA, March 25.—Leading business men of Los Angeles have been appealed to by the Intercity Commission, to use their influence with the Los Angeles City Council to have a franchise granted to the Pacific Electric Railroad for a line on San Pedro street. The appeal is in the form of a letter and is writen in vigorous vein. It follows:

PASADENA, March 23, 1912.

Gentlemen:

Doubtless you appreciate the fact that among the highest class retail business in this section is that which goes to Los Angeles from Pasadena, South Pasadena, and Alhambra.

But are you aware of the fact that the street railway congestion on Main street is making it more and more impossible daily for residents of these three cities to do business with your store? This congestion has now reached such a stage that more than an hour must be allowed—sometimes much more—for the trip each way. You will readily see that this is going to cause the suburban shoppers to readjust themselves to conditions and cut out the Los Angeles stores.

There is a remedy. The Pacific Electric Railway is anxious to build a line on San Pedro street, which will give quick transit out of the city for the red cars. Two objections have been offered. The first is that the city wants to retain San Pedro street for a municipal line; but the Pacific Electric is willing to accept almost any sort of a business-like offer, as it regards this as only a makeshift which will have to be abandoned in turn within a very few years. The other objection is that the San Pedro street property owners demand a yellow car service on the street, if any franchise is granted. This would simply move the congestion two blocks eastward, and in lieu of this service the Pacific Electric is willing to exchange transfers at such intersections on San Pedro street as the red cars cross.

These facts are all in possession of your City Council, but it postpones action from time to time; and as this commission has no votes in Los Angeles, it is unable to bring the matter to the attention of the City Council in such a manner as cannot be ignored. Consequently we are writing to you and a score of other prominent firms in the city, and hope that each of you will see fit to set in motion such machinery as is at your command for the working out of our mutual interests. We have been promised a hearing at the City Council meeting Tuesday, March 26. Doubtless representations from you, or from the organization which speaks for you, would carry weight.

Yours very truly,

J. C. BRAINARD, Secretary.

JOHN D. REAVIS, President.

LIQUOR PROBLEM.

Indications last night were that the much discussed liquor problem will come to a head when the City Council convenes at tomorrow morning's session. Each of the different factions has made plans for a busy time today, and the Councilmen will discuss the question at an executive conference tonight.

W. F. Knight, president of the newly-organized Citizens' Association, made the statement last night that the Council tomorrow will probably call a special election on proposed amendments to the ordinance now in effect.

Just what these proposed amendments are he would not say.

"On the whole, they will make the ordinance a little tighter than it now is, he said. "I believe that if they are adopted it will settle once and for all the dispute over the subject."

Not to be taken by surprise, the prohibitionists will meet at 7:15 o'clock tonight at Good Templars Hall, No. 24 East Colorado street. C. V. Sturdevant announced yesterday that the City Prohibition Club will be reorganized. Members of the former Committee of Twenty, which disbanded last winter, have been asked to be present and join the new organization. Officers will be elected and a campaign planned.

"I do not think that a special election will be called next Tuesday," said Councilman Root last night. "If the proposed temperance amendments are submitted they will probably be voted on at the general charter amendment election which is soon to be held. So far as I know, there is no intention of calling a special election."

PERFECT EXERCISE.

After all is said and done, is it a dance which has come down from the eighteenth century that is the perfect exercise for physical culture?

George H. Swarthout, superintendent of Carmelita playgrounds, believes there is nothing better than the Highland Fling. Whether it is that the Scots owe their hardiness in some degree to this dance, or whether being a hardy people they merely crave a strenuous exercise, he does not know. But he declares that it is an excellent muscle builder, and each day a class of dainty misses, attired in bright-colored costumes, "trip it as they go on a light fantastic toe," and a bonnier party of lassies is not to be found in Southern California.

At first it was found to be a bit too strenuous for some, but now they all skip and hop in the animated, sharp and vigorous manner that this strathspey time requires. They pay homage to the ancient dance and their sturdy, graceful figures and glowing cheeks are their reward.

Swarthout declares that if there were more Highland Flingers there would be fewer unhealthy people.

"The dance," he said last night, "brings into play every muscle of the body. It is vigorous exercise and cannot be danced with all its force to begin with. With practice, however, the girls are able to go clear through with it.

"The Highland Fling is an especially good exercise and stimulates the heart as almost nothing else will. Then there is something gained in the mere dancing, the rhythmical swing of the body. A prosaic exercise is never so productive of results as one in which it is a delight to indulge. I suppose that it would not be going too far to say that this dance has had something to do with the wonderful strength possessed by the Scottish people. Certainly it works wonders with Pasadena young women."

FEARS HAVE BEEN ALLAYED.

South Pasadenans Thinking They See Political Plot Make Disturbance and Find They Were Wrong.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 24.—Following rumors to the effect that the polling place which had formerly been located at the El Centro School would be moved to the Marengo district for the coming election, agitation was started in several sections against what was generally conceded to have a deep political significance. The fears of all such persons have been allayed by the statement that the Board of School Trustees at their last meeting divided the city into three precincts for the convenience of voters at the election for School Trustee, April 5, left vacant by the expiration of the term of Frank Cattern, who refused to be a candidate to succeed himself. Three candidates are in the field, John W. Moore, Bruce Crowe and Seth Van Patten.

The polling places will be at the El Centro, Marengo and Lincoln Park school houses. Marengo precinct includes all that portion of the city east of Pacific electric car tracks on Fair Oaks avenue. The El Centro precinct will include the territory between the car tracks on Fair Oaks avenue and the westerly sides of Meridian and Prospect avenues and Glendon Way. The Lincoln Park precinct will include all the territory west of the El Centro precinct.

Officers of election are: Marengo precinct, Louis Luckel, L. H. Wood and Mr. Brown; El Centro precinct, Messrs Cyrus Mungor, Hinckley and Crist; Lincoln Park precinct, Messrs. Biggs, Allen and Wyman.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The garage of Mrs. Mary Stringfellow, No. 1700 Oak street burned to the ground last evening about 11 o'clock. It is thought it started by spontaneous combustion, but was so far gone before it was discovered, that the only thing the fire department could do, was to save the bungalow. An E. M. F. car valued at $2000, belonging to Herbert Vatcher, manager of the Cawston Ostrich Farm, who is occupying the premises, was also consumed.

The fifth sermon in the Pilgrim's Progress series was presented this evening by Rev. George King, pastor of the Methodist Church. "Pilgrim was taken into By-Path Meadow and into Doubting Castle and was delivered into the hands of Giant Despair. He also met Demas and was invited to inspect his silver mine and on his way passed the Pillar of Salt. The subject of the sermon was "Faith, Hope and Doubt," and was illustrated by steroptician pictures. Next Sunday the last sermon of this series will occur.

An initiation and oyster supper was held last evening in Alexander Hall by the I.O.O.F. Visiting brothers were present from Pasadena and Alhambra.

The South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce has shown a big gain in membership since the first of the year. Citizens have been brought to a realization of the need in the community of some such organization, and have been responding liberally to the invitation to join. A good work has been done by the members in the past few months, and they are all live men, alert to every opportunity to advance the interests of the city.

ORGANIZATION COMPLETED.

Pomona Taft Club Completes Its Staff of Officers—Will Form a Woman's Auxiliary.

POMONA, March 24.—The newly formed Taft Club here is now completely officered as follows: Morris H. Wilson, president; H. C. Anderson, Mmes. F. H. Hyatt, H. G. Tinsley, J. T. Brady and J. W. Wilkinson, vice-presidents; W. L. Hanlin, secretary; F. L. Thomas, treasurer; W. T. Fleming, E. C. Bichowsky, of the First Ward; W. A. Eaches, Grant McCain, Second Ward; O. W. Afferbaugh, J. F. Lobingier, Third Ward, and E. E. Gillen and A. E. Tate, Fourth Ward, with President Morris H. Wilson forming the Executive Committee, which will appoint various subcommittees in the various precincts of the city.

A woman's auxiliary, which will be officered by its own members, will be formed and maintain headquarters, organizing for active work in the coming Presidential campaign.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Ray H. Hasan, State Dairy Inspector, has been here and with City Health Officer Wilson has been inspecting local dairies.

J. M. Thomas, buyer for the San Antonio Meat Company, has arrived here from Imperial with three carloads of fine cattle, which have been fattened on cottonseed. The company will ship many more cars here.

Rev. Michael Canneally of San Pedro parish has been appointed by Bishop Conaty of the Los Angeles diocese of the Catholic Church to succeed Rev. Joseph Nunan as priest of the Pomona parish. Father Canneally will take up his duties here next week when Father Nunan will leave for his new charge at San Diego.

The preliminary hearing of C. A. Kendall, alias C. A. Richeson, who was arrested here yesterday charged by W. A. Snyder of the Angelus Hotel with forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, will occur on Monday morning before Justice Barnes.

OPPOSITION FORMIDABLE.

Long Beach Officials Fear Defeat for Bonds.

Mass Meeting Called to Educate the Public.

Thousands of New Englanders Will Attend Picnic.

LONG BEACH, March 24.—Alarmed at the growing opposition to the bond election for pier repairs, which is scheduled for next Monday, Mayor Hatch and President Tucker of the Chamber of Commerce have jointly called a mass meeting to be held at the Auditorium Thursday night at which time maps of the plans and specifications will be shown and explanation of the method of construction given by the City Engineer and by the representative of the concrete piling company which furnished the plans.

The strong objection seems to be that there is no guarantee or assurance that work which has proven successful in still water will be equally effective in the open ocean with strong tides pounding at the structure.

GIDEON MOVEMENT.

A mass meeting of all the churches was held this afternoon at the Auditorium to aid the Gideon movement of placing Bibles in every room of hotels and apartment-houses in Long Beach. Addresses were made by Revs. H. K. Booth, H. I. Rasmus and O. H. L. Mason and funds raised sufficient to purchase 1000 Bibles which were then dedicated to the Gideon movement by Secretary Goosom of the Y.M.C.A. and Rev. Walter Loomis of the local ministerial association.

PLANS UNCHANGED.

Despite the protest made last year by Rev. Father Reardon, a Catholic priest, regarding the holding of baccalaureate services of the High School graduating class in a Protestant church, making it a sectarian service, the senior class decided not to make a new precedent, although one of their number is a member of the Catholic church.

The subject, full control of which has been left by the School Board with the members of the class, came up at the last class meeting and a proposition was made to hold the baccalaureate service in the Auditorium, with a scholar and orator as the speaker.

There was a warm discussion of the matter but on a vote the class went on record by a vote of 21 to 4 as favoring the church idea. Rev. Henry K. Booth was selected as the choice for the baccalaureate sermon and the First Methodist Church will be selected for the place of service. The date is yet to be selected.

WOMEN TO VOTE.

Ebell tomorrow will discuss and vote upon two important business propositions. At present the clubhouse is owned by a corporation which is desirous of turning over the property to Ebell, which owns one half of the stock. One proposition is to take over the remaining stock and the other to borrow $700 which is lacking of the sum required. The property has increased greatly in value since its original purchase. A two-thirds vote is necessary for approval.

NEW ENGLAND DAY.

Thursday will be New England day in Long Beach and the Long Beach Society will entertain guests from all parts of Southern California. From present indications 8000 former residents of the New England States will be present. Neat badges will be worn on which are maps of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The launch Neptune, which went ashore east of the jetties two weeks ago, has been sold to a man from La Jolla, who succeeded in floating the boat and after repairs have been made will take it down the coast to be used for fishing and for cruises off the Mexican Coast.

The week beginning April 1 will be vacation week for the Long Beach grammar schools. The spring vacation of the High School will be held during the week beginning April 15. These vacations will follow the quarterly examinations.

Landscape gardeners have begun the work of beautifying the Polytechnic High School grounds. The lawns have been plowed and grass sown in front of the building. Trees and shrubbery will be planted and vines are to be trained over various parts of the building walls to soften the outlines.

Aviator Glenn Martin flew down from Hyde Park today, arriving here shortly after noon. He made a pretty landing on the beach and later in the day gave an exhibition in front of the city, doing the ocean roll, Texas Tommy and figure eight stunts with reckless abandon. Negotiations are in progress for a season of Sunday exhibitions here.

FORM STRONG TAFT CLUB.

Upland Voters Believe in the President and Will Support Him for Renomination.

UPLAND, March 24.—Upland has formed a nucleus for a rousing Taft club, and the number of members already enrolled, now that the club is but a few days old, leads to the conclusion that the President has still some friends left in this end of the Model Colony. Among the list of names are found Alois Podrasnik, E. A. Bowen, C. E. Harwood, T. R. Woodbridge, John Morrow, Isaac C. Baxter, Thomas Kirk, R. T. Nelson, Earl W. Paul, H. J. Chamberlin, Edward C. Harwood, E. W. Thayer, M. F. Palmer, F. C. Buffington, E. C. Mehl, John Rarick, A. O. Hadden, W. K. Beattie, L. R. Bradley, R. C. Norton, C. E. Grier, H. C. Moore, A. H. Maxwell, J. B. Howell, O. V. Rice, L. E. Moser, W. G. Mumper, J. W. Mehl, M. E. Titus, F. W. Palmer, E. P. Fuller, G. B. Hayden, Charles Ruedy, F. M. Higley, C. P. Fuller, A. I. Lince, A. D Thompson, E. H. Granger, C. M. Sikes, J. F. Sawyer, N. B. Walter, E. O. Bowden, C. M. Hall. The list has only been open to signatures for a short time, yet a careful study of the names, thus far, reveals the fact that the really good, solid men among merchants as well as growers, are lining up for the Taft column, while the fellows who are circulating the Roosevelt paper have not, as yet, published their list.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Negotiations for a Carnegie library for Upland have now proceeded to a point where a set of plans from each of three or four different architects will be exhibited, and the citizens will have opportunity to express their preference in the matter. The building equipped will cost about $12,000, and is to occupy a splendid site on the recently acquired City Hall Park, at the northeast corner of First avenue and D street. Already the city has advertised for sale the small house which now occupies the site intended for the library.

Property holders on the east side of Euclid avenue, this city, are said to be considering a permanent and splendid improvement of the celebrated avenue. At a meeting of the City Council a set of plans and specifications was prepared by City Engineer Froehde, and after being read, it was asked by Earle W. Paul, one of the heaviest holders of frontage on that side, that it might be a much better and more permanent treatment of the proposed driveway would be acceptable to owners. It looks probable, therefore, that asphalt may be employed, rather than the customary macadam.

Alfred Billington has sold to S. O. and J. F. Hamilton, formerly of Illinois, ten acres of lemons, located on West Eighth street, the consideration being $25,500. The Messrs. Hamilton have also purchased of James H. Black, ten acres, on the same street, one-half oranges, the other half lemons, the consideration being $20,000.

H. S. Pratt has sold his ten-acre orange grove on Eleventh street, this city, to Mrs. Mary B. Miller, the consideration being $27,000.

Most of the local packing-houses are now working full crews, and nearly all of them working full time. A great deal of fruit is going forward from this district. The returns from the East, as attested by the daily market reports, show that Upland's brands are sustaining their well-known reputations. The Upland association, the largest of the locals, will start on pool No. 4 on April 1, and this pool will contain 25 per cent. of the estimated navel crop of the members.

VITAL PROBLEM FACES CITY.

Intercity Commission at Meeting in South Pasadena Considers Matter of Transportation.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 24.—With its action in the direction of the construction of an outfall sewer given official sanction by the voting of money by each of the three cities it represents to prepare preliminary surveys at its Intercity Commission of eighteen at its meeting here last night resumed consideration of the transportation problem, which it regards as one of the most immediate and vital facing Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra.

William Hazlett of the Public Utilities Committee of the commission reported that the City Council of Los Angeles had promised for next Tuesday a hearing of a memorial regarding the San Pedro street franchise passed by the commission some time ago. This recites the well-known facts of the Main street congestion, and shows that the Los Angeles merchants are as much loser as the three cities themselves in direct result of this congestion, for thousands of dollars that would be spent in the Los Angeles stores never reaches the heart of the retail center at all. So while the suburban cities are losing the natural and legitimate growth they have a right to expect, Los Angeles is losing the benefits she might obtain from the present large population. The resolution from the Intercity Commission now before the Council asks for the speedy granting of a franchise for San Pedro street to give the Pacific Electric relief, and at the same time safeguard any future plans which the city might cherish in regard to the street. Attention was drawn to the fact that the Pacific Electric's own plans would not contemplate the use of this street excepting as a temporary expedient, and it would be willing to accept any business-like proposition which Los Angeles would make.

It was decided that all arguments should be brought to bear upon the City Council in this connection, showing the mutual advantage involved, and demonstrating that to relieve the Pacific Electric congestion on Main street would not only give the suburban cities better service but would also cut the knot which now ties up half a dozen car lines centering in this one street.

The Intercity Commission will be represented at the meeting of the Los Angeles City Council next Tuesday, the manner of bringing the arguments to a focus being left to the Utilities Committee, consisting of Mr. Hazlett, H. J. Goudge and Judge G. A. Gibbs.

Following receipt of the information that the $500 needed for the preliminary outfall report had been appropriated by the three cities, the chairman of the commission, John D. Reavis, the vice-president; Robert Jordan, and the city engineers of the three cities, Benjamin Dupuy, S. J. Van Orunm and R. H. Blackidge, were deputized to decide upon the engaging of an engineer to procure the information required, so that in a short time the commission will have a specific plan of action to place before the three cities, and later before the other communities in the drainage zone. The commission proposes to keep one competent man at work constantly until it is in possession of all the available data.

WATCHMAN IS APPOINTED.

Watts Citizens Feel Safer as They Cross the Tracks Now—Cars Must All Stop.

WATTS, March 24.—A watchman has been placed at the Main-street crossing by the Pacific Electric company, in accordance with the provision of the ordinance recently passed providing that a man be so stationed. This is very gratifying to the citizens of Watts, who feel a great deal safer about going across the tracks at that point. The accident last night would have been avoided but for the fact that the watchman goes off duty at 6 o'clock in the evening. If the watchman would stay on duty until 8 o'clock, the people would have about all they could ask for in the matter of a watchman at the street crossing.

The special revival services at the M. E. Church by the Epworth League close Sunday night with a big rally. A number of conversions are reported.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Two buildings are being erected in Watts at this time for the accommodation of moving picture shows. Until these enterprises were started this city was without a picture show or similar place of entertainment. Leases have been made for five years on each building.

As one of the results of the running down last night of young Mahan by the Catalina flyer, the City Council will probably be asked to pass an ordinance demanding that all cars passing through Watts come to a full stop, in the future. At present the flyers run through town at full speed, and the wonder is that more people have not been killed on account of it. From witnesses who saw the accident it appears that Mr. Mahan had no chance of seeing the flyer come until it was almost upon him, too late to get out of the way. It is contended that if all cars are made to stop, there would not be this danger to people who are obliged to cross the tracks

TO CREATE MOUNTAIN COLONY.

Santa Monica Promoters Will Establish Unique Settlement on the Picturesque Crags Near the Sea.

SANTA MONICA, March 24.—Surveyors are running their lines through Rustic and Santa Monica canyons, and just as soon as the plats can be made several hundred acres of this sheltered and shaded retreat will be available as home sites for those who have an ambition to live near the sea and yet protected from the ocean breezes.

The Santa Monica Land Company, which owns thousands of mountain and canyon acres in the vicinity, has had in mind for many years the establishing of a romantic home retreat in the canyons, where families that desire large lots and picturesque surroundings might be accommodated, but this is the first time the matter of making a subdivision was given serious consideration.

The purpose is to lay out the canyons in an original manner, making the street and boulevard lines correspond with the windings of the barrancas and the contour of the country in general. The giant sycamore and other native trees will be preserved, and the brook will be permitted to wind its way to the sea, following the same course it has pursued so long that memory runs not to the contrary.

The mouth of Santa Monica Canyon is reached by the trolley cars of the Pacific Electric, and the location of bungalow sites will begin at the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon, and will follow Rustic as far as the historic Log Cabin. The plat will cover also a part of Santa Monica Canyon beyond its junction with Rustic. It is expected to introduce unique designs in the buildink of all canyon bungalows, and seek to enhance the beauty of the sylvan scene by placing only such structures as will naturally and artistically fit into the general scope of the improvement.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Tenants occupying the Juniper frame buildings at the corner of Third and Oregon are in receipt of notification to vacate by May 1. This order has been given in order that the work of razing the old structures may be started on the day following the automobile road races. A. Junipher, owner of the property, has had plans drawn for a two-story brick structure that will be of white glazed brick, and will occupy a ground space 50x80 feet. The walls will be made of such thickness as to permit the addition of a third story at such time as there may be a demand for office rooms or apartments.

The Santa Monica Investment Company has acquired title to the only vacant corner at Third and Arizona, and is having designs prepared for a two-story apartment of 100 rooms. The building, which is to be 90x140 feet, will have a large parlor and ballroom and a number of other attractive features.

Early in the afternoon the police officers found James F. Osburn of Co. F of the Soldiers' Home in an empty shack at Seventh and Colorado. Os-

THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD

Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blesing.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

San Antonio, Texas.—"To all women who desire to have children in their homes and to be well and happy I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from a displacement and other female weakness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the only remedy that ever helped me, and now I am a happy mother and highly recommend your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. A. B. MARTINEZ, 121 S. Laredo St., San Antonio, Texas.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was ailing all the time and did not know what the matter was. I wanted a baby but my health would not permit it. I was nervous, my side ached and I was all run down. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby and your Compound has helped me in every way."—Mrs. J. J. STEWART, 299 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Any Scientist will tell you that Beer keeps best in Brown Bottles

Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Chicago, writes:

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure; found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles."

Schlitz uses the Brown Bottle to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

PROFESSOR FRANCIS TO SPEAK.

Redlands Engages Los Angeles Educator to Deliver Address on the Subject of the Morals of Youth.

REDLANDS, March 24.—Dr. J. H. Francis, superintendent of the public schools of Los Angeles, will address a meeting of the parents of this city in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium on Sunday, April 14 on the responsibility of the parents to the public schools.

This meeting has been called on account of the agitation of the Practical Philanthropy Class regarding the moral condition prevailing among the school children. It has been argued the parents are too lax in their control of the children outside of school hours. At a recent meeting of the philanthropy class, Rev. Charles F. Blaisdell, rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church made a scathing speech in which he deplored the moral condition of school children. He stated that young children were allowed to wander on the streets until a late hour and that he had learned from a night policeman that they were to be found in the public parks at a late hour.

The Municipal Employment Bureau which was opened in the Y.M.C.A. building on January 13, will be closed next Monday, the worst part of the year having been passed. The work will be looked after in a way by Herman Amlauer, who had charge of it, but the efforts will not be as great as it has been. During the two months of its existence, Manager Amlauer gave assistance to 450 persons who were in destitute circumstances, a number of whom secured permanent positions. The bureau will be opened again next winter by the Associated Charities under whose auspices it was conducted this year.

The Ministerial Union and the Sunday-school Superintendents' Union are planning to take a religious census of the city on Tuesday, April 16. Three hundred men from all of the Protestant denominations of the city will visit every house and ascertain the status of the members regarding church attendance. They will be asked whether or not they attend church, which one, and whether or not they are members, regular attendants or occasionally at church. The city is to be divided into 150 sections and the census takers will go in pairs and will visit about twenty-five houses each.

ARISTOCRATS AMONG ORANGES.

California's Product Much Desired by Londoners Who Experience Great Trouble in Securing a Supply.

ANAHEIM, March 24.—California oranges are regarded as the aristocrats of the citrus trade in the London market. The above report is from Manager Sandilands of the local orange association, who was formerly a resident of London, where he was interested in the marketing of California oranges.

The report from the English metropolis is that the Anaheim Sun Kist fruit, which has been forwarded, is much superior to Spain's crop. London offers the best foreign market for fine California oranges. The best California citrus fruit has been aptly described in a London newspaper as "the aristocrat of the orange world."

London cannot secure enough of the California oranges to supply her demand and much disappointment is felt by reason of the scarcity. The European manager of the California Fruit Growers' Association has used every possible endeavor to secure the crop for London, but without success. What little there is of it is meeting exceedingly remunerative markets in New York and other parts of America. Under the circumstances the best seedless orange are scarce and dear, and likely to remain so. Having dangled the dainty morsel before the expectant English public, cruel California now withdraws it just as it is about to bite.

FULLERTON.

FULLERTON, March 24.—Agnes Rameriz, a nine year old child who was cruelly beaten by her mother, has been taken from the custody of her parent by order of the Superior Court and placed in the Catholic Children's Home in Los Angeles. Mrs. Rameriz is out of jail on a $100 bond and will be tried for battery April 5.

Early cabbage is being shipped from this point. The California Vegetable Union will have about 175 cars to ship this season according to the outlook and $30 per ton is now being received. The crop will be smaller than last year, but is of good quality.

The Fullerton Taft Club which numbers about 150 members will hold its first public meeting of the campaign Wednesday night at the Bank Hall.

San Bernardino.

RESULTS ARE IMPORTANT.

Scientist Achieves Much for Cement Industry.

Orange Men and Manufacturers Safeguarded.

Colton Plant Will Receive Considerable Additions.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 23.—The results obtained by Dr. R. E. Swain of Stanford, in connection with his tests about the Colton cement plant, are regarded as the biggest event made public in this section in many years, meaning as they do the safeguarding of the orange-growing interests about the plant at Colton and Crestmore from the possibility of escaping cement dust, and the protection of the industrial stability of Colton through the continued operation of the big cement plant.

Dr. Swain was on the witness stand all day today, court being held by agreement during the afternoon, to give the noted expert an opportunity to complete his contribution. The results were completely corroborated in Dr. Swain's testimony today, proving that the new dust-reducing apparatus installed at the cement plant on Slover mountain is an immense success, and can be further improved at small expense to about absolutely remove all chance for the dust to escape.

In Dr. Swain's testimony today he went carefully over his experiments and tests, showing to court and lawyers just what methods were used, and in answer to Judge Bledsoe's question the expert explained at length the two principal additions to the plant which might be easily made to increase the efficiency of the dust-catching apparatus.

With the announcement of the court's ruling, which in all probability will deny the prayer of the orange growers who would have the company adjudged guilty of contempt, plans for largely increasing the Colton plant will probably be made, the new dust preventative being such as to make possible the doubling of the plant with no danger of injury to the groves in the neighborhood.

GREEK THREATENED BY MOB.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prompt action by Policeman Sorrenson in hurrying a Greek, giving his name as John Jim, from Mission Cliff Park to the University-avenue Station this afternoon perhaps saved the Greek from summary vengeance at the hands of an angry mob that was fast gathering when the policeman boarded a car with his prisoner. John Jim is charged with attempting to assault Mildred Young, 11 years old, while the girl was in a secluded part of the park.

According to the girl's story she had gone to the park with her father from whom she became lost. Other persons at the park say she solicited the Greek to assist her in finding her father. Noticing that the Greek and the girl started toward an unfrequented part of the park several men followed. They claim they found the Greek with his arms about the girl and that she was crying bitterly. They overpowered him and escorted him to the pavilion in the park where they telephoned to the University-avenue Police Station. By the time Policeman Sorrenson reached the park a crowd had collected and threats were muttered. By the time the policeman took charge of the Greek and little girl almost 100 persons had assembled. They followed the officer and his charges to the street car.

Later a crowd also gathered at the station but a squad of detectives soon arrived and took both prisoner and girl to the Central Police Station. John Jim is being held on detention, while detectives are investigating the case.

CONDUCTOR PROVES A HERO.

Leaves Car and Saves Woman's Life Who Was Being Carried Out to Sea by Undertow.

HUNTINGTON BEACH (Cal.) March 24.—What might have been a tragedy occurred here this morning in the ocean near Twelfth street, when Miss Ellen Smith, a teacher in the local grammar school and F. L. Jackson, a teacher in the Huntington Beach Union High School, were bathing and both were caught in an undertow in the outgoing tide and carried beyond their depth. The woman could not swim and both she and her escort were swept from their feet and in spite of his every effort could make no progress toward shore. The outgoing tide was very strong and Jackson, although a swimmer, was unable to rescue his companion.

A car on the Los Angeles electric line was passing at the time and just stopping at the Twelfth street station and Jackson called loudly for help. The call was promptly answered by John Houtz, conductor of the car, who ran to the beach, threw off his shoes and coat and plunged into the ocean, rescuing Miss Smith from her peril. Jackson managed to reach shore alone.

The second of the series of dances to be given during the present winter and spring at the Huntington Inn occurred here Saturday evening and was largely attended, a number of Los Angeles people forming part of the dancers. Among these were Alex Mills and daughters, Misses Nita and Louise, and Shirley Meserve. Mr. and Mrs. Evan Mosher and Mrs. Evan Mosher, Jr.

VENTURA NOTES.

VENTURA, March 24.—The Chamber of Commerce at a meeting last night voted unanimously to take part in the coming Saticoy bridge celebration, which is to be held April 10. The following committee was named to raise funds in this city and aid in the jubilee: W. H. Francis, Frank Daly, S. R. Canfield, J. P. Rasmussen and Ben Pasio.

The idea of having Rodgers, the aviator stop at this place on his coming fly from Santa Monica to Santa Barbara has been given up, as the airman wanted $500 for a stoppage of half an hour and the people thought the price too high.

County Superintendent Reynolds has arranged for his coming series of institutes as follows: Nordhoff, March 25; Ventura, March 26; Fillmore, March 27; Oxnard, March 28; Santa Paula, March 29; Moorpark, March 30. Prof. F. A. Wagner will address the institute at this place. At the institute at Oxnard which will be held at the high school, the address will be delivered by Father Laubacher and also by Miss Evaline Dowling.

James Rasmussen has been appointed by the State Fish and Game Commission to fill the vacancy in this county caused by the death of Game Warden Kuhlman. It is thought that Rasmussen will also be the county appointee. There are several others after the place in the county but so far the Supervisors have been unable to agree upon a choice.

ANAHEIM NOTES.

ANAHEIM, March 24.—Lela Thompson, aged 10 years, arrived in this city from Santa Maria yesterday to be protected from hydrophobia. She is being treated at a local sanitarium. Sending the child here followed the death of a child at Santa Maria bitten by the same dog a few days before.

Prof. Morgan of the University of California visited the Anaheim High School as official inspector for the university. He stated that he was very well pleased with the general condition of the school and said he considered it above the average.

The Pacific Vegetable Union has shipped a large quantity of cabbage within the last few days. The vegetable is selling for $30 per ton, which is considered by the growers to be an excellent price.

The Anaheim Y.M.C.A. will soon have a new home of its own. The building committee has purchased a site on Philadelphia street below Broadway.

CARPENTERIA.

CARPENTERIA, March 24.—The will of Mrs. M. C. Ballard, whose recent death took away one of the oldest and most wealthy settlers from the valley, shows an estate valued at $101,000. When the Ballards came here forty years since, the best land was purchased at $14 an acre. The same land is now worth upwards of $500 an acre. The property is left to members of the family.

The Chamber of Commerce is securing estimates on the cost of installing the proposed electric lighting plant for the valley. The plan of those who are promoting the enterprise is to form a mutual company if the plant can be shown to be a good business investment. Practical electrical men have been over the valley this week making estimates.

UNION HIGH SCHOOL.

RANNING, March 24.—The growth of Banning and Cabazon has made it necessary to form a union high school district here and the trustees are planning to erect a large school building in the district this summer. A common school district has been formed at Cabazon with B. H. Votaw acting as clerk.

GROWERS AND PACKERS WAR.

Producers at Dinuba Assert That Efforts Are Being Made to Demoralize the Raisin Market.

DINUBA, March 24.—Raisin growers charge openly that the packers are endeavoring to demoralize the markets and in support of their contention are exhibiting copies of telegrams which were sent, it is alleged, by the packers of the Coast, to the eastern jobbers, offering raisins and dried fruit at prices considerably below the prevailing markets.

The cause for this action is said to be the increased activity of the eastern buyers just before the last rains. Offers were coming in for the holdover crop, at a very healthy rate and there was every indication of a continued upward trend of the market. Immediately following the rains, it is claimed, the packers' association sent out the wires with the hope of heading off a still further advance, which would have been logical with better trade conditions in all other lines.

It is known definitely, it is stated in raisin circles, that one of the leading packers has been offering layers at $1.10 per box, which would mean 2¼ cents to the growers, as against 3¾ offered and paid in the past few days. New crop Muscats are being offered at half a cent under the price paid the growers this week.

ARM TORN FROM SOCKET.

VISALIA, March 24.—While working with the pile driving gang on the Santa Fe Railroad near this city late yesterday J. W. Woods, a carpenter, was the victim of a horrible accident when he became entangled in the lifting of the pile driver and his right arm was literally torn from its socket. Woods's condition is said to be serious. Woods was at work beside the machine and turned about just as the donkey engine used in connection with the machine, started to lift the big weight. Woods stood too near the gears. His clothing became entangled in the machinery and he was drawn into the huge teeth of the lifting apparatus before the engine could be stopped. His wounds were dressed here temporarily and he was taken on the late train to Los Angeles for treatment in the Santa Fe Hospital.

ENTERPRISING SALESMAN.

Fresno Man Charged With Snatching Coin from Hand of a Prospective Customer.

FRESNO, March 23.—For snatching $3.50 out of H. Fredericks's hand and putting the money in the cash register, Joe Fels, a Hebrew jewelry salesman, will have to answer to the Superior Court on a charge of grand larceny. Fels at his preliminary hearing yesterday declared that Fredericks had purchased a chain in the store and that the $3.50 was in payment for the gold chain.

Fredericks, who is a rough mountaineer, denies that he bargained to purchase the chain but asserts he went into the store and that the clerk first asked him $6.50 for the chain and that when he took $3.50 out of his pocket Fels grabbed it and threw the chain at him and put the money in the cash drawer. Fels was unable to furnish bail and was sent to jail to await his hearing in the higher court.

REAL DERELICT.

With twenty-three Police Court commitments against him and evidence introduced to the effect that he had served 884 days in the County Jail since 1903 for drunkenness, Mike O'Keefe, a well-known police character, was today committed to the State asylum for being a habitual drunkard. According to the police, if O'Keefe had been sentenced every time he was arrested for drunkenness he would have served more than six years out of nine in the County Jail. O'Keefe was always given a chance but when he appeared in court as often as two and three times a week he was sent to jail. His longest term was for thirty days. O'Keefe declared that he had no objection to going to the asylum to take the "cure" but that he did hate to be mixed up with crazy people as it might have some effect on him.

PREACHER PAROLED.

W. T. Wilkinson, a Dunkard preacher, now located near Los Angeles, was given a two-year parole in the Superior Court today following his attempt to burn his store at Raisin City a year ago, the District Attorney admitted that the prisoner is mentally weak and did not realize the seriousness of the offense.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED.

VISALIA, March 24.—Mrs. C. W. Thomas, wife of a rancher of the Bravo Lake district, has filed a suit for $5000 against the Visalia Electric Railroad, alleging that she has been injured to that extent through the negligence of the company. This is the third suit to be filed in the brief operative history of the Visalia Electric. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams of Exeter recently secured judgment for $1000 compensation for the death of an infant child, and Mrs. David Scott of Lindsay is suing for $10,000 for the death of her husband, electrocuted while at work for the company.

REFERENDUM ELECTION.

TULARE, March 24.—In view of the defeat of a recently proposed school bond issue which came because of ignorance on the part of the voters as to the definite expenditure of the funds, the Board of Education at their special meeting last evening decided to submit a referendum vote to the people upon various aspects of the extension of the school system. Alternative propositions of one or two school-houses to be built; the establishment of a kindergarten, and the addition of manual training and domestic science, are some of the questions to be voted upon.

HARNESS MEN TO ORGANIZE.

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—At a meeting held here today steps were taken by harness and leather goods dealers of the northern section of the State to form an organization. Another meeting will be held in Marysville next Sunday.

Oxnard.

CLOUDED TITLE.

The unusual predicament of a city waking up to find that the property on which its City Hall stands is liable to deeding to the State because of delinquent taxes on it is facing Oxnard. Today the unusual situation became known when Deputy County Auditor Argabrite informed the city officials in a letter that they would have to act fast to keep the property.

The situation was explained by Argabrite as follows: "In 1906 the lot on which the Courthouse stands was assessed to G. H. Cryer, who deeded it to the city of Oxnard subject, however, to the lien for taxes for the years 1906 and 1907. Through oversights these have never been paid and the property was actually sold to the State for said delinquency. If the property is not redeemed by June 26, 1912, will be deeded to the State. The amount due is $12.85."

The City Trustees will undoubtedly pay this sum at once.

Trusses Like These Are a Crime

Get Rid of Elastic Bands, Springs and Leg Straps. Such Harness Has Forced Thousands to Undergo Dangerous Operations.

Trusses like those shown above—the belt and leg strap, elastic and spring contraptions sold by drug store, surgical supply houses and many self-styled "Hernia Specialists"—make life miserable for everybody who wears them.

And—even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on—they do no good whatever.

The Plain Truth Is This:

Rupture—as explained in our free book—can't be relieved or cured—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless constantly held in place. Just as a broken bone can't "knit" unless the parts are held securely together.

And—just as a bandage or splint is the only way a broken bone can be held—the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out.

What a difference it will make when you get that kind of a truss.

It's the famous Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager.

Far more than a truss—far more than merely a device for holding the rupture in place.

So different from everything else for rupture that it has received 18 separate patents.

Thousands say it is as comfortable as their clothing.

No belt, elastic belt or springs around your waist, and no leg-straps—nothing to pinch, chafe, squeeze or bind. Self-regulating, self-adjusting. It is held in position by suction—can't shift or slip—the only truss in existence that is honestly guaranteed never to let the rupture come out.

Sent on 60 Days' Trial to Prove It.

We have so much faith in the Cluthe Truss—we have seen it work wonders for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you wear it at our risk.

We'll give you 60 days time to test it—if it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out, when you are working and at all other times—if it doesn't put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had with your rupture—if you don't get better right away—then the truss won't cost you a cent.

How It Strengthens and Heals.

In addition to holding the rupture the Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager is constantly giving a soothing strengthening massage to the weak rupture parts.

All automatically—the massage goes on all day long, all without any attention whatever from you.

This massage—which strengthens just as exercise strengthens a weak arm—is so remarkably beneficial—so remarkably curative—that in 199 cases out of every 200 rupture begins to get better from the day a Cluthe Truss is put on.

The World's Greatest Book on Rupture.

Don't go on letting your rupture get worse—don't spend a cent on account of your rupture until you get our book of advice—which two cents for a stamp—or a penny for a postal—will bring you.

This remarkable book—cloth-bound, 32 pages, 21 separate articles, and 15 photographic pictures—took us over 10 years to write—took us that long to find out all the facts we've put in it.

It explains the dangers of operations and why they don't always cure to stay cured. Tells why—for the protection of the public—drug stores should not be allowed to sell trusses.

Explains why belt, spring and elastic trusses can do no good. Exposes the humbug "methods", "appliances," "plasters," etc.

And tells—absolutely without misrepresentation—all about the Cluthe Truss—just how it holds—how it gives the curing massage—how it is waterproof—how it ends all expense—how you can get it on 60 days' trial—and gives names and addresses of over 4000 people who have tried it and want you to know about it.

Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life, and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

Just use the coupon, or simply say in a letter or postal, "Send me your book." In writing us, please give our box number as below—

HER AGE 72, BUT APPETITE GOOD.

Thayer, Kans.—"I was so nervous, I could not sleep," says Mrs. Emma J. Hickman, of this place. "I had womanly troubles for many years, and tried different remedies, without relief. Since I began to take Cardui I have been greatly benefited. Cardui is a precious medicine.

I am stronger than I have been for years. I have a good appetite, sleep good, and the tired feeling I had is almost gone. Cardui is a nerve healer. I advise all nervous ladies to take it. The medicine has certainly helped me. My health is good, although I am 72 years old. I talk to my lady friends about Cardui, for it is a splendid medicine for women."

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been wonderfully successful in relieving women of all ages from pain and sickness caused by womanly troubles.

The herbs, and other vegetable ingredients, used in the manufacture of Cardui, the woman's tonic, have a specific, healing, soothing, building, remedial action, on the womanly organs and constitution.

Cardui builds womanly health and strength quickly and permanently. Just try it. Your druggist has it.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Funeral of Gen. Allen.

Funeral services for the late Gen. C. C. Allen will be held by the Masonic order at the chapel of Orr & Boothe, undertakers, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. The interment will be private.

Sister Seriously Ill.

Chief Armstrong of the Denver police, has asked the local authorities to locate Mrs. Herman Joochinstahl and Miss Sarah Cohn, both of that city, supposed to be at a hotel, and notify them that their sister, Mrs. Levyn, is dangerously ill.

Run Down by Train.

Raymond Styer, No. 443 South Michel street, had a narrow escape from death when the horse and wagon he was driving were run down by a switch engine at Alhambra and Eastlake avenues. The horse was killed and the rig demolished. Styer saved his life by jumping. The animal was the property of G. A. Whitaker, No. 130 South Johnson street.

Presbytery Meeting.

The women of Los Angeles Presbytery will meet in the Harvard Heights United Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock tomorrow, in the interest of missions. A number of foreign missionaries will be present and many interesting addresses will be heard. In the evening Miss Work of Egypt and Miss Eva Clarke of India will deliver addresses. The latter will be in Oriental costume.

Dies in Tennessee.

Mrs. George T. Hackley, of this city, received a telegram yesterday announcing the sudden death of her father, Judge Julius J. DuBore, of Memphis. Judge DuBore was a former officer in the Confederate army, a member of the Tennessee Legislature and a judge of long service and repute. He leaves three sons and two daughters besides Mrs. Hackley. The funeral will be held in Memphis upon the arrival of the family there.

Twenty Thousand See Sea.

Cool breezes put only a small crimp in the Sunday exodus to the beaches yesterday. Traction officials estimate nearly 20,000 persons were taken for a day of pleasure at the seaside resorts. From early in the morning until 3 o'clock a ten-minute schedule was maintained for the three-car trains out of the Hill-street station. Fifteen-minute schedule was restored later in the afternoon. Twenty-minute schedule was maintained throughout the day by Pacific Electric.

CHARGED WITH GRAFTING.

Armed with a 45-caliber revolver and a badge marked "Deputy Sheriff," Ed Valenzuela, a Mexican, was arrested early yesterday morning charged with trying to blackmail a number of women in the Latin quarter and also with having collected $100 from F. Cadrado, No. 315 Commercial street, in order to prevent the latter's arrest. Detectives in the employ of the local police department saw the "officer" receive the money and informed Policemen Phillips and Perry, who arrested the alleged blackmailer just as he was about to receive another donation of money from a woman who is said to be well-known to the police.

When searched at the Central Station the prisoner was found to have a number of letters and telegrams indicating that he had been employed by Sheriff English of Clifton, Ariz., and that he had come to Los Angeles to catch a Mexican desperado. Instead of following any instructions along these lines that he may have received the alleged officer is charged with having used his star among an ignorant class of petty law breakers with the result of reaping a large harvest when caught by the police.

Despite his protestations that he was immune from prosecution because of the badge that he wore, the local officers acting on orders of Capt. Murray, placed him in jail pending an investigation.

PEACE MAKERS DENOUNCED.

Glassell Park and Elliott Place Residents Object to Interference in Fight.

Resolutions protesting against the action of the detail of police called from the East Side Station, Friday night, to stop "the battle of Eagle Rock" when thirty or more passengers on a Los Angeles Railway car resisted with force the attempts of the street car company's men to eject those refusing to pay 5 cents extra fare beyond the old city limits, were passed at a meeting last night of residents of Glassell Park and Elliott Place.

Around a campfire built in a vacant lot on San Fernando boulevard nearly 300 persons, objectors to the car company's tariff of 5 cents extra fare, stood for more than an hour and listened to the oratorical roasting of the blue-coats.

The resolutions passed denounce the police for threatening to arrest and for intimidation of passengers who were resisting efforts of the car crews to enforce the payment of the extra fare.

The resolutions also request and demand that the assaulting of the men and the insulting of the women who refuse to pay the fare be stopped. Copies are to be sent to the Mayor and the Police Commission today.

Foster C. Wright, an attorney who is taking an active part in the fight, acted as chairman of the meeting, and H. C. Newton was selected as secretary.

"Some Fool Women."

PASTOR FLAYS FASHION FOLK.

FINE CLOTHES FAIL TO MAKE GOOD CHARACTER.

It's Foolish to Marry Men of Doubtful Habits to Reform Them, Says Divine—Better to Live Alone Than With the Sower of Wild Oats—Christ as a Model.

Verbally castigating women who live merely for fine clothes and gay company, Rev. Dr. Brougher, of the Temple Baptist Church declared last night that a woman is a fool who does not know that a Christ-like character alone will fit her for life and eternity.

Dr. Brougher chose for his subject "Some Fool Women," finding his theme in the parable of the wise and foolish virgins in the 25th chapter of Matthew.

"The woman who is content to spend her life in the inanities of modern society advertises the fact that her character is lacking," said the divine.

"Some women are fools enough to marry men of doubtful character. They think they can reform them, that the men will be sober after they are married. Perhaps, if it were more difficult to get a divorce, women would be a little slower about marrying men who haven't brains and character enough to be the head of a pin, let alone the head of a household."

The speaker declared that women who go with young men while they sow their wild oats and then marry such will have to reap a harvest of sorrow and disgrace. He said a woman had better go through life alone and be true to the noblest ideal of womanhood than to play the fool and suffer a hell on earth.

Continuing, Dr. Brougher said: "If a young woman is to acquire a proficient education she must expect to put in much time in the acquisition of proficiency in whatever line of work she undertakes. Many young women today are stranded because they have only a smattering of education and are not proficient in any line so as to rise to the topmost rung of success.

"There is nothing to reveal character like special emergencies. Temptation is liable to come from unexpected quarters. An ordinary book education is not worth much in daily life unless it has fitted one to meet the unexpected problems that come up in business.

"Character is a personal matter and not transferable. We cannot live for others. You must eat for yourself, exercise your muscle and build up your body. I cannot give you physical strength. I cannot give you mental acumen. You must develop your own mental powers. If you have slept and been lazy and wasted your opportunities and the hour comes when you need power and ability, no one can give it to you. In that hour the door will be shut and no one will open unto you."

In conclusion the pastor urged his hearers to take Christ as their Saviour and make a character that will fit one to meet the tests of time and eternity.

TITLED CALIFORNIAN.

Received His Baronetcy From Last Hawaiian King and Wears Decoration With Pride.

Sir Henry Heyman of San Francisco, a native of California and a baronet, is at the Van Nuys for a few days. Sir Henry, who came to Los Angeles in search of warm and balmy weather, is a musician, an artist on the violin and an orchestra director of repute.

In 1881, while giving concerts in the Hawaiian Islands, Sir Henry played before the last native king, Kalakaua, who conferred a baronet's title on him. Though he has played before royalty of Europe and has given concerts before more powerful personages than the late Hawaiian monarch, he wears the native king's decorations in a more conspicuous place on his breast than he does a medal presented by a prince of Bavaria.

Sir Heyman was born in California so many years ago he has forgotten the date and received his musical training abroad, having been the prize graduate of several French academies. He has made San Francisco his home for several years.

LOYAL LEGION ELECTION.

Nearly a Hundred Members Attend the Annual Meeting at Banquet at Hotel Alexandria.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Southern California Association of Companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, held Saturday night at the Alexandria, was attended by nearly one hundred members. Several officers in active service represented the army and the navy.

Officers elected are: President, Lieut.-Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U.S.A. (retired;) First Vice-President, Capt. C. B. Wilson; Third Vice-President, Capt. J. A. Osgood; Secretary, Col. Charles S. Gilbert; Treasurer, Capt. J. S. France; Chaplain, William F. Hubbard, U.S.A.: Funeral Committee, William F. Hubbard and Capt. F. E. Gray, and Official Bugler, Master Fred S. Field.

The guests from a distance were: Col. W. L. Barnum, Chicago; Gen. F. G. Butterfield, Boston; Lieut. John W. Frazer, New York; Capt. J. H. Kurtz, Iowa; Co. C. A. Nimock, Minneapolis, and Maj. L. E. Thompson, San Francisco.

DON'T BLAME YOUR HEAD

Feed every hungry tissue in you with Ozomulsion; add to your capital of bounding red blood and the anaemic headache will torment you no more.

SLAUGHTERED IN COLD BLOOD.

Callers Shoot Host Down as He Offers Wine.

Wife Seems to Seek to Throw Police Off Trail.

Eighteenth Mystery of Kind in Five Years Here.

Shot from behind and killed in cold blood by two men to whom he was offering the hospitality of his home, Joseph Soldano, No. 409A East Fifty-third street, is dead, five men are under arrest as suspects, and the police are baffled. Appearing at first as merely the tragic ending of a family quarrel, this eighteenth mysterious Italian killing to occur in Los Angeles in five years, has developed features unique in the history of local crime. Four police detectives and six patrolmen, who are working on the case in addition to those responding to a general alarm sent out, admitted last night that they are nearly as much mystified as when they began. Two men have been partially identified but it appears impossible to get proof.

The murdered man was accosted outside his house yesterday by two young men. They were invited into the house to partake of wine, which was brought up from the cellar for them. The vistors took but a sip, one grasped Soldano and the other put a bullet in his brain from behind. They then fled, one leaving a hat. The shot brought a dozen persons to the scene and these saw the men as they ran away. Five Americans have given descriptions of the men to the police. The wife and the Italian neighbors, instead of giving any help to the police, seem to seek to throw them off the scent.

Previous to the shooting, Andrea Pagano, No. 988 East Fifty-third street, brother of Mrs. Soldano, encaged in a quarrel with the murdered man and was badly beaten. What the quarrel was about is one of the mysteries of the affair, though Mrs. Soldano is said to have admitted that it was over her. Sam Cillo and Nick Areno, who board with Pagano, are under arrest and are regarded as the likeliest suspects of the five in jail and as many more under observation.

FUTILE CLEWS.

A revolver of .38 caliber was found in the room of Cillo. Detectives Ritch, Roberts, Harris and Oker examined the gun and are of the opinion that it was recently discharged, though there was no empty cartridge shell. A black derby hat, almost new, with the band torn, found on the floor of the Soldano house after the killing, fits the head of Areno. Both men take their arrest lightly, and defy the police to get evidence of their guilt.

Pagano, brother-in-law of the murdered man, lived at the Soldano house for two years. He left last September after a quarrel. He came over to visit his sister and her husband yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Shortly afterwards the neighbors heard loud words and the noise of a scuffle, and Pagano ran from the house, blood flowing from wounds on the left side of his face and his nose. He told friends that Soldano had set upon him with a baseball bat, had first accidentally struck Mrs. Soldano as she stepped between the two, and had then knocked him down with the bat and had fastened his teeth in his nose. The man was taken to a doctor and returned in an hour accompanied by two men to expostulate with Soldano. He was again driven from the house.

Mrs. Soldano says she knows nothing of the shooting except she entered the room to see her husband shot from behind by men whom she never saw before, and could not identify.

Her son, Carlo, aged 9 years, says that two men, one fat and one tall, came up to his father in front of the house. After a few moments' conversation they entered. Soldano went to the cellar to get a pitcher of wine. The liquor was poured into glasses, the visitors drank and then said that they must go. Instead of immediately departing, one threw his arm around Soldano, a powerful, heavy man, and the other shot him from behind. Soldano died instantly. C. E. Arnold, who lives at No. 411 East Fifty-third street, was aroused by the shooting and telephoned the police.

SEE MEN FLEE.

H. L. Tiefel, No. 406 East Fifty-second street, James Campbell, No. 422 East Fifty-second street, and W. E. McClanahan, No. 343 East Fifty-third street, saw two men run out of the house, east on Fifty-third street to South Park avenue. Other witnesses saw them run on South Park avenue to Fifty-second street and then to McKinley avenue. Later they were seen

Who Did It? One Guess!

LABOR TEMPLE STORE LOOTED.

BURGLARS ENTER WITH KEYS WHICH FITTED DOOR.

Market Proved a Failure and Was Sold to Main-street Merchant, Who Was About to Remove His Stock When He Found Almost Everything of Value Gone.

While the new owner of the workingmen's store at the Labor Temple was absent, burglars entered through the Labor Temple early yesterday morning and after forcing the doors of the establishment succeeded in getting away with all of the valuable stock left by the previous owners.

The theft was discovered early yesterday morning and was reported to the detective department and two officers are making an investigation, but at a late hour last night no clew to the clever thieves had been unearthed.

The Labor Temple store was started under the auspices of the labor unions and for a time was hailed as the workingman's market where he could obtain the necessities of life without paying a profit to some so-called trust. From the beginning the store is said to have lost money and a few days ago it was sold to S. Stein, a merchant doing business at No. 405 South Main street, but the new owner immediately realized that he was unable to compete with the regular channels of trade and arrangements were made to transfer the stock yesterday to the owner's regular place of business.

The fact that the stock was about to be removed forever and the enterprise stamped a complete failure filtered through the different sources of information in the Labor Temple late Saturday night and a crowd of curiosity-seekers filled the sidewalk in front to watch the demolition of the store that a few months ago had been the pride of all union men.

Meanwhile Stein quietly arranged to have trucks in front of the Temple early yesterday morning to remove what was left of the unsold stock, but upon his arrival discovered to his dismay that burglars had entered

THICK BLUE LINE'S TOO MUCH FOR THE ROWDIES.

RELIGIOUS services under the auspices of the Union Rescue Mission and a Labor Union meeting by I. W. W. agitators were held under police supervision on opposite corners of First and Los Angeles streets yesterday afternoon. Only the presence of the policemen under Sergt. H. B. Wallace prevented trouble from the loafers for I. W. W. leaders had telephoned to the Central Police Station earlier in the day that, if the mission workers attempted to hold services on the southwest corner there would be bloodshed.

There was an enormous crowd in and around the intersection from the middle of the forenoon until about dusk, when the speech making came to an end. The Mission workers had friends there who promised physical aid in case of trouble and the I. W. W. were recruited from the four corners of the city for emergency work.

Three Sundays ago the I. W. W. orators took the northwest corner from the mission workers, where the latter had worshiped for nine years. Two Sundays ago there was some trouble, with the threat by the rowdies that if they were "interfered with yesterday there would be "killing."

To insure their first possession of the corner for the day, the I. W. W. leaders yesterday began their public speaking about 9 o'clock a.m. When the Mission workers went to the corner about noon they found their former meeting place in the possession of fully 500 tough looking men and boys. The presence of a squad of police prevented the I. W. W. aggregation from carrying their sanguinary threats into effect and the Mission workers assembled in peace on the opposite side of Los Angeles street

PUTS SALT ON SLIPPERY ONE.

Fugitive's Tricks Lose to a Detective's Cunning.

Ten-Thousand-Mile Chase for Alleged Embezzler.

Elusive Jeweler's Now Safe in County Jail.

One of the most remarkable cases in the annals of local crime came to an end yesterday when Constable Woodbury returned from Kansas City with Harry Michaud, the Watts jeweler charged with embezzling about $15,000 in precious stones, and landed him in the County Jail. Charles E. Shultz, assistant local manager of the Thiel Detective Service, followed Michaud 10,000 miles through a dozen States and in and out of a score of large cities.

Michaud employed every known ruse to throw his pursuer off the track and half a dozen times succeeded in doing so, only to have the relentless sleuth pick up the trail and be hot at his heels again. On one occasion he was obliged to re-arrest the man as a fugitive from justice when the Kansas City police refused to recognize a warrant in the hands of a constable. By having him held for trial time was secured to allow Woodbury to reach him.

Michaud disappeared from Watts two days before Christmas, taking with him, according to the charge, jewelry valued at $15,000 belonging to other persons. He was traced to the Nadeau Hotel, where it was found he had two trunks. It was by these trunks that Shultz followed and finally captured the jeweler. From here Michaud went to Salt Lake, then to Laramie, Cheyenne, Denver, North Platte, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Ft. Smith, Ark., Oklahoma Territory, Kansas City, Chicago, Oak Park, Chicago and then to Kansas City. He was arrested there working for a jewelry firm as a clockmaker for $12 a week, though worth $40 a week as a watch maker. He posed as a clockman, the detective says, because he knew he would be searched for as a watchmaker.

MANY ALIASES.

From here to Denver, according to Shultz, Michaud assumed the name of H. Schmidt, to Omaha as J. B. Miller, to Kansas City as J. F. Smith, to St. Louis as F. C. Gansler and to Kansas City as Harry Gansler. The latter was the name he used in South Africa. Michaud secured passports when he left that continent and, it is charged, raised their dates at Kansas City to show that he was in South Africa when actually in Watts. These papers appear to have fooled the Kansas City police and his employer to such an extent that they did not believe Shultz's story until the last moment, when Michaud confessed as to his identity. Shultz says he then admitted that he was born in Germany, deserted from the army and fled to Switzerland, where he assumed the name of Gansler.

In one of his efforts to throw the law off his track while en route to Denver via Laramie, Michaud gave a baggageman $2 to re-check his trunks to Omaha. Michaud went on to Denver but his trunks didn't. Shultz lost trace of his man for almost a week. Later he discovered the trick and jumped to Omaha. In St. Louis, he says Michaud lived in four different hotels besides the one in which he slept the first night he got there. He moved three times in Kansas City the second time he visited that city.

When Michaud engaged room and board in a private family in a fashionable part of Kansas City, he had the hotel porter place his trunks on the sidewalk. Then he went to a coal yard near where he intended moving and got a teamster to move his trunks. That threw the detective off his trail until the latter found the expressman, after interrogating almost every teamster in Kansas City.

ELUSIVE TRUNKS.

On another occasion, Michaud shipped his trunks to Topeka from St. Louis, and from Topeka had them sent to Kansas City, he himself making the jump direct from St. Louis to Kansas City.

Michaud's trunks, which Shultz shipped to Los Angeles some days ago, contain about $10,000 worth of the estimated $15,000 worth of jewelry which he took away with him, and which it is said belongs to local jewelry houses. It cost the Los Angeles Wholesale Jewelers' Board of Trade, which organization is prosecuting the man, thousands of dollar to overtake Michaud.

Michaud was gone from the city exactly three months, leaving December 24 and returning yesterday. Shultz was gone three months lacking one day. Constable Woodbury said that every day he was outside of California and not in Kansas City, he spent from eight to sixteen hours aboard his train stalled in snowdrifts.

DIRT WILL FLY TODAY.

Dredging Company Starts to Fill Huntington Concession, Site of Municipal Wharves and Warehouses.

Actual work will begin today on filling in what is known as the Huntington concession which is situated in the outer harbor. This is practically the only piece of frontage owned by the city in the outer harbor with the exception of a strip at the end of the Miner fill.

It is proposed to complete the work within a year, which will include filling in approximately 1,400,000 cubic yards, and the dredging of the channel on the west side of the fill to the depth of thirty-five feet. If the government does not dredge the east side, the contractors must do this as well.

The Standard American Dredging Company, which has the contract, will receive $219,245. It is under heavy bonds to complete the work in a satisfactory manner. When finished the city will build wharves and warehouses on the filled-in section and establish freight and passenger termina-

TO LARGE AUDIENCES.

Rev. Charles Inwood of London, a Christian worker of international reputation, preached yesterday morning to a large audience in the Immanuel Presbyterian Church and last night spoke at the First Methodist Church. After passing a few days in this city, Mr. Inwood will continue his tour. He is a member of the Keswick Missionary Council of England and was recently made a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. He will address the Ministerial Association today.

INQUIRY TOO SOON OR LATE.

Walnut Growers Feel Safe Under Microscope.

They've Reorganized Under New Management.

Bean Men May Follow Suit and Save Trouble.

In the view of the officials of the California Walnut Growers' Association the threatened Federal investigation of an alleged walnut trust has come either too late or too soon. The old organization by which prices were set the first of every season is practically disbanded and a new organization now being completed as yet has done nothing in the way of marketing that can be called a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act or any other law.

The old system of fixing the price was a kind of gentlemen's agreement. In September of each year representatives of the various walnut growers' associations of Southern California, about twenty in number, gathered in this city and discussed the market situation and the probable importation of walnuts and made estimates of the crop then on the trees. An agreement was reached as to what the price ought to be, and then each local association was expected by the gentlemen's agreement, to decline to sell under that price.

CROP UNDERESTIMATED.

This system did not prove entirely satisfactory for, as last year, an underestimate of the crop would prove disastrous. Last September the price was given out as 14 cents a pound. When the crop came in there was about 20 per cent. more than expected and the 14 cents could not be maintained.

Then, also, there always hung over the heads of the associations the threat that prosecutions might be begun under the Sherman act or the Cartwright act of California. That, however, was not the direct reason for the reorganization, a conference concerning which was held in this city a month ago. The real reason was the dissatisfaction with the old system of marketing.

The new organization is the California Walnut Growers' Association, articles of incorporation of which were filed in the County Clerk's office last week. This association becomes the selling agent of the various local associations, which hitherto have sold walnuts individually, but with a uniform price for all except when some association jumped over

NEXT WEDNESDAY "TIMES" DAY AT THE LAND SHOW BEAUTIFUL.

NEXT Wednesday will be "Times Day" at the Land Show Beautiful. Admission may be secured on Wednesday for 25 cents, one-half rate, by clipping the coupon printed below, and presenting the coupon when purchasing admission tickets.

The request of The Times that this half-rate admission be granted to Times readers has been granted by the Land Show management. The coupons will be published again in The Times tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday, so that regular readers may secure four tickets to the Land Show for Wednesday by clipping it each day.

Land Show admission tickets for Wednesday night may be purchased for 25 cents and this Times coupon at both the main and branch offices of The Times, Nos. 531-533 South Spring street and No. 118 South Broadway, respectively, or at the Land Show ticket office, Fiesta Park. The half-rate tickets will be on sale commencing at 10 o'clock this morning at The Times offices and at the Land Show.

The Land Show, which is the greatest exposition of its kind ever held, positively will close Thursday evening. The 25-cent coupon rate for The Times readers is the only reduction of the 50-cent evening admission price that has been made.

An especially attractive programme has been arranged for "Times Day." At night Creatore and his great band will render a superb programme, including his own "Leader March," the "Poet and Peasant" overture, the famous Suite I from "Peer Gynt," the Grand Selection from "Carmen" and several solos. The grand chorus of 300 voices under Thomas Taylor Drill will sing the "Hallelujah Chorus," "Carmena," "Loch Lomond" and "The Lost Chord." Special lectures, illustrated by colored stereopticon views and motion pictures, will be delivered in the Southern Pacific lecture hall.

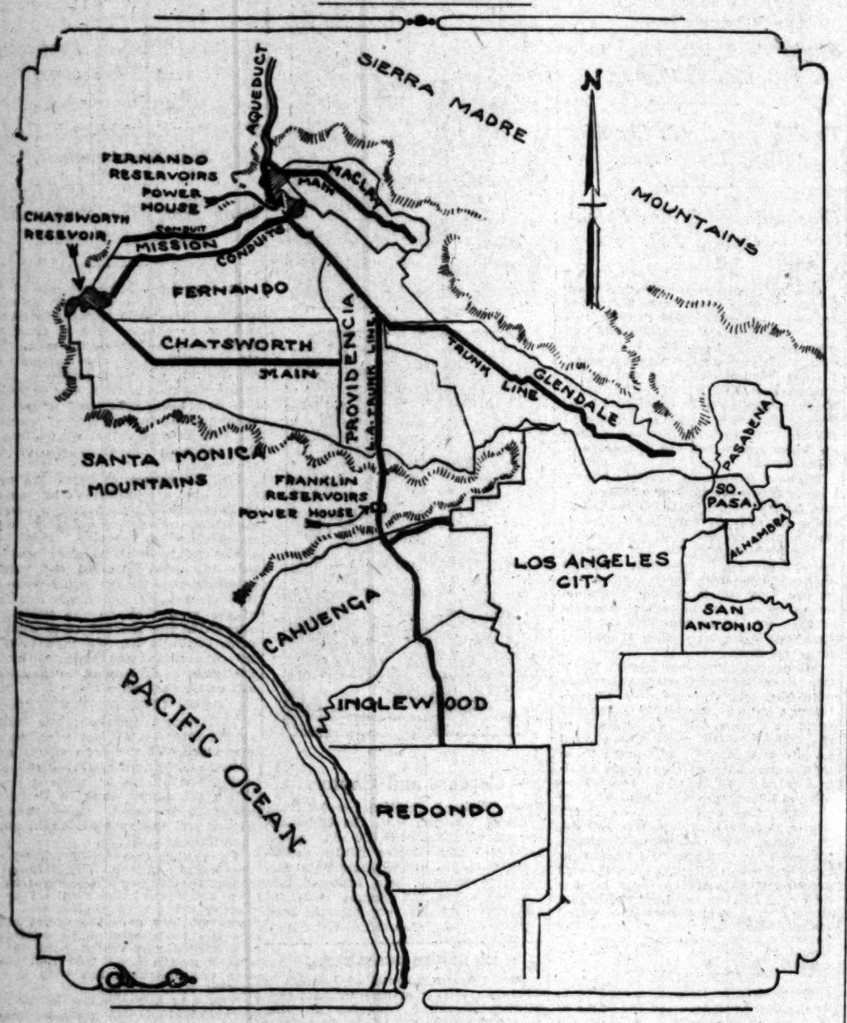
Alhambra First.

OUTSIDE DISTRICTS STIRRING FOR SURPLUS AQUEDUCT WATER.

Mulholland's Figures Showing Cost of Pipe Lines if All Districts Provided for in His Report Are Served. Great Revenue for City.



How the Aqueduct Mains Will Supply the Different Districts.

Map specially prepared by draftsmen of the Board of Public Works to accompany the board's report to the City Council, which will be filed with the City Clerk today. It indicates the manner in which the Los Angeles trunk line, extending from the Fernando to below the Franklin reservoir, will connect with the city's present distributing system. Also is indicated the proposed distribution of the surplus water to Glendale, South Pasadena, Alhambra, Cahuenga, Inglewood, Redondo, Providencia, Maclay, Mission, Fernando and Chatsworth. The heavy black lines are the mains.

THE districts outlined in Chief Engineer Mulholland's report on the methods by which the aqueduct water is to be brought to Los Angeles, and the surplus water distributed to other municipalities and for irrigation, are already beginning to bestir themselves. Alhambra has ordered an appraisement of its present private water system and City Engineer Downer is at work on it, the purpose being to use the system in connection with aqueduct water. The Pasadena Board of Trade is to hold a meeting this week to discuss the water question and the method to be used there to get the aqueduct water into that city is to be the main problem to be settled. City officials from Pasadena have been at the office of the Board of Public Service several times during the last few days to get all the information possible.

Alhambra and Pasadena were only referred to in the Mulholland report, for he said in that document: "Surveys have been made and complete data collected for the building of a line to both Pasadena and the San Gabriel country by this department, but the cost of such lines seemed to be too excessive to be undertaken by the city of Los Angeles." Pasadena's engineering department has made an elaborate survey of a route by which to get the water, and it is possible that Alhambra will seek to join with this project. If this should be done, these two may be among the very earliest of outside districts to become customers of Los Angeles. They will construct their own mains.

All districts outside of the city, if served, must build their own pipe lines, besides paying for the water.

The revenue derived by the city of Los Angeles from the sale of this surplus water will be enormous and in a comparatively few years, with the sale of power, will pay for the aqueduct. The sale of water not needed by the city will be of tremendous benefit to the tax-payers of Los Angeles, who, by means of it, will make an immediate and handsome profit on their Owens River investment.

In mapping out the districts, the chief engineer has had in view the best and most economic use of the water. The city has made no promises to any district and is under no obligation to furnish water to any acreage, whatever, outside its own territory; and, in fact, the districts are still merely convenient subdivisions on a map. But, as soon as it is definitely known what these subdivisions propose to do, there will be no delay. They will have to organize as districts, but, when they shall have organized, it will be an easy step for the city to apply for a franchise and get the rights of way necessary for the pipe lines to supply those districts. The Board of Public Service is prepared with maps and with offers of rights of way for every step.

THE SURPLUS.

These districts are to get such water from the aqueduct as the city shall not require for its own uses. That is a fact impressed upon the public and upon the City Council in the Mulholland report. If all the districts for which plans are provided in the report shall take the water, 12,573 miner's inches will be needed. Of this flow, 2000 inches must come to Los Angeles. The remainder, 10,573 inches, is the surplus that Los Angeles has for sale to other communities and agricultural and horticultural districts. The aqueduct itself is constructed of a capacity of 20,000 miner's inches as are the permanent structures of concrete, the tunnels and the reservoirs being planned with an eye to twenty years hence, but the mains and the trunk lines are designed for only about half that quantity of water. This will be sufficient, it is estimated, for some years to come and the lines can easily be duplicated.

The engineering department of the aqueduct has adopted a classification of conduits, trunk-lines and mains that is purely conventional, but which must be understood to make the maps and plans plain. A conduit, under this classification, is of concrete construction, and is closed.

Conduits are planned to convey water between reservoirs, for example. Trunk lines are to be constructed of sheet-steel pipe, riveted, the steel a quarter of an inch thick. A main is smaller, and will be constructed of sheet steel, generally, but will not have to carry the volume that a trunk line will be constructed for. The mains will run into districts at a certain distance apart and from these the laterals will run to localities to be irrigated. There will be none of the great sheet-steel piping anywhere that was required on the aqueduct in the construction of the siphons, however, and the resources of foundries and manufacturers in Los Angeles will be ample to enable them to compete for the business of supplying the pipes for the distributing projects.

FOR THE CITY.

Without any hurrah about it, the Water Department of Los Angeles has been installing large pipes within the city for the last four years so the city distributing system can be tied up to the aqueduct trunk line without delay, and the 36-inch and 30-inch pipes on Vermont avenue and 24-inch on Sixteenth street give an idea of the general character of piping to be used in connection with the aqueduct trunks and mains in all districts. The southwestern part of the city is well-considered in the aqueduct plans.

The report of Chief Engineer Mulholland to the Board of Public Service, which was approved by that body and was to have been presented to the City Council last Wednesday, was recalled before it was formally filed with the City Clerk. Since then, it has been supplemented by a map, indicating the districts included in the 195,000-acre terrain to be served ultimately by the water, and a table has been added in which the chief engineer has sought to give at a glance a view of all the projects, with their cost by the miner's inch and by the acre, and the total cost of construction. In Mulholland's own report he referred to the tables submitted in detail, but he himself analyzed only three of the projects. The recapitulation in the new table now added to the report shows every one of the projects, with every subproject and all the subdivisions. Assuming that all the districts should use all the water for which plans have been made, the total cost of the projects would be $3,401,170. The surplus water from the aqueduct would irrigate a total of 158,590 acres at an average cost to the acre of $18.40. The grand total of the cost of engineering and construction for the districts that will use the 10,573 miner's inches surplus water from the aqueduct is estimated at $2,916,876.

TRUNK LINE TO LOS ANGELES.

It is planned to pay for the main trunk line to supply this city without any assistance from the citizens, as the Public Service Department will have sufficient money to accomplish this. Including an allowance of 10 per cent. for engineering, this trunk will cost, it is estimated, $482,295.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

The San Gabriel Country Club was the center of social events on Saturday, owing to the fact that a large mixed golf tournament was in progress.

Nearly 100 society people flooded the links; and luncheon and tea parties, dinner and supper parties were arranged on all sides.

Mrs. Stanley Wood and her pretty daughter, Miss Imogen, and Mrs. Samuel B. Bootes presided at the tea tables on the porch, where the gay golfers flocked after their games. Among the many interesting people to be seen were Dr. and Mrs. Guy Cochrane, Mrs. Frank Griffith, in a gay golf blazer, Miss Katherine Mellus, Mrs. Henry Van Dyke, E. S. Armstrong, the well-known golf champion, Miss Katherine Harley of Redlands, looking radiant as usual, Mrs. J. V. Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McLaughlin of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard, Miss Alice Tobey, Mrs. Harry Kearne of Riverside, very dainty in pink linen, Miss Margaret James, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Field, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Perley, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Burns and their pretty daughter, Miss Shirley, F. Q. Story, Edmund Parker, H. N. H. Woodcock, Mr. and Mrs. Simpkins, Goeffrey Purcell, Mrs. T. Hewitt of Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. W. W. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Reed, the latter with a most bewitching beauty patch in just the right spot, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Orr of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Alkire, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Scales, Mrs. Gabrielle Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stephens, A. C. Bell, Miss Constance Clark, who was responsible for the most successful event, Armine Brand, Miss Kathleen Pierce and her mother, Mrs. and Miss Roberts, the latter in a very chic red golf costume, Mrs. Gifford, the two brothers Waller, Hugo Johnstone, Edward Tufts, E. N. Wright, Hugh Purcell, Miss Clark's fiance, and the distractingly pretty Miss Constance Colwill, with whom came Mr. Mayberry.

Then there was Mrs. Crenshaw, who brought her wee girl, Miss Moffat, and Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Eckardt and Mrs. Leburn.

Luncheon parties were many, one table including Miss Mellus and Mrs. Van Dyke, another Mrs. Field, Mrs. Smith and their friend, and one in honor of the Riverside visitors, at which Mrs. Harold Whitaker presided. This included Mrs. Bowen and her pretty daughter, Miss Pauline, Mrs. Harry Kearne, Mrs. Hewitt and Miss Gwendoline Lawton. Mr. Tufts was entertaining at another table, which included Mrs. Frank Griffith.

A Dinner Dance.

On Friday evening Mrs. G. E. Pilsbury gave a large dinner dance at the San Gabriel Country Club for her son and daughter, to which about sixty guests were bidden.

It was a delightful and merry affair, the guests being nearly all young people, and the clubhouse was given over to them entirely.

A Visitor.

An interesting visitor to Los Angeles is Miss Emilie Compton, a prominent society woman of Denver, very popular in musical circles. She has come here for an extended visit and stays for the present with friends at the Buckingham Apartments.

Riverside Invitation Tournament.

Among the many local women golfers who are going to Riverside for the Victoria Golf Club's invitation affair for women, to take place on the first Wednesday in April, are Mrs. Guy Cochrane, Miss Mellus, Mrs. Frank Griffith, Mrs. McLaughlin, Miss Moffat, Miss Clark, Mrs. T. V. Eliot, Mrs. Requa and Mrs. Van Dyke. Miss Katherine Harley of Redlands will also be a visitor, and the many Riverside women who have taken part in the recent local tournaments are returning with endless engagements for visits from Los Angeles friends.

the traces and violated the gentlemen's agreement.

The new organization will work along the same line as the orange growers' associations and exchange, without fixing prices in advance. It will market the crop by F. O. B. orders and sales delivered, according to orders, but with the power to hold for better prices than those that might prevail at any particular time.

PURELY CO-OPERATIVE.

The California Walnut Growers' Association has no capital stock and is purely co-operative, the local associations being assessed for its expenses. Each association will have one vote in the selling agent association for each ten cars of its crop.

There are eleven directors. Last week C. C. Teague of Santa Paula was elected president and F. A. Hazard of Whittier, secretary, and headquarters have been established at 313 Fay building. The completion of the by-laws will take place at a meeting to be held on March 28.

This organization has been perfected under careful legal advice and the growers are confident that its procedure will in no way violate either the Sherman act or the Cartwright act. That point has been carefully looked into and the organization was formed with an eye to the anti-trust laws, though its main object was to get an organization that would give satisfactory service to the associations, which comprise about 40 per cent. of the growers of the State.

"The old organization is practically out of existence," said Judge A. H. Stutsman, president of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers' Association, who for many years was one of the foremost attorneys of Iowa and is now retired to walnut, apricot and orange growing at Tustin. "I am confident that the new organization is not in violation of any anti-trust law. Our plan differs widely from the old organization and from the plan followed by the bean growers' association."

There was some talk several months ago that each local association might be construed to be an unlawful combination of growers, but the contention has not been taken very seriously and no fear of a Federal investigation on that score is felt for the reason that the local associations do not exert an interstate influence, being formed merely for the convenience of growers.

The case of the lima bean growers is entirely different, according to the report of special Federal agents. It is charged that the method employed in marketing the lima bean crop is not based on the law of supply and demand, but upon arbitrary figures fixed by the business agents of the growers. It is asserted that the growers can force the produce firms to pay the price asked, and that the few independent growers do not dare to incur the ill-will of the alleged trust by selling for prices lower than those fixed by the Lima Bean Growers' Association.

Pursuant to the investigation now in progress by U. S. Dist.-Atty. McCormick, it is possible that the officers of the association will agree to dissolve the organization. If this is not done it is predicted that prosecutions will be instituted by the Department of Justice upon the ground that the Sherman anti-trust law has been violated.

The investigation, which has been in progress for some time, has been practically concluded and is in the hands of the United States District Attorney. He has not indicated what course he will next pursue, probably owing to a disposition on the part of the government to allow the bean growers' time to comply with the law.

REVOLVER WAS LOADED.

Boy Plays With Weapon and Accidentally Shoots Himself Through the Body; May Die.

Frank Silva, Jr., the 16-year-old son of Frank Silva, Sr., a barber living at No. 1158 East Tenth street, accidentally shot and perhaps fatally wounded himself, yesterday afternoon, while playing with a revolver in the presence of several boy friends near East Ninth and McPherson streets. At the Receiving Hospital, where Chief Police Surgeon Zerfing and Assistant Surgeon Gage performed a major operation, it was said the lad had small chance to recover. The bullet punctured the intestines.

The accident was witnessed by Joe Silva, brother of Frank; John Fishbeck, No. 1618 Redwood street; Andrew McLaughlin, No. 1620½ Redwood street, and a fourth lad named Condon, who lives near Fourteenth and Alameda streets.

Silva had the small, cheap revolver pointed towards him when the cartridge exploded. As he exclaimed "Oh, I'm shot," he dropped the revolver. It was picked up by one of the boys who ran away with it. Assisted by the Fishbeck boy, the Silva lad walked to a restaurant at East Ninth and Santa Fe streets when the police were notified.

The Outlook.

WALDO THROOP HURTS TENDON.

Strained Leg Rounding the Berkeley Curve.

Baseball and Tennis Teams Work Monday.

Bird Tells the "Dope" on Pomona-Stanford.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After the hard workouts of yesterday, the Southern Athletes spent the day in a much-needed rest, but the toil will begin once more tomorrow for all the members of the invading force, with the exception of the track and field squad.

In the afternoon the U. S. C. baseball team will lock horns with the California varsity on the Berkeley diamond and the men's tennis team will open with Stanford at Stanford for the first day of the inter-collegiate tournament.

All the members of the track squad are in the best of condition, though Throop has a strained tendon, which is causing a little worry in the camp of the Trojans. Waldo hurt his leg in rounding the Berkeley curve in the 220 last Saturday in the track meet with the California freshmen. The bad spot was not found till about half an hour after the race, when it began to draw up on him, but Coach Dean Cromwell thinks that it will be worked out by next Friday, when the Southerners go into the lists with the Stanford varsity track team.

GETTING ACCLIMATED.

The rest of the track team is becoming used to the spicy northern climate and when the day for the fight with the cards rolls around they should make a better showing than was made in the meet with Berkeley cinder diggers. Most of the men on the team were not fully recovered from the trip north when the last meet was called and then the curve at Berkeley worked havoc with all the sprinters from the south as they were not used to a right angle warp and some of the men went off into the bushes before geting around safely.

The baseball team is in the pink of condition and after the victory Saturday over the freshmen, the nine is full of confidence. A little "Gum shoe" work was done around the campus after the game Saturday and it was found that the regular varsity has been having a hard time to hold these freshies in the practice games this season, and after game Saturday the same varsity was treated to a 6 to 3 drubbing by the Olympic Club team. Most of the Southern players saw the game and now think they are going to play nine human beings instead of a lot of world beaters, as was the general impression before the big team was seen in action.

WHO WILL PITCH?

Bridwell will probably work on the hill for U.S.C. in the game Monday unless Haskell is feeling right again, in which case he will be played in right field and Don will again go on the mound.

Haskell was not himself in the last game, but at that the Berkeley team only got four widely scattered hits from his delivery, and if he is feeling himself tomorrow he is likely to hand the varsity a package long to be remembered. This game is not a hopeless affair by any means, the California team has its weak spots and if the Trojans have their batting togs on as in the last affair, the Bears will have to hit at a lively clip to keep up.

The third game of the series may be played on Wednesday instead of Tuesday, as was the first arrangement as the southerners can't get away till Wednesday night. If this is the case, they have even a better chance to come out in front in the series as one day's rest in the San Francisco ozone has a great effect on the southern batting eye. Decker will be started at third base instead of Spencer in the next game and if Bridwell heaves, Haskell will likely be worked in right field as we need his big club.

POMONA VS. STANFORD.

Next Tuesday afternoon will witness Pomona in action at Stanford where the sage hens will clash with the Cards on the cinder path.

This will be the first time that the Stanford rooters will have seen their Knights of Cinder in real work for over two weeks as the last meet was with the Olympic Club. Then rain spoiled all the other dates. Pomona is

In Marching Order.

THE GENERAL OTIS CUP FOR SOLDIER MARATHON.

BY ALBERT G. WADDELL.

ONE of the greatest features of The Times modified marathon, which will be run off April 20, will be the military road march in which the boys of the Seventh Regiment will compete for a handsome trophy offered by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis.

The military marathoners will start ten minutes before the pistol crack of the main event, and will be well on their strenuous way before the second division of the athletic army reaches the top of the Temple-street grade.

The soldier roadsters will wear the uniform of the modern fighting man. Olive drab shirts and trousers, campaign hats, canvas puttees and marching shoes. The military athletes will also carry their Springfield rifles, which weigh between eight and nine pounds, belts and bayonets. The teams will be composed of eight men, a full squad; and one of the conditions of the competition requires the total number of those who start, to finish at the same time.

The corporal of the squad or the captain of the marching team, will not carry a rifle, but will relieve the other members of the squad from time to time, and should a man fall by the wayside, the infantrymen will sling their pieces and carry their comrade to the finish.

AFTER WORLD'S RECORD.

The guns may be carried in any manner, provided the muzzles are at all times elevated as insisted upon while in the field in action or on drill. No rule will be laid down for the conduct of the men while on the road. They may run, hike or set a double-time pace, as they see fit, but they must at all times hold the formation of a squad in either close or extended order.

Of course, the time made by the soldiers will not compare favorably with that of the distance veterans clad in the light running garb of the regular marathoner, but the world's twelve-mile military marching record of 1hr. 47m. 3-5s. will be in danger. This record will be the great prize for which the military men will strive, but if they are unsuccessful in clipping the minutes for a new record, the Otis cup will go to the winning squad for a decoration in their locker-room at the local armory; and if the time is two hours or better, each contestant will be awarded a gold button, the new form of athletic medal, given by eastern and middle western marathon managers.

KEEN RIVALRY.

The rivalry is keen among the Los Angeles companies of the Seventh, and the race will bring out some fast hiking. Both Co. "C" and Co. "P" are certain of victory, the new record and the Otis cup. These organizations are more than anxious to get it back at Co. "A," which has won the indoor baseball championship for the two past seasons, and boasts of the best rifle shots in the State.

The boys of Co. "A" are saying little, but they have a healthy bunch of "old-timers," who are for the most part, veterans of Atascadero hikes, and it is certain that to win, the other outfits will be called upon to ramble.

Capt. Anderson, commanding officer of Co. "C," will be seen in the great race at the head of his company's team, and with the good record which he has established among the other officers, and the men of the regiment to uphold his pace-making will be killing. The entire eight men of the "C" company team are six feet tall and if their strength will hold out the distance eating strides should bring a new world's record to Los Angeles.

The men in the squad from Co. "P" are of the husky type, but all built close to the ground. Stag, the sprinter, baseball player, football star and all-round athlete, is among the best ground coverers in the State soldiery. Lieut. Sidener, who is in on every stunt in the open pulled off by his men, will be seen in the march, and his presence will be a great inspiration to the enlisted men.

SERGT. COUTERIER.

It is reported that Sergt. Phil Couterier, who was injured in the field-firing exercises held by his company a short time ago, will be able to take part in the race, where his marching ability will add materially to the chances of his team.

Among the names on the Co. "A" list, Tom Stone, Harry John, Raymond Wortley and Cliff Kerkin appear to have it on any in their outfit, but competition for the remaining four places on the military team is keen and Fred Gollum, Tom Harris, Victor Grace, James Grace, George Kellogg and L. Felsenthal are the leading aspirants for the glory.

Aside from the men who will compete in the uniform of the infantry soldier, there are a number of entrants who are running under the colors of the local National Guard companies in the "Greek slave" attire of the real marathoner. The choice collection of prizes offered in Means It.

JOE RIVERS WILL FIGHT AD, WINNER TAKE ALL.

His Manager Says that Rivers Will Hold the Lightweight Champion to His Offer to Fight at 128 Pounds, Ringside Weight—Will Fight Anywhere that May Be Selected.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

JOE RIVERS MADE FORTY THOUSAND IN ONE YEAR.

FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS for one year's work. That is what little Joe Rivers has received for the last twelve months' work.

Since he fought Danny Webster, January 14, 1911, up to and including his victor of Jack White, Rivers has fought exactly eleven contents and comes out of the mix up with a nice balance of $40,000.

Two years ago Rivers was a young hanger-on about the fight club and was glad to do odd jobs for a dollar or so.

"What is more," said the little Hercules yesterday, as he was being rubbed after working out at Jack Doyle's. "I am not through yet and have just started. I will make more than that this year if I have any luck."

"I am saving the biggest portion of it," Rivers continued, "for you know a fellow don't last long in this game. Just a few years at his best and then the toboggan. I mean to climb to the top of the heap and save my money and then retire from the ring and go into business in Los Angeles."

IN A BURST of burning enthusiasm as he watched the wonderful little fighting machine work out in the ring, Joe Levy, manager of Joe Rivers, hurled a defy at Ad Wolgast, the champion lightweight of the world to meet Rivers at 128 pounds ringside on a basis of winner take all.

"Look at that boy work," said Levy, as Rivers playfully pawed Battling Chico around the ring. "When he paws like that it looks as though he was hardly touching his opponent; but see, Chico's nose is bleeding and his lip is split. Rivers is so strong that he does not know how hard he can hit.

"If Wolgast wants to meet Rivers as he has said and as he seemed mighty eager to do some time ago, let him make 128 pounds as he says he can. Joe will fight him on any terms in the world. Why, I am willing to put it on a basis of winner take all, as I am confident that Joe can take Wolgast's title away from him. There is not exactly any bad feeling between Wolgast and Rivers, but then there is not the best friendship existing, and the contest would be a good one to see.

"You see, we are really the ones to be considered in the proposed match. We have been challenged by Wolgast and, as the party challenged, we should have something to say about terms, etc. However, I am willing to put my boy in against Wolgast at any time, place or on any terms."

Now that Uncle Tom McCarey has broken with Jones and Wolgast on account of the taunting telegram sent by Jones there is a rumor that Jimmy Coffroth of San Francisco is hot after the match of Wolgast and Rivers and will give Wolgast $15,000 that he demands.

When asked yesterday whether he would send Rivers against Wolgast if the San Francisco promoter secured Wolgast's terms, Manager Levy said that he would prefer to fight in Los Angeles, where Joe is known and where he has earned his reputation, but if there was no other way of getting at Wolgast, he would take Rivers to San Francisco or any other place that might be selected.

Rivers will probably fight once more before the Fourth of July date and Abe Attell may be the opponent.

It is understood that Uncle Tom McCarey is now figuring with Attell for a match with Rivers during the last of May or the first of June.

Since Rivers's defeat of Jack White, he has been showered by challenges from all over the country. It seems that every aspiring lightweight in the United States has a burning desire to come to Los Angeles and meet Rivers.

At present the wonderful little Mexican boy is in perfect condition and plans to keep himself in such condition so that he can prepare for a contest in ten days' time.

TOM JONES ANSWERS.

SEATTLE, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Wolgast is in the pugilistic game not only for the love of the game but, also, for the money to be made therefrom. He will box Rivers at any weight Rivers cares to make and Rivers can also name size of any wager he will care to make. But we must be paid for our service. The proposition to T. J. McCarey still stands. Where could we gain anything by boxing Rivers, winner taking all? We would be wagering three to one. Wolgast is sincere in his belief that Rivers does not want to meet him. If so, why doesn't he take a chance as did Wolgast, when he boxed Battling Nelson? The lightweight title is worth more to the holder than any other title in pugilistic fame and worth taking a chance for. Wolgast took that chance.

NATIONAL POLO RATINGS SURPRISE LOCAL MEN.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

AS A RESULT of the splendid polo season which California has enjoyed this winter and spring there are four California teams officially recognized and handicapped by the American Polo Association.

In the revised handicap list just issued by the association the ratings of the four big teams of California are given and contain some surprises.

For instance, Tom Weiss of the Pasadena team is rated as a 4-goal man and one year ago he was rated as a 6-goal man and was forced to object to the high handicap and asked that it be reduced.

The San Mateo players are rated unusually high and in a handicap match with the Pasadena team they would be unmercifully whipped as the Pasadena players drubbed them at Coronado without a handicap.

Coronado Country Club—Frank Belcer, 2; G. A. Burrow, 0; Capt. Francis W. Clark, 0; Lieut. Haldane Doig, 0; Walter H. Dupee, 2; A. Hone, 4; C. G. Hubbard, 0; Victor Johnson, 0; A. C. Landale, 3; Fritz Nave, 1; G. Noton, 4; H. C. Robertson, 4; Maj. Colin C. Ross, 5.

Pasadena Polo Club—Dr. W. A. Boucher, 1; Charlton Burke, 2; Leigh Guyer, 0; John H. Hobbs, 2; Col. W. J. Hogan, 0; Dr. Z. T. Malaby, 1; T. H. McCoy, Jr., 1; John B. Miller, 1; Robert G. Neustadt, 1; Eugene Post, 0; Dr. Harry J. Savage, 2; A. Steven, 0; Harry Weiss, 3; Reginald Weiss, 3; Thomas Weiss, 4.

Santa Barbara County Polo Club—Dr. B. C. Boeseke, 1; E. A. Boeseke, 1; E. J. Boeseke, Jr., 1; Dr. E. J. Boeseke, 2; F. W. Leadbetter, 0; Edgar D. Park, 1; Elliott Rogers, 1; Robert Cameron Rogers, 1.

San Mateo Polo Club—D. Alexander, 0; William L. Breese, 4; G. Cameron, 0; F. J. Carolan, 1; E. de Conlon, 1; W. B. Devereaux, 3; Thomas J. Driscoll, 6; H. C. Hastings, 2; Walter Hobart, 6; W. R. Holloway, 1; E. Howard, 3; G. Janett, 2; John Lawson, 4; E. McAllister, 1; O. Pratt, 0; Cyril Tobin, 4; Richard M. Tobin, 5; W. Tevis, 1; P. Verdier, 1.

MANDOT WANTS TO FIGHT RIVERS.

Ad Exnacious, fight promoter of Memphis, Tenn., yesterday telegraphed to Joe Levy, manager of Joe Rivers, offering a purse for a match between Rivers and Joe Mandot, the idol of New Orleans. Exnacious stated that Mandot was willing to come to Memphis to meet Rivers and would agree to 133 ringside and the match to go eight rounds.

The understanding of Exnacious is that the winner of the proposed Rivers-Mandot contest would be matched against Ad Wolgast for the lightweight championship of the world.

Levy will give the matter a few days' consideration and then wire Exnacious his answer.

McCarey and Coffroth.

FLIP UP TO DECIDE WHO STAGES CHAMP FIGHT.

UNCLE TOM M'CAREY is determined to find who is the legitimate middleweight champion of the world and with that end in view has made a remarkable offer to Jimmy Coffroth of San Francisco to bring about this end.

McCarey is to give an elimination tournament for middleweights and plans to stage Harrick and Mantell, Fagan and Morrow, while Coffroth has just staged the battle between Dillon and Frank Klaus and will put on Sailor Petroskey and Eddie McGoorty.

McCarey's offer is that Coffroth continue his elimination tournament and select the best man he has and McCarey will run off his middleweight tournament and select the best man he has.

Coffroth and McCarey are then to meet and toss a coin in the air to decide which of them will stage the final championship battle. The man who gets the championship battle is to donate a diamond championship belt to the winner of the bout.

The offer was made Saturday and Coffroth has not as yet answered the proposition, although his reply is expected at any moment.

NORTHERN WRESTLING.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—(Sport) Honors in five of the seven P.A.A. wrestling matches here tonight went to athletes of the Olympic Club, the University of California representative winning the special weight event, 125 pounds, and the local Y.M.C.A., the light heavyweight.

The winners were: Featherweight Carl Davis, Olympic; special, R. Lee, U.C.; lightweight, E. Heino, Olympic; welterweight, E. Rogers, Olympic; middleweight, C. Ricks, Olympic; light heavyweight, C. Theophelos, Y.M.C.A.; heavyweight, R. Thompson, Olympic.

First Defeat.

WILD HEAVING BEATS ANGELS.

Fine Fielding Stunts Delight Fair-Sized Crowd.

Driscoll and Page Hit Ball Hard and Often.

BY GREY OLIVER.

H. & C., 11; Los Angeles, 7.

Dillon put his San Jose pitcher, Enz, in yesterday for a workout in the ninth inning of a game with the good H. & C. team and as a result the Looloos got their first defeat of the training season. No particular significance is attached to this, for any team is liable to be beaten in a practice game.

Four Los Angeles pitchers were tried in Leverenz, Chech, Slagle and Enz. Leverenz went four innings and three runs were made off him. Then Chech heaved for three innings. Slagle began in the eighth but went wrong and had to be taken out and Enz, who finished the game, was worse.

Enz really lost the game for the Looloos, for he allowed five runs in the ninth inning and was altogether to the bad.

He opened the ninth by walking both Kaufman and Reams. Then the next four men, McClelland, Dale, Hoffman and Ferraris made singles. Three men scored and three were on bases before there was one man out. Then Stovall flew to right and Cornett fanned and Smith followed with a hard belt to left that scored Dale and Hoffman. Kaufman, batting for the second time in the inning, made the third out.

Five runs scored and this was too much of a handicap for the Looloos to overcome.

The Cornetts got three easy runs in the second on two passes, two singles and a bad throw by Page to the plate. Another run came in the fifth on three singles and a sacrifice fly to center and two more in the eighth on three passes, two hit by pitcher and a force-out.

Two singles, an error and an out made the first Looloo run in the third and two doubles the next one in the fourth. With two out in the fifth two more scored on two errors, two steals and a double, and the final three arrived in the sixth on a pass, two singles and a double.

The game was not particularly remarkable for anything except the hitting and fielding of Driscoll and Page and the fielding of Jess Stovall in center for the Cornetts. Page hit two doubles and a single in five times at bat. Driscoll had two singles and Cooney a single and a double.

The Angels were cheated out of two or three runs by fine running left-handed catches by Stovall and Cornett, both men making star plays. Bigando showed in fine form at short and Hughey Smith was there as usual in the catching line, as was Brooks.

Three fast double plays enlivened the proceedings and the fair-sized crowd of fans who saw the game must have had their money's worth in seeing how the Angels perform under a little pressure.

FINAL INNINGS MUST BE PLAYED OUT.

All ball players and captains should remember this year that the same old rule will be in force as last year in regard to playing out games. There will be a two-hour time limit on the Vernon games beginning at 10:30 o'clock, but when the time limit arrives in the first part or the middle of an inning the entire inning must be played.

Still, there may be a new rule put into effect to call all games at a certain time if a team playing here is to try and make the jump to Portland to open there the following Tuesday. The schedule provides for but two days interval between Los Angeles and Portland and vice versa but the trip cannot be made unless the train is on time to the minute and if it is the travelling team would have to rush from the train to the ball park and begin playing at once.

FEW GAMES THIS WEEK.

The Los Angeles team is to take things easily for several days this week as far as games are concerned. Dillon stated yesterday that there would probably be a game with some team about Wednesday. Naturally there will be practice every day and this week the team will doubtless begin to speed up for the opening day is Tuesday of next week.

THE GENERAL OTIS CUP.

The Times marathon, has attracted a host of runners and the cup offered for the first citizen or soldier to cross the finish line, will be fought for to the last inch of the twelve-mile journey.

ELING'S CUP.

Another special prize has been added to the long list by H. H. Eling, a silver loving cup for the best time made from the last checking station, the residence of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, to the finish at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The same worthy, offered a cup some time ago for the youngest man in the race to finish, regardless of time or place.

A cup is offered for the oldest man to reach the tape and there are cups ranging in size from the fifteen-inch Times trophy for first place to the little silver goblet, which goes to the twenty-fifth place winner.

The entry list at present contains the names of all the stars of the marathon game who are known here and those of some dark horses who will come to town for the sole purpose of taking the number of Peter George and the other two marvels, Haggart and Cabby.

U.S.C. ADMITTED TO THE RUGBY FOOTBALL UNION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The University of Southern California was admitted to the Rugby football union of California and Nevada at the last meeting Saturday night at the clubrooms of the Olympic Club. U.S.C. will represent the South in all things pertaining to Rugby and will have a vote on matters concerning rules and other subjects which are coming before the union.

At this meeting the Northern Rugby Union was dissolved and the larger organization formed. Milton Farmer, manager of the University of California, Manager Burbank of Stanford and Manager Warren Bovard of the University of Southern California were appointed by President Douglas Erskine as a committee to look into the advisability of bringing a star team from Australia next fall to play a series of games with the universities and clubs of the Pacific Coast.

This move was counted by all as a great boost for the English game and the above committee is now working on the matter. This step in admitting U.S.C. to the regular conference puts the South right in line for big games from this time on, as it shows that the larger northern universities and clubs are beginning to see possibilities in the South and are going to lend a helping hand to establish Rugby on a firm basis there before many more years have gone by. No high schools or other junior clubs or schools will be allowed in the organization.

Confessions.

BY GREY OLIVER.

LIVES of great men oft remind us that there is no reason why some of us should always be on the blink. You can get there if you want to, and one early experience of the new Coast League president, Al Baum, shows how. He's not the only one who has been up against it.

Jay Gould used to sell mouse traps; the Vanderbilts once paddled a ferry boat around New York and Abe Lincoln after splitting hickory logs all day spent his evenings on the dirt floor of a log cabin studying by the light of a log fire. There are others and Al Baum is one of them.

He is to get about $5000 a year now for five years to manage the Coast League, but twenty years ago ago if he got $50 a month he considered himself rich. He likes to talk about "them there good old days" and when he was here last week I managed to catch him in an unguarded, reminiscently mellow mood and the flow of soul he got away with pretty near knocked me off the Christmas tree for his frankness in relating how he arose from nothing to something.

"Talk about coming up from nothing to something," he said:

"I'm not bragging. When I was 17 years old I got tired of staying at home in 'Frisco, and decided I'd beat it. That was twenty years ago. I had spent a lot of years studying music and at the time I jumped 'Frisco was first violinist in the First Presbyterian Church.

"One day I pocked my violin and decided I'd come south to see the country. I beat the brakebeam to Stockton on a freight and not having a job when I got there I pawned my violin and got $5 for it. Then I gave the brakeman a steam beer for his advice for he told me to stay home.

"After he saw I wouldn't go back he told me to go to Tracy. I paid my fare to Tracy and I found that there was no freight train from there south until the next day. Stuck around there all day and paid two bits for a room in a cheap hotel that night. When I went to bed there were eight hobos in the room sleeping. Could not stand the smell there. It was worse than any department store.

"So I got up in the middle of the night and beat it out. Soon after I got out I heard a passenger train coming into the town and went and climbed on the blind baggage. I rode all the way from there to just this side of Tehachepi without a thing to eat and nothing to drink.

"My tongue was hanging out of my mouth a foot for a drink of water and my fingers and toes were so cold that I could hardly move them. Guess if I'd gotten off I couldn't have climbed on again and the dust was something fierce.

"Just after the train had passed Tehachepi a rough-necked brakeman saw me and kicked me off the train. But instead of going back to home I was game and got on the next freight and beat it to Los Angeles. That was twenty years ago before they had a million deputy constables in every town to arrest the travelers.

"I didn't stay in Los Angeles very long, but went out to San Bernardino and got a job as chambermaid in a livery stable and worked there several weeks.

"Then I got a better job as porter in a hotel at Redlands, where I only had to work about twenty hours every day and night. After my day's work I didn't have anything to do until tomorrow, but the worst thing about that job was that generally before I got through one day's work, tomorrow came.

"While I was passing away the time there as a porter I got acquainted with an old friend of my family who lived in Berkeley. I guess he not only wrote my folks where I was, but got me a job as telegraph operator in Los Angeles. I was one before I got here.

"The night I came into Los Angeles to work the key I found a ticket waiting for me to return home on and I did and got a good job as an operator later on.

"I would not take anything for my experience on that trip for I learned a lot of things good for any man to learn about making his way in the world and being independent, but I learned more that probably didn't do me any good at that.

BAUM WARNS SEALS ON UMPIRE BAITING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASO ROBLES, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President A. T. Baum of the Coast League struck camp this morning in making the rounds of his circuit and the Seals performed fancy stunts for him in the scheduled double-header. You could hardly call them baseball games, for neither Paso Robles or San Ardo presented any diamond strength at all, but they served to introduce the new players to the president.

The first exhibition ended after seven innings with the Seals winning from Paso Robles by a 13 to 0 score, but the other affair was even worse, San Ardo being on the short end of a 20 to 0 count after five innings of play. The opposition was so poor that little line could be gained on how the Seals might act against a strong team.

President Baum had a heart-to-heart talk with the Seals during the day and outlined to them his policy during the coming season.

"You can cause me a lot of trouble and you can also help me out a lot if you so will," he said to the players.

"I want to explain to you, however, that I will not tolerate any violation of the rules of our league. I might overlook an outburst of temper from a player but I will not stand an umpire-baiter. I am going to back up my umpires and you players must also help. I take this occasion to warn all players that a $5 fine will go against every player who is thrown out of the game by an umpire. This fine goes whether the umpire rules it or not."

VERNON TEAM STARTS ON NORTHERN TRIP.

The Vernon ball team twenty-four strong, left last evening at 7:30 o'clock for Fresno, where it is to train this week away from the peering eyes of the Angels. All the men were taken along except Hasty, Reams, Cummings and Ross.

Those on the train were Catchers Brown, Agnew, Sullivan and Hogan; Pitchers Hitt, Raleigh, Carson, Gray, Whalen, Breckenridge, Stewart, Castleton, Riseberg and Rossback; Infielders Patterson, Brashear, Hosp, Litschi, Burrell and McDonnell, and Outfielders Bayless, Kane, Stinson and Carlisle. The Tigers will not return for several weeks. They are to work at Fresno this week and are scheduled to leave there Sunday night for Sacramento, where they are to open the season, Tuesday of next week. Of course the best wishes of the fans go with the team.

SIX BEST GOLF PLAYERS CHOSEN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 23.—The six best golfers, picked out by the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association as scratch men in handicap tournaments in the 1912 season, and the long awaited list of handicaps were announced tonight. The ratings have been made primarily, as the Executive Committee of the Association puts it, "to enable players to play anywhere in the United States on a proper handicap."

The scratch men are "Chick" Evans, the young Chicagoan who won the French championship last year; Frederick Herreshoff, the far-driving local player, who forced Hilton, the Britisher, to an extra hole in last year's national championship at Apawamis; Albert Seckel, the western champion; J. D. Travers, the metropolitan champion; W. J. Travis, the veteran Garden City golfer, who has won many championships, and Oswald Kirkby, runner-up in the metropolitan championship.

The handicapping plan is the first experiment of the kind made on a national basis in the history of golf in this country, and as such, will be regarded with considerable interest. The committee had been working over the long list for several months.

SENATORS BEATEN BY PORTLAND TEAM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—The Sacramento Coast League team suffered its first defeat of the season here today, Portland Northwestern winning, 8 to 4. The weather was too cold for good baseball and all of the pitchers suffered wildness as a result, the Sacramento twirlers being the worst offenders. Madden of Sacramento went from first to third on a sacrifice hit, the only feature of a slow game.

The second teams of the two squads played in Marysville this afternoon, Sacramento winning 12 to 1.

The score:

Portland, 4; hits, 9; errors, 1.

Umpire—Jack McCarthy.

OAKLAND GRABS AN EASY VICTORY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, March 24.—The Oakland Coast Leaguers defeated the St. Mary's College baseball team 11 to 2 here today. Although they had the better of the hitting, the collegians' six errors and Glavenich's twelve passes to first gave Oakland an easy time.

Ables struck out ten men in the six innings, in which he officiated while Gregory allowed but three hits and stopped the scoring. Oakland made seven runs in the fifth inning.

Score:

St. Mary's, 2; hits, 3; errors, 6.

Oakland, 11; hits, 6; errors, 2.

NEW PITCHER FLATER ARRIVES IN TOWN.

Pitcher Flater, whom Berry traded for Delmas with the Oakland team, arrived here yesterday morning and looks to be in good physical condition. He says his arm is all right but a little sore as the result of a busher hitting it with a thrown ball in a game up North last week. He thinks he will have no trouble in rounding to.

The Oakland team will probably not be really ready when the season opens, says Flater, on account of lack of work. Copious rains in the North have done much to delay the work of all the teams but they still have this week in which to get ready.

WEEKLY CARDS FOR THREE CUSHION GAMES.

Monday—Brownstein and Davidson.
Tuesday—Bayne and Brownstein.
Wednesday—Pearne and Davidson.
Thursday—Clark and Kendrick.
Friday—Morse and Mamele.

BIGANDO MUST HIT.

"I wish that Kid could hit," said Dillon yesterday pointing to Bigando at short. "He might after a time, but he is sure a good fielder." He does not seem to know how to hit, but there have been thousands in this league the same way. That seems to be the trouble with the majority of them.

DILLON IN NO HURRY.

Dillon stated yesterday that he would not begin to weed out his players until about a week after the season opened and probably not then. It will depend on how the regulars are in the way of sore arms. Eight or ten men will have to be thrown over.

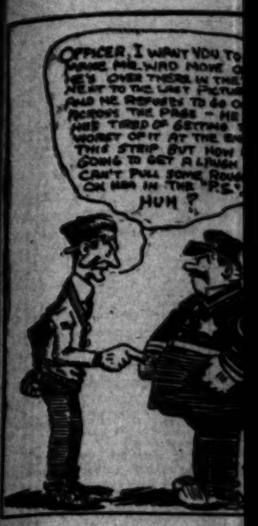
Well, Mr. W...



FRANK MANTELL could never pass himself off as a bank clerk on the street. Frank is a fighter and good one at that. He is matched to fight Jack Herrick next Saturday afternoon at Vernon.

Frank has a powerful jaw, shows great strength in his neck and shoulders. But of course, these things do not always win fights. Jack Herrick, the boy he is to meet, is built very much along the same lines. This, when from what I have seen each do in training, makes it look like a pretty even fight.

Mantell boxed three rounds with Jerry Davis, who is matched to fight Jack Clark in one of the preliminaries, and three with Roscoe Taylor. Mantell is an easy fellow on his training partners and does—not use them as roughly as some fighters do.

Joe Rivers was an interested spectator to Mantell's boxing and when Taylor entered the ring, Joe said, "Why that fellow is more bow-legged than I am. I stopped a greasy pig at a German picnic once when I was a kid, but Mantell would not have a chance."

Frank is a pretty clever fellow, he can work with both hands, and uses a short jolty punch with each. This always means plenty of power behind them when he wants to let them go. Taylor boxes somewhat in a crouching position, and this gave Davis a chance to reach his face often, but Mantell does not seem to mind his blows. Frank is undoubtedly take them often and hard, and seems to have plenty of stamina. He perspired very freely and seemed to be a little soft, but the coming week will put him in fine condition. Jack Doyle is looking after him and there will be no slacking while he is on the job.

Joe Rivers and Battling Chico gave a clever exhibition of three rounds, and then Babe Davis went three more with Joe. Joe seems to like to box in or out of training.

Rivers very kindly consented to appear next Sunday afternoon at the Ranch show, with Battling Chico, assistant in raising funds to send three amateur athletes from this city to Stockholm. Joe Levy was very willing that Rivers should assist in this good cause. Jim Jeffries has very kindly consented to act as referee for the bout. Work of this kind of professional fighters, is highly appreciated by all lovers of clean amateur sport. The appearance of these two great fighters, should draw a packed house.

An interesting story is told of how Jack Herrick broke into the fighting game. Jack used to work in an iron foundry in Kewaunee, Ill. One day during the lunch hour, Jack was induced to box with one of the boys. Herrick was a new comer and did not take kindly to the invitation as the other fellow was much heavier. But he finally consented, and after three rounds of slugging, he knocked his man out.

Jack wanted the referee to count, but he refused to do so. This made Jack hot in the collar and he said, "I will fight him again just to show you know that I won, and can do so."

They gave his opponent fifteen minutes to come around, then he resumed the performance by knocking him out for five minutes. This made a hit with the boys and they encouraged him to take up the fighting game.

Jack thought it over, and walked over to Chicago, hunted up old Harry Gilmore and asked for a trial. He was given it and showed so much good stuff that Gilmore took him in, trained and taught him for several months, then took him up to Seattle and matched him with Kid Logan, who was virtually from Asha, which was virtually his first fight. That settled Jack in the iron shop. He has been going good ever since.

Tommy Ryan is expected in town shortly with his new comer, Howard Denver, who is matched to fight Bert Kerby next month. Ryan will no doubt give us some great dope on the game. Tommy in his day was the cleverest middleweight in the world, and coming just at this time when the middleweights are in the limelight, will be just at the right time.

Bob Monroe, the little featherweight, is hot after Jem Percy. Jem fought Bob for a fight. Bob weighs 123 at 10 o'clock, and Jem 124 or 126 at 10 o'clock. Why not split the difference and there is some kind of an agreement? There are two good boys and would make a good fight if they could come to something like an equal agreement.

Big Jim Cameron called on Jack a few days ago, just to tell him he had hurt his hand when he was knocked out by Soldier Elder. Jim looked out that it happened as he was worry that it happened as he was figuring on challenging Jack if he won.

...and better stick to the sewer

Well, Mr. Wad Is Still in the Next-to-the-Last Picture---And He Says He's Going to Stay There, Too!

FRANK MANTELL could never get himself off as a bank clerk on Broadway. Frank is a fighter and got one at that. He is matched to meet Jack Herrick next Saturday night at Vernon.

Herrick has a powerful jaw, shows plenty of strength in his neck and shoulders. But of course, these things do not always win fights. Jack Herrick, as far as he is to meet, is built very much along the same lines. This, aside from what I have seen each do in training, makes it look like a pretty good fight.

Mantell boxed three rounds with Young Davis, who is matched to fight Jack Clark in one of the preliminaries, and three with Roscoe Taylor. Mantell is a easy fellow on his training stunts and does not use them as much as some fighters do.

Joe Rivers was an interested spectator at Mantell's boxing and when he entered the ring, Joe said, "Why Rivers is more bow-legged than ever. I stopped a greasy pig at a county picnic once when I was a kid and Mantell would not have a chance."

Frank is a pretty clever fellow, he can work with both hands, and uses a good jolty punch with each. This punch means plenty of power behind it when he wants to let them go. He stands somewhat in a crouching style, and this gave Davis a chance to land his face often, but Mantell did not seem to mind his blows. Frank can undoubtedly take them often and hard, and seems to have plenty of stamina. He perspired very freely and seemed to be a little soft, but another week will put him in good condition. Jack Doyle is looking after him and there will be no alibis while he is on the job.

Joe Rivers and Battling Chico gave a very fine exhibition of three rounds. Young Babe Davis went three more with Joe. Joe seems to like to box better than to mix it, and is out of training.

Joe Levy very kindly consented to appear last Sunday afternoon at the Vernon show, with Battling Chico, and is raising funds to send three athletes from this city to Stockholm. Joe Levy was very willing that the Riverses should assist in this benefit. Jim Jeffries has very kindly consented to act as referee for the bouts. Work of this kind of promoters, is highly appreciated by all lovers of clean amateur sport. The appearance of these two men, should draw a packed house.

An interesting story is told of how Jack Herrick broke into the fighting game. Jack used to work in an iron foundry in Kewaunee, Ill. One day during the lunch hour, Jack was induced to box with one of the boys. Jack was a new comer and did not take kindly to the invitation as the other party was much heavier. But Jack consented, and after three rounds of shooting, he knocked his opponent out.

Jack requested the referee to count. The referee refused to do so. This made Jack mad to the collar and he said, "I will go on again just to show you that I won, and can do so again."

Jack Herrick in his opponent fifteen minutes around, then he retired from the performance by knocking out in three minutes. This made the fans sore and they encouraged Jack to take up the fighting game.

Jack thought it over, and walked right up and hunted up old Harry Gilmore and asked for a trial. He was given and showed so much good that Gilmore took him in hand and taught him for several months, then took him up to Ventura and matched him with Kid Ashe, a fifteen-round decision for Ashe, which was virtually a first fight. That settled Jack with the fight shop. He has been going ever since.

Young Ryan is expected in town with his new comer, Howard Smith, who is matched to fight Bert Kenny next month. Ryan will no doubt have some great dope on the new comer. Tommy in his day was almost middleweight in the ring and coming just at this time when middleweights are in the limelight, will be just at the right time.

Tommy Ryan, the little featherweight, after Jem Percy. Jem is to fight Bob for a fight. Bob is to weigh in at 10 o'clock, and Jem at 133 at 10 o'clock.

I see the difference and disagreement and there is a mess kind of an agreement on the part of both boys and would make a good fight if they could come to an equal agreement.

Jim Cameron called on Jack a few days ago, just to tell him to put his hand when he was knocked out by Soldier Elder. Jim says that it happened as he was challenging Jack on challenging Jack to the scrap digging," said Jack. "There is more money in it for you."

These fighters have more excuses when they lose, than a boy, when he is caught stealing molasses out of his mother's cupboard.

NO MORE TRAINING HERE FOR VERNONS.

"No more training here for me," said Hap Hogan yesterday evening just before he boarded the train for Fresno with his Vernon team.

"You see it is not right for two teams to train in the same town for the reason that every time one of the teams train or practice, the other team is watching the work. You can't do any signal work and that's why the Vernons will not train here again if the Los Angeles club does. The arrangement is bad for both of us."

TRAINING IN TEXAS.

bringing up a team of fifteen of the strongest point-winners and the meet, while it will go to Stanford in the end, will not be a walkaway in many of the events.

The fact that northern universities can enter such large fields against the fifteen-man teams of the south naturally precludes any victory for the south, but the Pomona first place men are good enough to win, though the big score will be rolled up on the second and third points for Stanford.

DOPE FOR POMONA.

The mile and two-mile belong to Pomona on dope and the 440 is another race which will go south. In the first races Bob Sturgis and Loveland are too good for the rest of the field, while in the latter named event Lawrence Gillette, with his record of 50 seconds flat for the two furlong event is far too much for any of Dad Moulton's braves.

McKee the Stanford sprinter who beat Waldo Throop on the Southern trip is out of the game, but Capt. Tom Coleman is back once more under his war bonnet.

The Oxy baseball team left for the South last night after making a creditable showing with the Stanford varsity in the two games series. The Tigers played the game and were dangerous at all stages of both battles. The showing made against the Cards puts the Tigers right in line for championship honors in the southern intercollegiate struggle.

LOS ANGELES POLY FIRST IN TENNIS CONTESTS.

ADDING another victory to their already long list in the racquet game, the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School tennis team defeated the Long Beach Polytechnic High School players by the score of 14 to 5 yesterday morning on the Virginia Hotel courts, Long Beach.

Los Angeles's victory yesterday was the sixth successive one of the season, the present team having not met with one defeat as yet. Out of thirty-six matches, Los Angeles has only lost five. The team will be entered in the Ojai invitation tennis tournament to be held at that place April 18, 19 and 20.

In the meet yesterday, the winner of which was decided by points, Los Angeles won the second, third and fourth singles events, and both the first and second doubles, which counted fourteen points. Long Beach won the first singles, which netted five points, which was the only score.

In the first singles, McCormick of Long Beach, won from Baker of Los Angeles, by the score of 0-6, 6-0, 7-5. Hopkins of Los Angeles, easily won from Thode of Long Beach, in the second singles, by the score of 6-2, 6-4.

Blakeslee of Los Angeles, took two straight sets from Craig of Long Beach, in the third singles, 6-2, 6-2.

Shafer of Los Angeles, won from Thompson, Long Beach, in the fourth singles, 8-6, 7-5, which was the most stubbornly contested match of the tournament.

Shafer and Hopkins won from Craig and Thompson in the second doubles, 6-2, 6-4; Baker and Blakeslee taking the final match, the first doubles, by the score of 6-2, 5-7, 6-2.

The Motorcycles.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS BROKEN AT THE STADIUM.

BEFORE an audience of 6700 two world's motorcycle records were wrecked at the Stadium yesterday afternoon. M. G. Graves lowered the six-mile mark when he beat Charles Balke in a dangerously close finish which put the new time at 4 m. 47 1-5s., and the one mile tandem record of 48 seconds formerly held by Graves and Ward, was cut to 55 2-5s. by Hubert Kittle and "Red" Dunham.

Early in the afternoon the largest crowd of pie-pan followers since the great 12,000 of opening day began to assemble from all directions and long before the first race was called, the seats in the vicinity of the finish line were held at a premium.

The first race, which was labeled "amateur," proved a classy farce. Three entrants were supposed to appear, but one of the would-be speeders failed to show up and the race was started with but two machines hitting the boards. Neither motors were working well and Don Johns left the course with a limping engine, leaving Montgomery to race two more laps, when he was awarded the race by the referee.

Bout number two was another disappointment to the enthusiastic spectators. A class B, four-mile race, in which T. M. Samuelson beat Humilson. J. R. Kittle took third over Ray Peck in the time of 3m.5 3-5s. It was announced just before the start of this race that Will Samuelson would ride in class A and John Albright found his motor had sprained a tendon in the second mile and retired from the ring.

The tandem performance against time, which resulted in a new record, was the first interesting act of the bill; but the absence of competition and the accompanying dangers, detracted from the thrills of the number.

THE REAL THING.

The fourth race brought out the real qualities of the sport. Walters, Graves and Balke left Will Samuelson far behind in their mad ride which was so full of hair-raising close calls. The three passed and repassed each other till the last lap was announced and in a final burst of speed Balke won by a scant yard over Graves and Wolters was in the same cloud of gas smoke, not five feet in the wake of the fast pair. The time was announced as 2m. 3-5s. for the three miles.

In the second heat of the class B grind, Ray Peck won the first honors in 2m.5s. T. M. Samuelson captured second place, leaving Albright to third money over Humilson.

The second heat of the three-mile race for points went to Graves in the time of 2m.1s. Balke was a close second and Wolters followed close for third.

Humilson negotiated the five-mile spin in 3m. 56 2-5s. J. R. Kittle was the second place man in this race, the other rider failing to finish.

BALKE CAME BACK.

Balke came back at Graves in the final four miles of the race for points and won in the clocking of 2m. 43 2-5s. Wolters was again shoved into third place and Samuelson was lapped by the fast trio. It is a big jump from class B into the premier ranks and it may be some time before Will is able to hold his own in the big league company of motordom.

The one big race of the day was the six-mile, free-for-all. Graves won, Balke took second and Wolters again was the loyal third-placer. This was positively the prettiest race seen on the local track since the opening performance. Wolters came from the rear twice and passed the field only to be overhauled by Graves, who in turn was passed by Balke. The last three laps were perplexing gambles, but when the smoke cleared away Graves was declared the winner with a new world's record at 4m. 47 1-5s. Balke was again second and Wolters third.

The grand stands cheered the winner as he relaxed around the course and after he was safely housed in his shed many cheers were passed out over the timbers.

The final round was a spiritless offering after the good number which had gone before, a two mile invitation affair in which Peck outclassed Kittle to the time of 1m. 32 3-5s.

Van Court's Boxing Lesson.

No. 65.—Clinch No. 8.

This clinch is used when both lead with the left and miss; when both counter with the left and miss; or when you wish to prevent your opponent from clinching. When you miss, quickly bend the left elbow and press the forearm against your opponent's head and neck, bearing your weight on him; at the same time slip your right hand under his left arm between the elbow and shoulder and push him away, as shown in Cut No. 70. This clinch can also be used after you lead and hit, by skipping the left arm over your opponent's shoulder in the same manner.

The Training Camp.

BEAVERS ATE ALIVE AN AMBITIOUS LOCAL TEAM.

BY WINNIE CUTTER.

SANTA MARIA, March 23.—During a special matinee performance at Thornburg Park, this afternoon, the Beavers took the Pinal balltossers into camp by the overwhelming score of 22 to 2. The defeated nine hails from a near-by oil lease and has been touted by some as the fastest semi-professional aggregation in these parts. Having participated in a 6 to 1 contest last Sunday against the Yannigans, the Pinalites, who deem their heroes superior to the club which represents Santa Maria, clamored for the honor of tussling against the regulars.

Thus was Santa Maria relegated to the shelf, while the oil boys took up the burden. It was slaughter. The semi-pros took a balloon ascension early in the contest, and were nearly suffocated by the high altitude before they got back to terra firma.

The outcome of this contest has been soothing salve to the wounded feelings of the local team. Most of its members felt that an injustice had been done them by their team having been dropped from the card. Santa Maria has played three fast contests against the professionals, winning one 5 to 2, and losing the other two 3 to 1 and 9 to 6. Incidentally this afternoon's contest furnished the fans with the most peppery exhibition yet given by the Beavers.

Gilligan and Steiger were seen in action for the first time and both are some pitchers. Gilligan had a world of speed with a big break operating on his fast one. The opposing team could not fathom the shoots of the bewildering Cantillionite. Steiger uses a cross-fire, has good speed, and his curve is a "fooler." The left-hand sluggers of the league will have to look out for this sturdy lad. His control was not of the best today. Temple worked the final three frames, but appeared to be flinging 'em under wraps.

Stringer, the Pinal slabster who fanned a dozen of the Yannigans last Sunday, had a sore elbow today and was landed on hard. Nevertheless McCreedie likes his looks and will probably keep an eye on him. De Vine, the Pinal southpaw, pitched nice ball for his four frames of effort.

The Portland infield worked fine today. Bancroft made a sensational stop of a liner that appeared to be making a straight shoot for the fence. The lithe Nebraskan shot into the air and pulled down the ball with one hand. Bancroft also furnished the only contribution to the Beavers' error column.

Kibble and Osborn played with the semi-pros and put up a nice brand of ball. This Roundup, Montana lad sure has the right stuff in his make-up. He remarked to some friends after the game today, "Yes, I'm a tourist now, boys; but I'm coming back next year, and just a third faster." And I believe he will.

VERNONS WIN AGAIN FROM AMATEUR TEAMS.

The Vernons went up against the Athletics out at the Vernon grounds yesterday morning and won by a score of 6 to 1.

The game was a fairly even one until the seventh inning when the Tigers fell on Pitcher Perkins of the Athletics and hammered him all around the field and with the assistance of several errors piled up four runs. Bayless was the star in the hitting line in making three singles in three times up.

FROM THE MASON TO THE MAJESTIC

By JULIAN JOHNSON.

The George Fuller Golden benefit, or to be more exact, the testimonial to the late Mr. Golden's family, came off very successfully at the Hamburger Majestic Theater yesterday afternoon, and in this connection, I am reminded of one of Golden's world famous "Casey" stories.

Casey was the psychic partner always materialized by the great monologist. Golden's wonderful adventures with Casey might have filled volumes, but no yarn was better than the adventure the two experienced within sound of the chimes of a great English abbey.

The story:

George and Casey were walking along a grassy river bank, when suddenly the air was ecstatically rent asunder by the caressing notes of the most mellow and silvery chimes Golden had ever heard.

He stopped in amazement.

"Casey!" he exclaimed, "isn't that sublime—isn't that the most ideal music that ever fell on human ears?"

"Huh?" asked Casey, blankly.

"Those chimes—isn't that melody almost celestial?"

"What?"

"The chimes—the chimes, man! Did you ever hear anything sweeter, or more beautiful?"

"Would you mind sayin' that all over again? I couldn't hear ye fer them damn bells!"

Misery note: The reward of too-muchness is now coming to Jay Barnes. In his sweet and youthful ardence to fill up space on the George Fuller Golden benefit, he rhapsodized columns on the hundred-dollar contributions made to the good cause by George M. Cohan, Wilton Lackaye and others.

Yesterday afternoon the committee, pulling a few clippings, politely asked him for the checks.

Only echo answered.

"The Neverhomes" is now being played backward.

To be explicit, the firehouse scene has been reversed. The chief's station is now on the right—from the stage viewpoint, while the fire horses and the engine are upon the left.

This gives the pair a clean run into the property-room, showing an empty stage when the curtain is taken up for the first time.

Correct, of course, but they don't all think about that.

House-manager Sackett of the Morosco, has a great sense of diplomacy.

A party of sailors entered this Morosco institution the other evening when Sackett happened to be on the door.

He rapidly tore the tickets handed him.

"Port—starboard. Starboard—port."

Capt. Lafitte's army emerged upon the Main street sidewalks at 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, shining and startling in all the glory of grease-paint.

"I washed my face ten minutes and I couldn't get the blamed stuff off!" confided one young pirate.

A change in the cast of the Belasco company's production of Austin Adams's play, "The Landslide," tonight will find William Gibson succeeded by William C. Dowlan.

The new leading man comes to the Belasco with a splendid reputation, gained with a number of prominent stock companies in the East as well as in the support of several well-patronized stars.

Mr. Gibson's plans for the immediate are unannounced. It is understood that he has been offered the position of leading man with Marjorie Rambeau on her starring tour of the chief cities of the Pacific Coast—a tour that will bring the well-liked actress to the Hamburger Majestic Theater within the next month or so.

John Harley, who is known in theatrical circles as Liebler & Co.'s chief "coast defender," is headed Los Angelesward, heralding the approach to the Majestic Theater of William Hodge in his original part in "The Man from Home."

This Booth Tarkington-Harry Leon Wilson comedy has enjoyed a remarkable career. The appearances of Hodge in the play have been confined to a half dozen of the larger cities of the East, these engagements each covering periods of from six months to two years—the latter being the record for "The Man from Home" at the Astor Theater, New York.

Ever since the first performance of "The Landslide" Author Adams has been seeking a chance to respond to the ushers' cry of "Author, author," but the opportunity unfortunately has been lacking.

However—well, here's the story, just as Charles Eyton relates it. Recall that Eyton is the gentleman who uses the first person singular in what follows:

"I had a request from the Knickerbocker Club yesterday to deliver an address on "The Drama" before the organization. Now wouldn't I be a fine gink, talking about the drammer? If you wanted some bright, chirpy, inside remarks on the 'Effect of the late Marquis of Queensberry on the Squared Circle,' I would be there, all adorned with the neat little sleigh bell scenic effect. But the drammer. Oh, the very idea of it almost makes me shudder.

"The Knickerbocker committee was persistent, however. One of the committeeman said that they simply had to have me talk about the drama—either me or Bill Fenn, and rather than let Fenn unwind his oratory and spread his forensic wings I suggested Austin Adams as a substitute.

"When I mentioned the name of the author of 'The Landslide' the committeeman avowed a complete ignorance as regards the Adams ability as a sputer. They admitted his talents as a playright, but would he get goose-fleshy and stage-froght in front of the assembled Knickerbockerites?

"I assured the committee that Mr. Adams was the gentleman who wrote the Orators' Handy Aid—that his collection of post-prandial anecdotes was outdistanced by Manny Lowenstein's flock of popular songs—that the Adams person could play snap-the-whip with the English language—give verbal imitations of Roman candles and pin-wheels, that would cause his audience to unconsciously murmur 'ah's' of real admiration and that when it came to the closing remarks the stars of heaven had better look out or some of his rounded periods and alliterative allusions might brush up against them in their flight to the rhetorical home-plate.

"When I spoke to Mr. Adams about the matter he gleefully rubbed his hands together and querried: 'And what shall I speak about? Shall I mention 'The Landslide?'

"And he actually got peeved when I answered:

James O'Shea, treasurer of the Hamburger Majestic Theater has, on a number of recent occasions, made the request that he be favored with a press notice in this column.

All right, Mr. O'Shea, here goes:

And incidentally it is worth mentioning that the treasurers of the real theaters, along Broadway, New York, do not consider it exactly au fait to sell tickets while not wearing their coats.

Any other local ticket seller craving for newspaper publicity? Step lively, gentleman, do not delay the others in the line!

Charles Kavanaugh is seriously considering an engagement for the Ferris Hartman company in El Paso as soon as the current season at the Grand Opera House is a thing of the past.

Manager Kavanaugh has been reading of the thousands of United States soldiers in and about El Paso and has an idea they would like to see Walter DeLeon, Muggins Davies, Ferris Hartman and the others of the Hartman organization.

It is an off day with Alex Pantages when he does not book a grand opera star for his vaudeville circuit. This thing has become a fixed habit with "Pan." This time it is Madame Chamberlan, who will make her debut with the Pantages circuit here in Los Angeles. The date—next Monday.

McIntyre & Heath are on the coast they reach Los Angeles. The Orpheum has 'em and Clarence Drown is already practicing up his famous understudy act.

Charlotte Greenwood, the human beanpole now at the Orpheum, has been offered a steller role in a musical comedy to be written around her unique personality. Maybe she will take it—maybe.

"Fischer luck," said "Pop" the other night when it rained hard just after the sold out sign swung out at the Lyceum. It sure was.

Jessie Millward and John Glendenning are headed this way via the Orpheum, in what is said to be a very strong sketch. So is Robert T. Haines. Valerie Bergere beats 'em all into Los Angeles, however.

Mike Bernard and Amy Butler, each having previously done the Orpheum circuit in a separate act, are now consolidated, and soon to be here. Mike is "some" piano raggist, and Amy is a rolypoly little singer. It ought to be a winning team.

It used to be Taylor, Kranzman and White; now it is Kranz and White. But so far on their Orpheum tour, the duo have made as good as did the trio. We'll see when they reach here shortly.

Edwards Davis dramatization of Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian at last, and playing down this way. But it will be about six weeks before Grey," one of the most brilliant one-act plays that has ever come to the vaudeville stage, will be one of the headline acts of the Empress bill two weeks hence.

Included in this list are many of the present season's biggest successes and give evidence that the Majestic will have few dark weeks throughout the remainder of the year.

The list released yesterday includes Henry W. Savage's production of "Every Woman," the New Theater success, "The Blue Bird," and also "The Piper," with Edith Wynne Mathison; John Mason in Augustus Thomas's latest success, "As a Man Thinks;" "The Kiss Waltz," May Irwin in her new play, De Wolf Hopper in "Pinafore," Holbrook Blinn in "The Boss," "Bunty Pulls the Strings" and "Bought and Paid For," both of which are two of the biggest hits in New York today and which will be seen here this summer with the companies now appearing in the metropolis. "The Rose of Panama," a recent musical comedy hit; "The Wedding Trip," another musical comedy success; Fritzi Scheff in "The Night Birds;" Viola Allen, Gertrude Elliott and the Irish players.

Vaudeville lovers will no doubt find interest in the announcement that Lew Welch, the Hebrew character comedian who ranks with his brother, Joe Welch, in his Hebrew characterizations, will be seen at the Empress Theater two weeks hence in his comedy gem "Levinsky's Old Shoes," in which he scored such a success at this house last season.

Gertrude Short.

ARMSTRONG TAKES THE GRAND.

Plans for the summer season at the Grand have just been completed, and all contracts and arrangements necessary have been "signed, sealed and delivered."

Two weeks from tonight, which falls on the eighth day of April, the Armstrong musical company will begin an indefinite season at the Grand, presenting short musical comedies similar to those which made the company a success at the Lyceum Theater last summer. Ferris Hartman and his company will, on Saturday, April 6th, vacate the Grand, and will at once begin a tour of the entire West, playing as far east as Denver. The Ferris Hartman Enterprises Company, which has held the lease on the Grand Operahouse for the past three years or more, has transferred the lease to Messrs. Howell and Skinner, owners of the Lyric Theater, in Spring street, just above Second street, and also owners of the Bentley Grand at Long Beach. The Armstrong company will be presented at the Grand under the direction of Howell and Skinner.

For the season at the Grand the Armstrong company will be greatly enlarged. The chorus will be doubled and a special quartette will be added. Among the principals will be Ed Armstrong, Will Armstrong, Ethel Davis, Clara Howard, Gus Leonard, Eddie Mitchell, Hazel Wilson, Minnie Rhoades and several other well-known in the musical comedy field. It is the intention of the Armstrong company to have an even two dozen "Baby Dolls," prettier even than those who set hearts aflame last summer.

Three shows will be given every day except Monday and Friday, when the usual matinee will be eliminated. Special features will be added every week so as to make the performance as attractive and as lively as possible.

The Armstrong company has enjoyed popularity in Los Angeles and other cities along the Pacific Coast. If this popularity continues during the company's regime at the Grand the aggregation will be continued there permanently.

Howell and Skinner have a six months' lease on the theater with a privilege of sixteen years. It is probable that the Grand may become one of a circuit of theaters where burlesque will be played by permanent organizations for extended seasons.

SCORES OF CRACK REVOLVER SHOOTS.

The number of dark horses and surprising stunts pulled off at the first season shoot of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club at its Glendale range Sunday made the spectators think they had dropped in at a regular rode.

REV. BAKER P. LEE.
CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.
THE LOVE OF CHRIST FOR ALL US IS INDEED MOST WONDERFUL.

REV. BAKER P. LEE, in his sermon at Christ Episcopal Church yesterday, spoke on the subject "A Royal Friendship." He took his text, Samuel 18-I: 'The Soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David." He said in part:

"Here is the fairest flower of blooms in the Garden of God, the heart-gripping love story in all literature, the clarion call of a friendship that stirs the very soul of humanity. And it is as fresh, as vigorant and personal today as though it had just appeared in the morning newspaper.

"For many days Jonathan had seen by his father's tent and watched the gigantic Goliath of Gath mock and insult the hosts of Israel, and his heart burned with shame when he saw that there was no man in all the host of Israel who dared fight this foe in single combat. And then one morning, while the valley was still ringing with the taunts of the enemy, into his father's royal tent there comes a young man, strong of limb, clear-eyed, broad-shouldered and as agile as a deer. This young man modestly asks to be allowed to fight Goliath.

"What a laugh went up among the officers of Saul, but the ruddy cheeks of David grew redder still, as he cried 'Give me the chance, oh King, and I will show this pagan braggart whether there be a God in Israel.' With warmingled emotions Jonathan saw the unarmed youth go forth. He heard the contemptuous roar of the giant as the saw young David spring forward with the sling whirling around his head; he heard the smack of the stone as it crashed into the skull and saw the giant blasphemer fall; he saw David snatch his sword and cut off the head, and then the charging Israelites sweeping the panic-stricken Philistines from the Valley, and David was the popular hero, the savior of his people.

"Jonathan's admiration now ripened into a deep and abiding love, so sincere, so unselfish that it will ever shine in the constellations of human friendship as the pole-star of affection. Jonathan realises that but for David he would have become a slave and his nation in bondage. Deep still it arouses the people again to personal dependence upon God. So it is with us and the Cross of Christ. We may admire His matchless Gospel, we may revere His spotless manhood, we may honor His Church and even now really be one of His followers, as it is preeminently a respectable and decent thing to do, but until we realise each of us, that we have been saved by Jesus Christ from sin, death and perdition, then our admiration and respect will never ripen into love.

"That is why Christianity differs from all other religions and philosophies, because it is a personal question and consists not so much in doctrines, creeds or even a certain line of conduct, but in the real-hearted devotion to our great David, Jesus the Christ."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.
THE CEREMONY OF BAPTISM, A WASHING OF THE SOUL, IS DEFENDED.

"Why Baptists Baptize" was the topic of the sermon by Dr. C. M. Carter, at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning. He said in part:

"That Baptists do not baptize to save the soul. Baptists do not believe that baptism has even the least thing to do with the salvation of the soul, nor to neglect it the loss of the soul, any more than any other sin of omission. Baptists baptize only those who are already saved through their faith in Jesus Christ. That the laying on of a dasap hand or the plunging one beneath the water by some fellow Christian has anything to do with salvation they believe is absurd. Baptism is a duty; it is a serious matter to neglect it, but it is not fatal. Love requires it, but a loving Father will not damn a soul to hell because it is neglected any more than the neglect of any other duty.

"The whole matter of the baptism, so-called, of babies arose from the belief that baptism was essential to salvation. But as this awful doctrine has passed away in the light of Christian civilization, people have begun to neglect the so-called baptism of babies.

"Baptists baptize because it is the command of Jesus: 'Go ye . . . make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them.' Jesus gave an example 'to fulfill all righteousness.' Baptists baptize because of, not in order to attain the remission of sins. It is a type and symbol of forgiveness of sin. 'Wash me, and I shall be writter than snow.' 'Washed in the blood of the Lamb.' The washing in the baptismal water is but a symbol of the washing of the soul in the blood of Christ. As the whole soul needs cleansing and not a part, so only a complete washing is a sufficient symbol. Baptism is a living picture of the method of salvation through the death, burial and resurrection of our Lord. We are buried with Christ in baptism and rise to walk in newness of life.

"Why do Baptists insist on immersion and immersion only, instead of sprinkling or pouring on? Because there is but 'One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all.' Jesus was baptized but once and, therefore, could have been baptized in but one way. Jesus says, 'Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you.' No one, pope, priest, church, preacher or individual has any right to change the command of Jesus. He knew what He wanted, and that He commanded, and that we should obey. Sprinkling, pouring on, laying a dampened hand upon, and immersion are four different things, likely one can be scripture baptism."

ST. ATHANASIUS CHURCH.
PASSION IN POLITE SOCIETY. BLOOD IS A WORD MUCH USED IN THE BIBLE.

Rev. Charles T. Murphy in St. Athanasius Episcopal Church yesterday, which was Passion Sunday, spoke upon the subject of "Christ's Blood," saying in part:

"The blood of Christ is the most mysterious, the most subtile, the most invincible power we know of. Modernism cannot stand before it, because every heresy has no place for its work, and no answer for its achievement. Modern unbelief cannot stand before it, for no modern man can stand unmoved when the blood of man is shed; much less can any man with any manhood left, stand unmoved before the sight of the blood-stained of the sinless lamb of God. Sin cannot stand before it, although sin demand that precious blood to flow, for that blood washes sin away. And when the yawning wounds in the body of Christ are to close, it must be the blood of Christ whose healing power again unites the church.

"We do not talk much about blood in polite society. Yet in the religion of the Incarnation the word and thought is constantly present. In the Sprinkling, pouring on, or the dampened hand upon, and there are four different things. There can be scripture baptism."

REV. CHARLES T. MURPHY.
ST. ATHANASIUS CHURCH.
SOME IN POLITE SOCIETY, BLOOD IS A WORD MUCH USED IN THE BIBLE.

Rev. Charles T. Murphy in St. Athanasius Episcopal Church yesterday morning was Passion Sunday, spoke on the subject of "Christ's Blood," in part:

"The blood of Christ is the most subtile, the most powerful we know of. Modern science cannot stand before it, because it has no place for its existence. Modern unbelief cannot stand before it, for so modern man can be ashamed when the blood of Christ is mentioned, much less can any man of manhood left, stand unabashed in the sight of the blood-stained lamb of God. Sin is so loathsome before it, although sin is, that precious blood to flow, for it washes sin away. And the most yawning wounds in the soul are to close, it must be the blood of Christ whose healing power enters the church.

"We do not talk much about blood in the religion of the day. Yet in the religion of the Old Testament the word and the idea is constantly present. In the scriptures the blood of Christ is spoken of as the purchase price paid by God for the church—as the means by which we are cleansed from all sin—as the supernatural force by which even our consciences are purged from dead works to serve the living God. We are told that we have our redemption through His blood; that we Gentiles who were once afar off are now made nigh in the blood of Christ; that we are justified by His blood; that God has made peace with this sinful earthly race through the blood of His cross, and in many other places the Bible attributes the most wonderful power and achievements to the precious blood of the lamb.

"Nor dare we stop this catena here. At the heart of the religion of Jesus Christ lies the one act of public worship He Himself has ordained, the Lord's supper, wherein is obeyed His solemn injunction, 'Drink ye all of this; this is My blood of the new covenant, which is shed for many for the remission of sins. By this word the Savior reveals the basis of the new and permanent covenant between heaven and earth; He announces the panacea for the wounds made by sin; He multiplies and delivers the precious stream to all places and for all ages for those who believe in Him.

"This is not metaphore. 'The blood is the life,' said the old law which forbade men to eat it. The blood of Jesus Christ is His life, which He is giving for the sins of the world. There was no metaphore in shedding of that blood, when Roman soldiers scourged Him and forced the crown of thorns upon His brow, and drove the nails through His hands and feet, and thrust the spear into His side. What it means to Christ now we may not say, but we can wonder how the indifference of the men of today to His shed blood must appear to the one who hung upon the cross for us men and for our salvation."

WEST ADAMS M. E. CHURCH.
DEATH IS NEITHER THE BEGINNING NOR THE END; MERELY AN EVENT IN A CAREER.

Rev. George A. Henry at the West Adams Methodist Church yesterday, spoke on the subject: "Immortality; the Voice of the Church." He said in part:

"Be thou partaker of the afflictions of the Gospel according to the power of God, who hath saved us, according to His own purpose and grace, which is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel. Paul to his disciple, Timothy.

"If a man die, shall he live again? In answering this question it is difficult to be true to our own ignorance. So fascinating are the subjects of study in this field we are tempted to assume we know more about them than we really do. Nevertheless, positive teaching about the future has a worthy place in the development of religious thought. The voice of the Church through the centuries has not been uncertain concerning the future of the soul.

"Death is the stopping of the vital processes by which the body is maintained in action. So far as the physical organism is concerned, death ends all. It closes life in its earthly environment. So far as we know this ending is eternal. In its physical aspect no organism dies more than once. So far as bodily life goes, men pass on, never to return. This event called death, ending the earthly life, effects the removal of the living person to a life beyond.

"Looking at death backward, from the moment its experience sets in, it is the ending of a career; looking at it forward, from the moments of its emergence, it is the beginning of a career. What one thinks of death therefore, depends upon his point of view. The Christian view, prevailing through the centuries, is that death is neither the ending nor beginning of a career, but an event in a career. Death is an experience in life. Death closes life in one act of the eternal drama and opens it in another act. What the popular mind often calls two lives—this life and a future life—are but two acts in the total drama of one life, which moves on through the whole drama unaltered by change of scene, or development of act.

"According to the doctrine of annihilation, the penalty of sin terminates in the final loss of personal existence. Those who hold this view believe that annihilation is the natural and inevitable end of a life in which sin runs its full course. The soul runs its course in sin and dies, even as the bodily organism runs its course and dies.

"The doctrine of conditional immortality approaches this same idea, but from another side. It holds that man was not created immortal, but capable of receiving immortality as a gift from God. According to this doctrine, only those are immortal who by righteous moral choices, and spiritual experiences, are found worthy by God to be granted the gift of eternal life. This doctrine teaches that immortality does not inhere in the constitution of human life, but is the gift of God, to those who are morally and spiritually fit ot receive it."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.
BEWARE OF FINDING FAULT LEST YOUR OWN CONSCIENCE BE DEADENED.

Dr. Day, at the First Congregational Church yesterday, spoke on the subject, "Unpublished Piety," choosing for his text, Matthew 6:1, "Do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them." He said in part:

"There are two kinds of piety: the unparaded piety that glorifieth God, and the piety for parade, that serves man's vanity. In this passage the Master condemns the self-glorifying piety of show. He constantly cautions us to look out for our motives. What is the moving force within your heart which lead to the actions men call righteous? These words were not spoken to relieve Christians of the obligation to so act before men as to set a good example. Other people will see what we do, and it is our business so to act that our good will not be evilly spoken of. No man has a right to forget that he is his brother's keeper. Jesus did not say: 'Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men,' and stop there. He did say: 'Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them.' In every act of doing righteousness, scrutinize the motive which prompts it. There is a publicity which dishonors God, because it humiliates a neighbor, or ministers to personal vanity.

"In the Jewish system there were three conventional forms of righteousness: Alms, prayer, fasting. The people who listened to Jesus on the mountain side in Galilee considered these three obligatory, and believed that the man who gave money to the poor or was regular in the routine of prayer, and fasting, accumulated the merit of God. Again and again in the New Testament liberality in the giving of money, and regular and earnest prayer are commanded, but Jesus no where enjoins fasting as an essential of Christian righteousness. He undoubtedly took part in the great annual fast on the day of atonement, which our Jewish brethren across the street observe with such faithfulness and reverence. We are told He endured a forty-day fast in the wilderness of temptation, but He did not command His disciples to follow that example, but on the only other occasion recorded on which he discussed the subject it was to refuse to enjoin His followers to fast. Some Christians find fasting a helpful method of increasing their spirit of devotion to God. Other Christians believed that fasting produces in them the opposite result, but if any man does fast, says our Lord: Let him not make parade of it, for the sake of a reputation for sanctity, but benevolence and prayer are a perpetual obligation. In place of fasting Jesus adds a third kind of righteousness, for in his plan man's devotion to God is to be expressed in personal service, as well as in prayer and charity."

W. Leon Tucker at Calvary Baptist Church began a series of lectures last night on "The Gospel of the King and the Kingdom, or the Gospel By Matthew." The first lecture was an introduction and the speaker said in part:

"Matthew's gospel breaks the four hundred years of silence between the Old and New Testaments, as the message of Moses broke the four hundred years of silence in Egypt.

"From Malachi to Matthew, silence is supreme. No visitors, voices or visions are seen or heard from heaven. For four hundred years a hush had been over the earth. The heavens were dumb and the earth was dark. Not an angel visitant, nor a prophetic vision, nor a priestly presentment had disturbed the stillness. God's people Israel were passing through the experience of their father, Abraham, to whom after a day of prophecy, there followed a night of four hundred years.

"And yet this silence was strong with speech which if interpreted would say: 'They have Moses and the prophets let them hear them.' As if to say: 'My written word stands and is sufficient above my miraculous manifestation or miracle workings.'

"To Israel many priests had been given but not 'the priest' after the 'order of Melchisedec.' Their priests had come from Levi but according to subsequent prophecies there was to come a priest from the tribe of Judah 'of which tribe Moses had given no instruction concerning their priesthood.'

"Matthew's gospel is not the beginning of a new thing but the continuance of an old time and a long time purpose. There is no separation of Matthew's gospel from the Old Testament prophecies. They were the root and Matthew the fruit. The tree of Old Testament prophecy must of necessity bring forth Matthew's gospel, because it must bear fruit 'after its kind.'

"Matthew's gospel is in the New Testament revealed because in the Old Testament concealed. It came forth because God's word had gone forth.

"Matthew is the book which shows God performing unto His people Israel the things which He had promised unto His people Israel."

FIRST UNITED BRETHREN.
PEACE IS THE END OF EVERY WORTHY ENTERPRISE OF THE LIVES OF MEN.

Dr. John Albert Eby of the First United Brethren Church, preached yesterday on the wish of St. Paul for his dearest earthly friends. The Philippians, when in the fourth chapter and seventh verse, he said, "The peace of God which passeth all understanding shall guard your hearts and your thoughts in Christ Jesus." He said in part:

"Paul was not dealing in some exaggeration of mysticism. He was not offering some hyperbole of congratulation. He believed it was possible for his friends to actually possess a peace of heart and mind that would go way beyond the realms of the understanding. He had tried every other kind of peace himself and knew it was insufficient. He had discovered that the human mind could find absolutely no lasting satisfaction outside a triumphant faith in the infinite. He had tried education. He had tried the things of the world. They could bring no real heart rest.

"After all is said the one mighty thing for which every human struggles is peace, peace of mind, of conscience, of heart. And no man in God's universe can be happy without these three things. A mind, a conscience and a heart at rest. No water is deep enough for a peaceful and safe journey that can be sounded with the measuring lines of the mind of man. There is no dispute about the necessity for peace but a divergence of opinion as to how to secure it. The soldier justifies war only as a means to peace. Controversy has no place in the world unless it is but to secure peace. Peace is the end of every worthy enterprise of men's souls or lives.

"But how signally men have failed to find peace. It is because they have not sought a peace that goes beyond our understanding. Nothing the human mind can know as a matter of knowledge can ever give peace, simply because he cannot know it all.

"The people who have most that the understanding of men can find are not by any means the most peaceful people. My experience is that they are the most dissatisfied. The most peaceful and contented and happy man I ever knew was a poor man who was blind. He went whistling past my window feeling his way with his cane, the most completely carefree man in town. He had things to see that men of eyes cannot behold. There is no earthly thing absolutely indispensible to real soul rest and happiness. The only things that men cannot do without and be happy are spiritual things."

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON

MID-OCEAN, March 24.—On the Atlantic, speeding homeward, the Foreign Missions Investigation Committee is in communication by wireless. It is understood that arrangements have been made for a public mass meeting in New York's largest auditorium, the Hippodrome, next Sunday afternoon, to hear the report of this committee respecting its findings. A full report of the same will be given in these columns. Pastor Russell's discourse today was reminiscent of Arabia as the Cradle of our Race. His text was: "As all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive; every man in his own order."—I Corinthians xv:22-23.

LAND WHERE MAN LOST LIFE.

Arabia is accredited with being the ancient Eden, eastward in which was the specially prepared Garden wherein our first parents had their trial—not for a reward of heaven or a punishment of eternal torment, but for a reward of everlasting life under perfect earthly conditions, or for a penalty of death. Here man, created very good, in the image of his Creator, sinned and became subject to the penalty of sin—"The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Here also is Mount Ararat, on which the ark rested after the flood, and from which came forth the family of Noah to people the earth afresh. Thus was Arabia twice the cradle of mankind.

Here is the fertile Mesopotamia, which Father Abraham left at the Divine invitation, to sojourn in Palestine to the north, under promise to become the heir of Divine favor, the father of the faithful, whose now glorified seed, the great Messiah, has already redeemed the world and is yet to take the Throne of earth and, during the thousand years, conquer sin and death and lift up from degradation and the grave Adam and his race.

This is the same Arabia made famous by the tales of the Arabian Nights, and where also is the tomb of Mohammed, whose followers rival in numbers the followers of Jesus and still trust in a promise made to Abraham, and, like the Jews, wait still for the glorious appearing of Messiah. Like the Israelites they are blind to the fact that, before Messiah could bless and heal and uplift the world, it was necessary that He redeem them with His own life, and select from among men a spiritual class to be His Bride and joint-heir in His glorious Kingdom.

And now as the day draws near that the curse shall be lifted from the world, when "the wilderness shall blossom as the rose" and "the solitary place shall be glad," we behold this land of the most ancient civilization awaking. The ruins of its ancient cities, Nineveh and Babylon, are yielding to modern research the records of thirty-five hundred years ago, while modern engineers and modern capital are at work upon vast irrigation schemes costing millions of money, which they tell us will make that land fruitful and fertile as the Garden of the Lord. Are we not thus witnesses of the beginning of the long-promised "times of restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began?" Acts iii:19-21.

REDEMPTION BY HIS BLOOD.

When could we more appropriately consider the Divine provision for our race than when considering this land, the Cradle of our Race, where the fall took place, where the ruin began which has filled the earth with sin, selfishness, sorrow and dying? Ah, surely we greatly erred when we supposed that a greater penalty for sin was needed or intended by our Maker than the penalty we are experiencing. What more could man lose than our race as a whole has lost? Created in relationship with God as a son and heir of the appropriate blessings of the Almighty Father, Adam and his race lost that precious relationship—lost Divine favor, Divine communion, Divine care, and were plunged into death condemnation as strangers, aliens, convicts, tarrying in life merely to fulfill the verdict, "Dying, thou shalt die."

How sternly Divine justice held to that verdict! How relentlessly, how pitilessly the forces of nature were allowed to play havoc with man in earthquakes, drouths, famines, pestilences and hereditary diseases! For more than two thousand years the great Heavenly Parent showed mankind only His justice and naught of His love. And then the first declaration of the Gospel—the first mention that Divine favor would yet rescue mankind from the reign of sin and death was made not publicly, not to all of the race, but merely to one man the friend of God—Abraham. To him it was disclosed as a secret that the great Creator, although permitting Justice to hold full sway in a relentless exhibition of Divine wrath against the sinner, had a loving purpose in His heart which would yet find expression and include all the human family in the blessing it would bring. How astonished we are to learn of such

"A wideness in God's mercy,

But God gave Abraham words only, "Wonderful words of life"—that in him and in his posterity eventually all the families of the earth shall be blessed. But there was not a sign of change so far as the Divine dealings were concerned. Sin and death were still allowed to reign, and their reign has continued century after century since Abraham's day. Doubtless it was because God foreknew that approximately four thousand years would intervene before the blessing of the world that He added His oath in corroboration of His promise. Saint Paul tells us that he so did in order that by these two immutable, unchangeable things—the Word of God and the Oath of God—we, who by faith are become the spiritual seed of Abraham, might have strong consolation—we "who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us" in that gospel message which God gave to Abraham.

"ISRAEL HATH NOT OBTAINED."

Centuries passed. Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, to whom that promise was successively made, all died; and Jacob on his death bed handed down the gracious inheritance of the wonderful promise to his twelve sons, who there became the nation of Israel. The foundation of Israel's hopes as a nation is that promise made to Abraham, in which they still trust. The spectacle of a faith triumphing for four thousand years is a glorious one, and it will shortly have its reward.

In due time, at Mount Sinai God entered into a covenant with the children of Israel, by which He agreed to bless them and to fulfill in them the Abrahamic promise that they, as Abraham's seed, should bless all the nations of the earth. The only condition connected with the promise was that they were to show their fitness to be the Divine channel of blessing to the world and their obedience to the Divine law which was delivered to them on two tables of stone. Full of joy and faith the Israelites obligated themselves thus.

Ah! much they knew not. They did not realize their own weakness and imperfection through the fall and their inability to fulfill the Divine requirements, the spirit of the law of their covenant. They soon found that while the law said, "He that doeth these things shall live," they were not able to do those things; and therefore they were all dying like other men. Had God deceived them and entrapped them? No. God's proposition was simple enough. He was merely teaching them a great lesson—that sin as a disease had taken hold upon humanity and that, however willing they might be, all were weak and perverse in the flesh and unable to fulfill their good intentions.

ISRAEL'S PROMISED DELIVERER.

As a consolation God assured Israel that He would send the deliverer, one still greater than Moses who had delivered them from the Egyptian bondage. This greater deliverer would deliver them from the greater bondage of sin and death, so that they would be able to obey the Divine Law and be used of God in blessing and instructing other nations. This greater than Moses they were assured would inaugurate a new law covenant, based upon better sacrifices than the blood of bulls and goats, and He was known to them as Messiah, the Messenger of the New Covenant. In Him, therefore, they came to hope; for Him they waited; in the prospect of His coming they delighted.

But although the law covenant made nothing perfect—although it did not accomplish the thing Israel had hoped, it did accomplish much. It served to lift that one nation, religiously, high above all the other nations of their day, so that when the time came for God to send His Son into the world to be man's redeemer—to die, the just for the unjust, for man's reconciliation, as the atonement for his sin—at that time there were a few thousand saintly Jews who waited for the consolation, the comfort, the blessing which God had promised them through Messiah—release from the bondage of sin and death.

Thus the Law was a pedagogue, a servant, to lead the Israelites to the Great Teacher; and at Pentecost and subsequently several thousand of them thus led entered the School of Christ—to be His disciples, to walk in His steps, to suffer with Him and later on, in due time, to reign with Him.

Moreover, during the sixteen centuries between Moses and Jesus a saintly class was manifested, all of whose names are written in the book of God's remembrance. It is not theirs to be the Bride of Messiah; it is not theirs to be counted in as members of the Body of Christ, which is the Church, for those members will follow the Head, none of them precede Him.

These ancient worthies were not begotten of the Holy Spirit to a new nature, to be new creatures in Christ, but "they had this testimony that they pleased God." They have the scriptural testimony, therefore, that they shall be accounted worthy of "a better resurrection" than the remainder of mankind, although their resurrection will not be with the bride of Christ—will not be the chief resurrection, to spirit nature, spirit bodies, etc. Those ancient worthies will come forth from the tomb after the completion of the church, after her establishment in glory. They will come forth perfect men, of human nature, the image and likeness of God in the flesh, as was Adam. Great will be their degree of honor as they shall be used of Messiah as "princes in all the earth," for the blessing of Israel and all of every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

HEIRS OF THE PROMISE.

We must never lose sight of the kernel of this Gospel message. The ultimate blessings of the Messianic Kingdom, through the seed of Abraham, will be all the families of the earth, but, previously, the divine work is the calling of the seed of Abraham, which is to do that work of blessing. The promise was not made to all the families of the earth but to Abraham and his seed. Hence the heirs of the promise are not all the families of the earth, but the seed of Abraham.

To the saints of Galatia, who had been Gentiles, but had accepted Jesus and were desiring to become joint-heirs with God's dear Son in His Messianic kingdom as members of His bride elect, Saint Paul writes, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed and heirs according to the promise." (Galatians iii, 29.) How strange that we should have lost sight of this great inheritance! With our Lord, as Abraham's seed, we shall inherit the earth; as it is written, "I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession."

No wonder the Apostles frequently reminded the brethren of this great inheritance which God has in reservation for the faithful. No wonder one of them writes, "All things are yours, for ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's!" Adam and his entire race are to be turned over to Christ Jesus the Redeemer—purchased by His precious blood. Then we, as His bride consort, are to share with Him that great inheritance and to co-labor with Him in bringing order out of present confusion. Satan is to be bound; all the forces of darkness are to be overthrown and restrained. The light of the knowledge of God, as a glorious sun of righteousness, is to arise; and its healing beams are to flood the earth, carrying with them life, peace, joy, rest—to the Jew first, but eventually to every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

EXCITING.

With the government fighting them for being a trust on one hand, and their miners striking on the other, the coal operators of the present day have plenty to keep them stirring. It is not to be expected that capital will break its neck trying to get into the coal business while these conditions prevail.

NO, THANK YOU.

Harvard has introduced fanless baseball. It has elegantly decided that delicacy forbids rattling an opposing team by rooting. Aside from the astonishing precedent of inculcating politeness at college the idea can have no very wide appeal. The man who pays two bits for a bleacher seat has a right to his "holler."

A CLOSE WATCH.

Another peace officer has been murdered by one of the vagabond outlaws infesting Southern California. Not only was an Oxnard constable killed, but the Sheriff there was beaten into insensibility. Every officer in the south should be on the alert for the apprehension of these fiends. The tramps who have wintered here are now ready to move north and east and in making their getaway they are willing to take desperate chances. The man who will not work should be watched.

IT MAY BE SO.

The government is shocked, grieved and surprised to discover an alarming situation at Ventura, where the farmers are actually getting a living price for their beans. If the government knows beans when the bag is open it will find some way of guaranteeing the planter against loss on all staple crops. If the government would kindly form a trust to keep the price of wheat, beans and potatoes at a mark which would insure a reasonable profit it would serve the whole country wisely, for when the price of living is based upon the actual cost of production the market will have nothing artificial about it.

A WEEDING OUT.

New Mexico may suffer some slight embarrassment from the adverse advertising coming to her through the arrest of three legislators on the charge of accepting bribes in the attempt to elect a United States Senator, but the good derived from the stern treatment accorded the alleged bribe-takers will be a permanent element of purification in the politics of the new State. New Mexico has sustained a rather questionable reputation for the politics of its Territorial Legislatures and the new State cannot now afford to put up with any method which will not bear the light. New Mexico was a great Territory and it will be a great State, but the fact that it has always done business in two languages has served to shield a good many rascals on both sides, and the people have suffered from this possibility of evil fruitage long enough.

PROMOTING POISON.

Near Glendale a Yaqui Indian died from excessive drinking, or perhaps from the vile quality of the stuff purchased for liquor. It has been only a few weeks since a school teacher in this city died from poisoning after a single drink of a concoction sold him for whisky. Probably the man who buys whisky of any kind takes his chance, but if the United States government allows liquor to be sold and accepts revenue from that source the man who pays for a drink has the right of a citizen to get what he pays for, and by a strict inspection the authority of the government should be stamped upon every gill that is sold. The country has laws making it impossible to get glucose in syrup or to buy a strychnine tonic without signing for it, and yet barrels of poison are sold in California every day under the name of whisky and at its price.

A PROFITABLE VISIT.

The attendance of Gov. William Spry of Utah at the Land Show Beautiful has been profitable to the two States as well as pleasant for the Governor and for those who had the pleasure of contributing in any manner to his entertainment. The Governor is right when he suggests a closer business relation between the two States and when he recommends the heartiest co-operation between them in the solution of the future immigration problem. He is thoroughly sound in his idea of making the immigrant a valuable business asset. This certainly should be the attitude of all the West with regard to the homeseeker from abroad. Instead of being an adverse problem the immigrant should be made of the highest use to himself and to the community in which he locates. There are tens of thousands of acres of fertile land which the immigrant can develop and so add immeasurably to the general prosperity of the West. California, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Washington and Oregon have a place for him. As for closer business relations between Western States, it stands to reason that the more these States can utilize the products of each other the less occasion they will have to buy or sell at distances which involve heavy freight tariffs. California will be glad to sell Utah citrus fruits and will be just as glad to buy Utah's coal.

The cause of some of the unrest in China is given in a dispatch from Nanking that says: "The Republican troops have been paid two months' wages and everything is now quiet." The Chinese soldiers merely went on a strike on account of unpaid wages.

BUSINESS IN LOS ANGELES.

One would naturally expect that the present somewhat complicated Presidential situation would have an injurious effect on American business, but such does not appear to be the case in Los Angeles. Evidently the people here, or most of them at any rate, are confident that President Taft will properly be renominated and then, as properly, re-elected to succeed himself.

In Los Angeles striking evidence of this assurance in business circles is seen in the large dealings in real estate and buildings—factory blocks, office blocks and high-class residences. The deposits in our banks, commercial and savings, were never as large as they are today. Commercial paper is being discounted liberally at 6 per cent., public utility corporation bonds are selling freely and at quite small discounts. Interest payments are being anticipated. Hundreds of workmen's homes are going up in the outskirts of the city, where building lots are lower in price than closer in and to which points our street car service is reasonably ample. In the afternoons and evenings our many places of amusement are crowded. Watch the street cars at any corner of the city and see how frequent and how crowded they are. Note the hundreds of business automobiles lining every curb. Read over the hotel registers and count the many arrivals day after day. See how few "For Rent" signs there are on business places and dwellings. Do business in our banks and note how often you have to stand in line and wait your turn. Observe how soon the rooms in an additional office building are rented. Go down to the various railroad freight yards and note how close together are the arriving and departing loaded cars. Peep in at the busy retail stores any afternoon on Broadway, Spring street and Main street. Spend an hour at the postoffice and see the vast volume of mail, in and out, being handled in that busy hive of industry. Note the crowds of newcomers arriving at our railroad stations, train after train, day after day, Sundays included. Go down into our wholesale and manufacturing districts and see the business being done there. Bank clearings, a sure business barometer, increasing day after day, week after week, and month after month. Get into the offices where weekly and monthly pay rolls are made out and figure up the increases they persistently show. Inquire at our mortgage loan offices and find how few are the interest defaults and how far fewer are the foreclosure sales.

Note all these things and the many others which might be named and then thank God that you are living and doing business in Los Angeles.

COLLAPSING.

And so the insurgent Republican platform broke down at Portland, Me. Thirty prominent citizens sat down suddenly on their progressive bumps, with their insurgent heels in the air, and the colonel performed a double back-action somersault, to the delight of the small boys in the gallery.

Coming events cast their shadows before. The underpinning of a recall of judicial decisions is made of such rotten stuff that it will not hold up even the exceedingly light weight of the colonel, and Humpty Dumpty will repeat in other States his tumble in North Dakota. Tomorrow New York will vote and her vote will be decisive of the result. Taft might lose New York and still be nominated. If Roosevelt loses New York that will be the end of him.

THE FALL OF SOCIALISM.

Isaiah was the first Socialist of whom there is a record. He said: "And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. And the suckling child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the basilisk's den. They shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

It is a far cry from Isaiah to Job Harriman, and Socialism is no nearer its goal than in the days of the old Hebrew prophet. The lion is not eating straw. The wolf and the lamb are not tenants of the same apartment-house, and John P. Morgan and Jimmy behind the stove are not reposing on the same brass bedstead.

In every age Socialism has had its votaries. Plato wrote "The Republic" to give shape to a Socialist society. Sir Thomas More gave a picture of Socialism in his book entitled "Utopia." Edward Bellamy described the workings of an ideal Socialism in "Looking Backward." Socialism was tried at Brook Farm, and Robert Dale Owen attempted to establish Socialism in the New Harmony Community.

Owen's plan involved common ownership of land and its products, and of machinery. Money was to be abolished, free love was to be substituted for marriage, and children would belong to and be reared by the State. Owen's plan was a picnic for some people but a horror to others. His New Harmony Community soon went to pieces.

The fundamental idea of twentieth century Socialism, as stated by Marx, and Engels, and others of its leaders and apostles, is that "property is robbery," and that men should produce things not for profit but for use. Modern Socialism declares that land, machinery and transportation facilities should be owned by the community, and that the rent of land, the value of the use of machinery, and the value of the labor engaged in production should fix the price of the product, and each element be allotted its share of results. A farmer who cultivated an acre of land on which he raised a hundred bushels of potatoes would be allotted so many bushels for his labor. The rest of the crop would go to the community and its disposition would be determined by the directing agencies of the "co-operative commonwealth." One can readily conjecture where most of the potato crop would go if Gompers, Tveitmoe and Darrow were running the "co-operative commonwealth."

Macaulay said in substance that "the most wasting wars, the direst pestilences and the greatest maladministration of government have never reduced the wealth of any English-speaking people half so fast as the individual efforts of every man to get on in life have built it up."

Socialism paralyzes ambition and discourages thrift. Human selfishness is a spur in the side of human endeavor that incites men to effort and promotes the prosperity of a nation and the advancement of a race. Socialism would wreck the ship of prosperity on the reefs of sloth. It is in this era not advocated by the Isaiahs, and Platos, and Mores, and Bellamys, and Owens of the day. It has fallen into the clutch of iridescent dreamers such as Marx and Engels, of leeches like Gompers, of assassins such as the McNamaras, and of their co-workers in begging, or rather filching, money from mechanics and sewing girls.

HERE'S A PLATFORM!

Col. Roosevelt will be less than loyal to his most cherished convictions if he fails to insist upon the resolutions of the St. Louis National Congress of Mothers being made a part of the national Republican platform. The Chicago delegate to the mothers' convention was Dr. Lindsay Wynckoop. The Christian name of the doctor is sexless, so to speak, and from it one cannot certainly determine whether the doctor is a male veterinary or a female obstetrician. The doctor insisted that laws should be framed requiring every single man or woman who earns $20 a week or more to adopt a baby. If he or she earns $40 a week two babies should be adopted. "This," said the doctor, "would do more to build up the character of a man than anything else." There are difficulties in the way of adopting the doctor's plan which even the original and resourceful Col. Roosevelt would find it difficult to overcome. A blacksmith, while engaged in shoeing a horse, might plant his adopted baby by the forge fire. A carpenter could cuddle the infant with his left hand while his right wielded the saw or a hammer. But what would a house painter, at the top of a tall ladder, do with his adopted offspring? What would a real estate agent do with an infant whose squalls interrupted his fervid description of the beauties of Lot 29 in Block B of Skinemall's Addition to Bugtown? The constant presence of a baby might build up the character of an insurgent progressive Republican politician so as to restrain his natural tendency to be economical of the truth, and it might enhance his disposition toward an affluent flow of cuss words. On the whole, would not such a law cause bachelors who earned $20 a week to voluntarily reduce their wages to $19.99?

Mrs. Frances E. Clark of New York insisted that rag-time music "is undermining the musical ear of the present generation of children," and that the child should have music of the proper kind even from its birth, and music for each of its moods, until it was old enough to choose airs suitable for its educated ear.

There might be a brass band stationed in the bathroom, and when a young Roosevelt appeared it would strike up "See, the Conquering Hero Comes." Later it would play "Come, Little Sinner, Come to Dinner, the Pap Bottle's Waiting for Thee," and then there would be played in minor chords "Bye, Baby Bunting, Grandpa's Gone a-Hunting, to Get a Little Tiger's Skin, to Wrap His Baby Bunting In." Later in years, as the child grew strong enough to exercise its flexors and extensors, the nurse would chant those beautiful lines from Dr. Watts's hymn book:

"Baby, dear, go lickety lick.
As Hiram grows
His dear little toes
Will ever outreach for something to kick."

Your eye should flash and your chest protrude,

The congress of mothers indorsed the educational value of motion pictures and recommended their use in the public schools. Surely a Roosevelt convention will not hesitate to place this suggestion in its platform. There might be a picture of Roosevelt in youth in North Dakota, arrayed in leather breeches and a broad-brimmed sombrero, in the act of scalping a Sioux chieftain who had ventured to dispute his supremacy as a bronco buster. This could be followed by a picture of Pinchot, and Brandeis, and Johnson, standing above the remains of a snapping terrier dog who had been slain by a North Dakota blizzard, and singing in mournful chorus:

The principal resolution of the National Congress of Mothers was one demanding an act of Congress establishing a Federal Child's Bureau, and indorsing parent compensation. This is so entirely in line with Col. Roosevelt's anti-race suicide principles that he would be justified in refusing a Presidential nomination unless the party platform contained a plank pledging a bounty for a child, double bounties for twins, and for triplets—leave the doors of the national treasury open and invite the parents to help themselves.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Some time ago I had the heaves, which laid me on a couch of pain; it is a malady that leaves you broken down in wind and brain. And while I tossed upon my bed old Bilkins came, with comfort sweet; he placed a poultice on my head and gently fanned my fevered feet. He gladly helped the weary frau, and from her heart the sadness drove; he fed the horse and milked the cow, and whacked up cordwood for the stove. For weary weeks he did my chores while I was tangled with disease; and when I'd utter thanks he roared disgustedly: "Forget it, please!" Old Winkletoot has wide renown for freely giving princely sums; he gave a fountain to the town, and built a home for busted bums. He is the boss philanthropist, whom all the papers advertise; he surely will be sorely missed when he kicks up his heels and dies. But when I had the heaves and lay with plaster casts upon my ears, he never came to say good day, although he's known me fifty years. To see a neighbor in distress, and help him with a song and dance, won't win the plaudits of the press or make your cherished fame advance.

LESS TRADE WITH MEXICO.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

As compared with 1910 our exports to Mexico in 1911 fell off about 20 per cent. In the twelve months ended January, 1912, (latest Bureau of Statistics figures,) their total value was $52,271,987, against $64,671,659 in the preceding similar months, a decrease of $12,400,000; or rather more than $1,000,000 a month. In the same period our imports from Mexico totaled $59,227,516, a loss of only $750,000.

That these decreases, particularly the export decrease, are attributable to the disturbances there is evident from the fact that our exports to South America increased by 25 per cent. in the seven months ended January, 1912, while to Cuba and the other West Indies they also increased.

Lumber	3,000,000
Railroad cars	2,000,000
Boots, shoes and leather goods	2,000,000
Cottonseed oil	2,000,000
Scientific instruments	1,000,000
Explosives	1,000,000
Rubber goods	750,000
Furniture	750,000
Automobiles	500,000
Agricultural implements	500,000
Glass and glassware	500,000
Corn	$5,000,000
Meats	2,000,000

Both larger in value than in 1910.

"THE WHOLE TRUTH."

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The emblematic figure of Truth is always depicted for us as a gracious woman of noble and serene countenance, holding her lamp on high, casting a glow of soft radiance on the world.

But the Truth that we know is gaunt and severe, inexorable, cynical. Her lamp is one of those glaring incandescents that mercilessly show up our poor little pretenses, our harmless little shams, our pathetic little make-believes—belittles us, scourges us, derides us and condemns us.

* * *

Early Disciplins.

When I was very young my parents and guardians made a praiseworthy effort to imbue me with a proper respect for Truth, and many and varied were their devices to keep me unsullied from the baneful smirch of falsehood.

Very soon I began to realize that to tell the truth might be noble and beautiful, but it had to be its own reward. Mother generally wore an of-course-I-knew-it-all-along air, and father's face frequently bore signs of sympathetic pity. And, through my delightful honesty in correcting a falsehood ere I had finished telling it, it was made quite clear to all and sundry that I was a natural liar who was responding to treatment!

It was an awful strain on my nerves.

As I grew older I abandoned myself to my imagination and would tell the whole incident through with reckless delight, but early principles would assert themselves in the end and I would finish up by explaining that "Well, that wasn't quite true, you know, but that's how I like to tell it. I'll tell it you all true now, if you like."

And I could not fail to see how very much more interesting people found my original effort. The truth always seemed pale and colorless—and also well meaning relatives had a nasty knack of pointing out the astounding discrepancies between the two versions, for all the world as though I was not myself responsible for their information!

Then there came by natural degrees the stage where I would decline to furnish the true version, but I would still acknowledge, defiantly, that my version was not all true. This was followed by a period, into which I was certainly coerced, when I would stand by my version to the bitter end and defy them to prove it false. Those were gorgeous days! And I was one of the most popular children at school during that base time—a natural, joyous child, an idol among my fellows.

* *

Chastening Effects.

It was somewhere about this time, I expect, that mother decided to spank it out of me. It took two years, but by then I was the most unpleasantly truthful person in our circle. From about 14 to 18 I told the plain unvarnished truth on each and every occasion. I regret to say my friends regarded me with very aloof affection.

And now also it was time for me to be properly launched in society and to share the social responsibilities of our household.

Mother bore it as long as she could and then

"My dear child, you are really most embarassingly candid. It is not always advisable to be so literally accurate and really, my dear, a little tact . . ."

Ah! A little tact.

Social Necessity.

And so I had to unlearn the lesson which I acquired at such pains. Why, the whole fabric of our lives is built upon lies! As Shenstone cynically tells us, "The truth is often too great a luxury for even the richest people. If the Lord had meant us always to tell the truth he would have designed a society that would not have fallen to pieces in consequence."

The absolutely truthful person is quite intolerable. The more charming we are, the more popular, the more happy, so much more of a successful liar are we proved. Many a loving and unselfish husband will declare in a glorious lie that he would rather eat a meal cooked by his wife's fair hands than the best dinner the Alexandria can put up. Many a fond wife will proclaim an indifference for clothes and jewelry to relieve her husband of self-accusing regret. Many a mother will disclaim fatigue if it is a question of sitting up with the sick baby—and these households are the happy ones.

To be successful in business, in society, in the family, yes, even as parents, it behooves us to be skilful liars. What man of us would dare to tell his child the whole truth and nothing but the truth? We dare not tell the whole truth about ourselves to our children because their respect for us is an essential to their own well-being. Sadly I recall that the very means my own dear parents adopted for imbuing me with a respect for the truth—that pimple on my nose—effectual as it was, was a lie.

Smug hypocrites that we are, can we never remember that honesty is the best policy? Give the devil his due!

[Popular Magazine:] Mrs. Robert S. McKee, daughter of President Harrison, is a great believer in woman suffrage, and whenever she has the chance she steps right up to the bat and lines out a hot argument in support of her position. One day she was having such a discussion with a prominent New York lawyer.

"Now, my dear Mrs. McKee," insisted the attorney, "it would be all right to have woman suffrage if the educated and brilliant women like you went to the polls. You and your kind know all about public questions and your votes would undoubtedly be of great good to the country. But you would not derive any benefit from having the ignorant and uneducated women voting. Imagine the absurdity of your cook voting and attempting to solve the great issues of the day."

"LAFITTE" IS REAL WINNER.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

A premier with fewer soft spots, scenial flunks, scenic balks and manuscript blowouts than I have ever beheld came to pass upon the Burbank stage yesterday afternoon.

Namely, that big scenic-historic melodrama, "Capt. Lafitte," from the pen of Charles T. Dazey.

The proof of the unusual smoothness and rapidity of this first production lay in the fact that the clock hands were still struggling to reach the early hour of five when the orchestra plunged into the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the audience rose to its bonnets.

Ruth Francis,

Appearing in "A Touch of High Life," as the top-line feature of the new Empress programme.

Madison" in New York and various new works of fiction and history of that day on the bookshelves.

It deals with the adventures of Jean Lafitte, considerably more real than the Capt. Kidd, who has come down to us in history, and in all probability considerably cleaner in person, larger in mind, greater in power and more romantic in spirit. For by all the magazine articles and tales of the antiquarians Lafitte was a gentlemanly a swashbuckler while Kidd was—by the same token—a skulking sea-yeggman without the class or even the mental outlook of a porch-climber.

As a melodrama of the romantic era, with some touches of cleanly comedy and very pretty, though not extraordinary, sentimentality, "Capt. Lafitte" deserves a good place on our contemporary stage. It is frankly an entertainment for those who love, once in a while, to hurl problems into the rubbish heap and take up the Lafitte tale that begins, "Once upon a time," and ends, "And they lived happily ever after." And they lived both in rendition and production

"LAFITTE" IS REAL WINNER.

Forest Stanley's Tour-de-Force a Sweeping Romantic Characterization Reminiscent Only of Otis Skinner—Brunton's Great Scenic—Majestic Pictures Please.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

A premier with fewer soft spots, initial flunks, scenic balks and manuscript blowouts than I have ever known came to pass upon the Burbank stage yesterday afternoon.

Namely, that big scenic-historic production, "Capt. Lafitte," from the pen of Charles T. Dazey.

The proof of the unusual smoothness and rapidity of this first production is in the fact that the clock hands were still struggling to reach the early hour of five when the audience plunged into the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the audience left its bonnets.

"Capt. Lafitte" is a delightful best seller of the 1812 period, seemingly very popular at its centenary just now, what with the dramatic "Dolly Varden" in New York and various other forms of fiction and history of the day on the bookshelves.

It deals with the adventures of Lafitte, considerably more real than Capt. Kidd, who has come down to us in history, and in all probability considerably cleaner in mind, greater in heart and more romantic in spirit. Some of the magazine articles and books on the antiquarians Lafitte and Capt. Kidd was—by the same token—by the same token stalking sea-yeggman and hijacker, and even the mental make-up of a porch-climber.

There are touches of the romantic and very pretty, though not very sentimentality, "Capt. Lafitte" deserves a good place on our summer stage. It is frankly an excuse for those who love, love, to hurl problems into the air and take up the pieces as they begin. "Once upon a time," they lived happily ever after."

Ruth Francis,

Appearing in "A Touch of High Life," which is the big-time feature of the new Majestic programme.

JAMES C. THRELFALL.

the Burbank company, which has built up a cruel barricade of big past accomplishment for itself, has never done anything better in that way appropriate to the particular style of Mr. Dazey's new piece.

This play makes Mr. Stanley a star. He plays Lafitte in that whirlwind of slightly exalted, exaggerated romance which attaches so gloriously to the person of Otis Skinner. Mr. Stanley has not, of course, the middle-age variety and subtle finesse which belongs to the vastly experienced Mr. Skinner, but the fundamental coloring is the same, the conception is exactly what Skinner's would be, and Stanley owns an insurmountable handicap in youth—and the velvet voice and steely dash and climactic fire of youth.

If "Lafitte" stellarizes Stanley, certainly Mr. Brunton, that remarkable genius of stage surrounding, is certainly a satellite of no mean proportions. In the plantation of Les Chenieres, with its comfortable Colonial mansion sidling up to a tropic bayou, with an air of luxury and rest in the whole tree-spotted exterior, and with shafts of light falling through foliage and upon bark in a superb imitation of real sunlight, Mr. Brunton has for the fiftieth or sixtieth time demonstrated himself such a master of his craft that he is certainly a solitaire this side of the Hudson River, and at least a crown jewel on the other side. Again his appreciation of the real effects of nature is shown in the dawning day behind the cotton-bale ramparts in the battle scene—an exquisitely managed picture, needing only the transfixion of stillness and a great gilt frame to make it a veritable Meissonier.

Lafitte, the courteous water stick-up man of the island of Grand Terre, in semi-consciously in love with Diana Vallere, a Creole heiress, and is hated by the Marquis of Calvo, formerly the Spanish Governor of Louisiana, a secret partisan of the British, and the unsuccessful suitor for Diana's hand. In the final showdown between American and Englishman, Calvo sneaks to the Briton, a traitor; Lafitte, under suspicion, but inherently honest, is allowed at last to fight on Jackson's side, and struggles at the same time to save the life of his fiancee, who is suspected of revealing plans to the enemy—revelations really made by the recreant Governor. In the historic battle behind the cotton bales it is the motley horde of Lafitte who save the day, duplicity is revealed, the white flag of honor floats high in the sunlight of final understanding, and the curtain falls with the salvos of patriotic cheers, about Lafitte's ears and his sweetheart's arms about his neck.

The management of this warfare, with more than a hundred men upon the stage, yet all deployed over the ramparts, so that there is none of the usual hilarious stand-up-and-fall-down comedy of the embattled supe, is not only excellent, but strikes an unusual note of novelty and realism. I detect the master hand of Oliver Morosco himself in the deployment of this histrionic militia.

David Hartford gave a virile, soldierly and powerful impersonation of Andrew Jackson. Robert Leonard made a successful debut with the Burbank company in the small role of Louis Marteau, and the vigor and force with which he "put his stuff over" promises well for future parts in this house. Donald Bowles gave a striking characterization of Antoine Archard, a Creole gentleman of mighty instincts, but unwilling muscles. Henry Steckbridge, plus a pillow, gave a fat part in a fat manner to fat applause. Franklin Munell, a new member of the company, enacted Casa Calvo in clean-cut fashion, though without special distinction. Other members of the cast were, in the main, well placed.

The play has some faults, a few of which were quite noticeable, and will, in all probability, be promptly remedied. Author Dazey made a speech of actual brilliance, and almost outshone his actors.

Canned drama, stellar variety, in two flavors, tragedy and comedy, is on display at the Majestic this week, and like other new and delectable treats, has found instant favor.

Yes, it's really true. An audacious age has dared to serve up the divine Sarah by the yard, or rather mile, and that most celebrated of French comediennes, Mme. Rejane, has also been captured for the moving screen.

There can only be one more step—a line of phonographs behind the footlights to give voice to these mute but vivid pictures. Such is fame.

It came as a shock, this announcement that Sarah Bernhardt in "Camille" and Rejane in "Sans Gene" would be shown in moving pictures this week at the Majestic. It seemed too much like sacrilege, or les majeste, and it was a curious, questioning audience that filled the Majestic last night to witness the premiere in Los Angeles of these wonderful films.

For they are wonderful, both in mechanical perfection, and in the delightful replica of the most famous actress of the day in the greatest roles they have created.

Those who have seen these two gifted women in the life, will appreciate these canned dramas even more than those who are getting their impressions from the screen, unaided by memories of the original, for only by comparison does the true worth of the new departure manifest itself most convincingly.

To be sure one misses the voices, and the jingle of accoutrements. There never has been another voice like that of Bernhardt. It is perhaps her greatest charm, and no art has yet been devised which could truly reproduce it.

Yet so vivid is the pantomime, that one is never for a moment without clear understanding of the plays, and because there is no sound, the fidelity of portrayal by expression alone is a thousand fold enhanced.

Just as the theater goer who could not understand a word of French discovered that he could follow the play as perfectly without the diction, so it is with the pictures. They show why these women are great.

What theatergoer but knows the stories of "Mme. Sans Gene" and "Camille"—one a bit of real history from the First Empire; the other a real and tragic love tale. One of the most interesting features of the first is the reproduction of the laundry bill that Napoleon owed this celebrated heroine of the French revolution, contracted in the days when he was an impecunious captain, and she a laundress.

One might attempt to chronicle some of the subtleties of the art employed by Bernhardt in her great death scene in Camille, or the droll manner in which Sans Gene tries to manage her new court train, but these things have been the inspiration and theme of writers for two decades.

It is the pictures themselves that are apropos at this time—this innovation, whose announcement came as a shock but whose reality is a delight, and whose effect will be real immortality for these two most famous actresses of the generation.

They are faithful and fascinating, clear and comprehensive, a reproduction of stage triumphs which will live when their prototypes will have become mere names in the annals of the world of make believe.

The George Fuller Golden benefit, given at the Hamburger Majestic Theater yesterday proved a huge success both artistically and financially, in fact one of the most successful benefit performances in the history of the local stage.

Although the receipts of the benefit cannot yet be accurately given, it is estimated by the committee in charge that the proceeds will run well over $1000.

COAST FACING POTATO FAMINE.

Now One Month's Supply in Sight; Need Three.

Prices to Break All Records Within Two Weeks.

Sixty Days Without Tubers Is Our Prospect.

With the best grades of potatoes quoted at $3.25 per hundred pounds, wholesale, and the cheapest selling at $2.75 for very inferior quality, Los Angeles consumers are facing the most serious potato situation in years. The cause for high prices lies in absolute lack of supply to fill the demand even at the present high cost.

There is little prospect here that the Mayor or any other city official or philanthropic individual will be able to get out and duplicate the feat of Mayor Shank of Indianapolis who went into the country and bought several cars of the desirable tubers to sell at cost to the consumers in the Indiana metropolis. He could find potatoes to purchase, but the man who will try the same thing in Los Angeles or in California will find the market bare. Moreover, there are three long months ahead before the first early potatoes can be harvested.

The visible supply of potatoes available for Los Angeles territory is less than 350 cars, according to John Huber, secretary of the Rivers Brothers' Company, who is back from a trip through the Stockton, Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys endeavoring to locate a few potatoes. "There are more than ten cars of potatoes a day used in Los Angeles," he said, "and we are likely to be without potatoes for nearly two months before the new crop is harvested.

FEW IN SIGHT.

"In the Stockton district I found about 150 cars, in the other territory about seventy-five cars more. There are from seventy-five to 100 cars of available Oregon potatoes and that completes the supply. Unlike the year when the local market was cornered by one of the dealers, there is no possibility of rushing potatoes in from the Middle West. It was in the Mississippi States and all through the East that the greatest crop shortage took place and many potatoes from the Pacific Coast were shipped East earlier in the season to help fill the demand there. That caused the shortage which we are now facing here."

Maurice Zuckerman of Weyl-Zuckerman, the principal potato dealers in the city, said that prices on Highlands will reach $3 within the next two weeks. "This is the highest market Los Angeles has ever seen on potatoes," he declared. It will be late in June before relief is afforded from the situation for the reason that only a few of the potato farmers have irrigation facilities and planted before the rains came. Others have had to wait until within the last month and this will make a very late crop.

"In the East the situation has reached almost a famine in some places. New York City is bringing potatoes from Ireland and England. Boston and several other Atlantic Coast cities are doing the same thing to supply that territory. Many of the potatoes that were stored by farmers through the East have turned out a total loss because of the heavy freezing where they have been stored in cellars and in the ground. In the East the crop will also be very late and as in former years, California will be expected to supply some of the first demands so that will prove one of the reasons for continued high prices well into the summer months.

PRICES SOARING.

The present wholesale quotation on potatoes stands at $2.75 to $2.85 for Highlands; $2.85 to $3 for Oregons; $3 to $3.25 for Early Rose, Salinas and Lompocs. Last year, when prices were considered very high, Highland potatoes went to $2.40 at the highest. The retail prices on all of these potatoes are from 15 to 25 per cent above the wholesale quotations. The ordinary housewife, who buys 25 cents worth of potatoes at a time, is now getting about seven pounds for the money.

DEAD FROM LOS ANGELES?

Man Believed Killed by Falling from Train Has Letter Directed Here in His Pocket.

The body of a well-dressed man was found Saturday near the Southern Pacific tracks at French Camp, near Stockton. The position, together with cuts on the head, lead the authorities to believe that the man was a passenger on a train and fell off.

He was about 26 years of age and is believed to have been frrom Los Angeles. A letter written in French, bearing the address "Darro Rodmaig, Los Angeles," was found in the pockets.

Mrs. Kathleen H. Adams,
Wife of the head master of the Yale School, divorce proceedings against whom constitute the newest chapter in the scandal which shook the institution less than a year ago.

Climax.

UGLY SCANDAL'S FINAL CHAPTER.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS END OF YALE SCHOOL TROUBLE.

Head Master Asks Decree from His Former Matron on Unusual Grounds—Attorney Files Answer and She'll Fight Case to End. Sensational Evidence Promised.

Whether or not the nickname "Tommy" from the lips of the wife is mental cruelty to the husband is the points to be decided at the divorce trial of Prof. T. G. Adams, head master of the Yale School, the date of which will be set next Monday by Judge Monroe.

Mrs. Adams, formerly Mrs. Kathleen Harshburg, matron of the school, has declared, through her attorney, Milton K. Young, that she will fight the case to the end. As the first step Young has filed an answer for his client denying all the allegations in the professor's complaint.

Despite the fact her husband has brought the suit, the woman is still residing at the school, No. 209 North Union avenue. The couple occupy separate apartments.

According to Attorney Young the case will be contested to clear his client's good name and to obtain support for the woman and her 2-year-old baby. She asks no alimony from Adams. The latter is represented by Attorney Trusten P. Dyer.

The couple were married last May following the publication of sensational charges made to Deputy District Attorney Graham against Adams by the then Mrs. Harshburg. Adams admitted their truth but denied the further charge, previously made to Deputy Shannon, that he had incited a colored servant to persecute Mrs. Harshburg in an effort to cause her to leave the school. He stated that she might have done so but was not paid for it. It further appeared that Mrs. Harshburg had not secured a final decree from a former husband at the time of entering the school as matron under Adams.

The woman's attorney states that the defense in the forthcoming action is now resting upon the decision of Judge Monroe last Wednesday that Mrs. Adams cannot be made to leave the school on the grounds submitted by Adams. When the case comes up for trial, however, he intimated that the entire story will come out, if necessary for the protection of his client.

"FREE HIM OR HE'LL DIE."

San Diego Physician Examines Noted Revolutionary Soldier of Fortune in Prison Here.

Capt. Jack Mosby was examined in the County Jail, yesterday, by Dr. Jackson of San Diego, under the supervision of the Federal authorities, and the physician said that the prisoner will die from lung trouble unless soon released.

"They ought to let him go," said the doctor, "for all the others have been released. There is no necessity of making a goat out of him. He will die soon where he is."

Mosby is incarcerated awaiting trial because of activities in the late Mexican revolution, and has been a prisoner since August.

Good-bye Cowboys.

IMMENSE CROWD SEES FINISH OF THE RODEO.

BEFORE a crowd of more than 10,000 people the finals of the Rodeo, or Southwestern Interstate cowboy contests were held yesterday afternoon at Santa Anita. Joe Isabelle, a skillful little cowpuncher from Arizona, after riding the famous outlaw, "Cyclone" to a standstill was declared by the judges champion bronco rider of the Southwest and awarded the prizes offered the winner of that honor. Awards in the other events will not be made until today.

Isabelle was somewhat of a "dark horse" in the bucking championship contest until the final day. His work during the elimination contests was thoroughly consistant, yet lacked many of the spectacular features which marked the riding of other entrants. After his ride yesterday, however, when the judges' decision became known there was no one who cared to question the wisdom of their decisid

A. J. Stanley, winner of several races and an all around horseman was declared the best all around cowboy, being awarded the gold and silver mounted belt offered by Richard K. Fox of New York.

Probably the most spectacular feat of the day's programme was Art Acord's steer wrestling from an automobile. This interpid young athlete succeeded in leaping from a swiftly moving machine to the back of one of the big steers and throwing him to the ground in 45 seconds. His act brought round after round of applause from the grandstand. At the close of the meet nothing on the grounds remained unridden with the exception of "Sharkey," the Belgrade Bull, who threw two more riders yesterday. The skill of the cowboys, which conquered every other animal in the corrals, failed with the big black monster, and the money offered for riding him is still up for the first comer who succeeds in staying on his back.

Four Days More.

"THE TIMES" DAY AT LAND SHOW.

Admission Cut in Half by Use of Coupons.

Lectures Are Big Features of Information.

Fresno County Celebrates With Specialties.

With the great Land Show Beautiful at Fiesta Park today entering upon the last four days of its important existence, The Times has made arrangements with the Realty Board committeemen in charge whereby The Times readers may visit the exposition at one-half the regular rate.

Wednesday, the day before the close, will be "The Times Day" at the Land Show, and on this occasion readers may secure admission for 25 cents instead of 50 cents in the evening by clipping the coupon printed herewith and presenting it when purchasing tickets for Wednesday night.

Tickets will be on sale at the one-half rate (with coupons) commencing at 10 o'clock this morning, at the main office of The Times, No. 531-533 South Spring street; The Times branch office, No. 118 South Broadway, and at the Land Show box office, Fiesta Park.

The daytime admission charge is 25 cents, regardless of the coupon, but the reduction secured by The Times for its readers for Wednesday night is the only occasion on which the admission has been made less than 50 cents at an evening session during the seventeen days of the show.

Creatore's Band will render a special programme for "The Times Day," both afternoon and evening. In the evening the big chorus under Thomas Taylor Drill will sing the most popular favorites of its repertoire, including the "Hallelujah Chorus," "The Lost Chord" and "Loch Lomond."

Despite the beautiful weather, which kept thousands of people from thinking of aught but out-of-door pursuits yesterday, the big tent of the Land Show at Fiesta Park was comfortably filled and last evening there was a good attendance.

The popular musical numbers added by Creatore and his band proved a potent magnet and the Italian bandmaster won much applause by his rendition of "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Mikado," the sextette from "Lucia," "Irish Melodies" and other favorites.

Today and this evening the popular music will be repeated by Creatore's Band, and tonight the big chorus will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song," the "Soldier's Chorus" from "Faust," and "Nancy, Ma Yellow Rose." O. G. Mercer will sing "The Holy City."

The Southern Pacific lecture hall, where free talks are given with motion pictures and colored stereopticon views, has proved one of the most successful and popular features of the Land Show.

A total attendance of over 28,000 at these lectures was reached, up to yesterday, the hall seating but 400 persons at one time. The lectures, in charge of George A. Hazzard, and under direction of Passenger Agent Batturs, have given colonists and other visitors a convenient, interesting and comprehensive portrayal of the West. Twenty-five lecturers, drawn from all parts of the West, talk half-hourly turns in explaining the conditions, advantages and attractions of the various sections, each talk being copiously illustrated.

This afternoon the free lectures will commence at 12:30 p.m. with an address by A. A. Martin on "The Sacramento Valley." At 1:10 the programme provides "Tulare," by A. E. Miot; 1:50 p.m., "Ontario," by George T. Barr; 2:30 p.m., "Imperial Valley," by Charles W. Kays; 3:10 p.m., "Long Beach," by Mrs. Rose Shelton; 3:50 p.m., "California," by John P. Clum; 4:30 p.m., "Arizona," by Mrs. Cowgill.

The evening lecture programme will open at 7:30 p.m. with an address on "California and the North Bay Counties," by Francis Hope; 8:10 p.m., "Kern County," by T. F. Burke; 8:50 p.m., "Oakland," by Harry A. Lane; 9:30 p.m., "The Pacific Northwest," by John P. Clum.

FRESNO COUNTY.

Yesterday was set aside as "Fresno County Day" and there was especial activity around the beautiful booth installed by the Fresno Chamber of Commerce, and in charge of J. M. Swift. Hundreds of homeseekers have become interested in the splendid opportunities of the great San Joaquin Valley through visits to the Fresno headquarters at the Land Show, and yesterday was a banner day for those interested in that section.

Thursday, the closing day, will be "Los Angeles Realty Board Day," the organization which created and carried to success the Land Show selecting this final occasion for ending the exposition in a blaze of glory.

The special observances of "Realty Board Day" will be in charge of the Executive Committee, composed of William M. Garland, chairman; Charles G. Andrews, Guy M. Rush, Horace G. Hamilton, W. W. Mines, R. A. Rowan, Robert Marsh, George N. Black, Edwin T. Janss, Austin O. Martin and H. H. Cotton.

The official closing jubilation over the success of the Land Show will take place Thursday night.

FALLS OFF ELEVATOR.

Basal Fracture of Skull Results When Boy Loses Balance and Drops Fifteen Feet.

J. H. Love, an elevator boy in the Stimson building, West Third and South Spring streets, sustained a severe basal fracture of the skull, yesterday morning, when he fell about fifteen feet off a cylinder in the elevator shaft to the marble floor below. The right side of his head struck against a stone step. Love was taken to the Receiving Hospital, and from there to the Sisters' Hospital. He has not regained consciousness since striking the step.

Love was standing on the cylinder fixing an air valve when the wrench he was using slipped, causing him to lose his balance and fall.

MUSIC AND STAGE

sent this widely known musical comedy for the first time on the stage of a California theater at the Mason this evening. The engagement continues for twelve nights and four matinee performances on the Wednesday and Saturday afternoons of the stay in this city.

The piece will be presented here by a company of ninety people including clever principals and a pink of perfection chorus. An enormous advance sale demonstrates the early interest in the engagement which gives every promise of being the record breaking event of theatricals in Los Angeles.

That Fischer's Follies would get off with one week of their great double bill, "The Neverhomes" and "The Song Birds," never seemed a possibility to those who have visited Fischer's Lyceum since it opened a week ago, and witnessed the packed houses at every performance. So it is no wonder that the old "sold out" sign was working overtime yesterday, and that again the two shows delighted thousands.

And rightly, too, for with a week of actual performances, the few rough spots seen at first have all been smoothed out, the kinks have been removed, the speed has been accelerated, and now, both pieces are running like clock work, each principal fitting exactly his part, and the wonderful chorus being at the very top notch of efficiency.

May Boley, unctious and funny; Texas Guinan, beautiful and effective; Vanity, dainty and darling; Ann Montgomery, Laura Oakley, Herbert Cawthorn, Bob Lett, Lon Chaney, Bud Duncan, and all the rest have "arrived" fully and are now enshrined in the hearts of all lovers of good fun and merry music, and the big chorus has a devoted and enthusiastic following of all who appreciate girlish beauty of face and form, fine ensembles and clever dancing.

The sixth and last week of "The Girl and the Boy" started yesterday afternoon at the matinee performance at the Grand Operahouse. That Walter De Leon's musical comedy has big drawing power was demonstrated by the large attendance at both the matinee and night performances. There is a certain subtle appeal to all who like a clean, wholesome musical comedy, in "The Girl and the Boy" and it is for this reason that the play has had such a remarably successful run.

Austin Adams's brilliant comedy, "The Landslide," which has scored such a decided success at the Belasco Theater, where during the past week it has attracted an uncommon amount of attention and created much discussion, will tonight enter upon its second week of success at the Main-street playhouse.

Th Orpheum bill this week, opening today, will reintroduce Miss Louise Dresser to Los Angeles as a vaudeville star, after all too long an absence on her part in musical comedy. She will offer a line of songs of her old and new successes.

A big and beautiful French pantomime, "La Somnambule," will be another strong attraction; it is the latest of these affairs to be offered, and the strongest. In it Mlle. Nina Payne and Signor R. St. Elia are starred, with a company of ten, an organization of well-rounded strength. The somnambulistic dance, with its big finale, is the feature of the act.

Donovan and McDonald—"long live the Irish—here's two real ones"—come with a delightsome bit of blarney, "My Good Friend," and Claude Roode demonstrates new tricks on the slack wire. Pouchot's flying ballet, Harry Beresford and company in "In Old New York," Julius Tannen and Ida O'Day and company, remain.

"A Touch of High Life," a recent hit in the eastern vaudeville theaters, presented by Ruth Francis and her excellent supporting company; Sidney Grant, one of America's best-known story-tellers, and the Three Keltons will form the three fine features of the new Sullivan & Considine bill opening at the Empress Theater this afternoon.

Others to be seen this afternoon are Brady and Mahoney in their amusing skit, "The Hebrew Firemen and the Foreman." Holmes and Buchanan, in their delightful musical offering, "The Girl of 1847," and Cadieux, the daring wire artist.

The Pantages carnival of mirth and music, opening with today's matinee, is headed by a beauty bunch programmed as the Stanley Girls, who come in support of Harry C. Lyons, the well-known comedian. Lyons was last season at the head of "The Girl I Love" company, and on this vaudeville excursion is accompanied by a bunch of those same lovable girls. They sing, dance and deliver a clever line of repartee, most of which is derived from the much-advertised beauty and comedy show already referred to.

For the rest there is an array of unusual talent. Helen Pingree, comedienne with a reputation, heads "The Girl and the Coach Company," a college comedy, with snap and vim. Sully and Hussy, two Irishmen, deliver a novel Hebrew comedy. Moore and St. Clair are listed for novelty songs and dances. Rapoli is probably the most famous juggler of modern vaudeville. McGee and Reece will be recognized as old favorites.

San Francisco reports that Alexander Pantages has just signed a contract for the vaudeville appearance of Mme. Chambellan, coloratura soprano of the Grazzi Paris Grand Opera Company. Mme. Chambellan will make her Pantages debut here in Los Angeles next Monday, April 1. She was probably the best-liked of the Grazzi singers, and her appearance here should mean capacity business at the Pantages house during the week of her engagement. She will be heard in selections from the operas in which she made her reputation here.

Mme. Chambellan is the fifth operatic favorite to be signed by the Pantages circuit. Though the last to sign she is the first to whom vaudeville overtures were made. The ones who led the way were M. Affre, the dramatic tenor, and Mme. Richardson, these two appearing during the past week at the Pantages Theater in San Francisco in a scene from L'Africaine, and M. Ferrier and Mlle. Gustin, who have been seen for the past two weeks in houses allied to the Pantages circuit in and about the Bay City. All four will be seen here within the next three months. M. Affre and Mme. Richardson will probably reach here about the first of May and the other two a month later.

Long to be remembered was the concert of Williams's Jubilee Singers at the Gamut Club on Saturday night. These trained musicians of the dusky South, fresh from tours of Europe and America, excel in stage presence and variety of repertoire the famous companies which made the negro songs of religious passion world celebrated throughout civilization.

The second big week of the local engagement of the "Durbar in Kinemacolor" begins this afternoon at the Auditorium Theater with performances every afternoon and evening except Sunday.

The greatest sensation that has been known in the amusement field of Los Angeles for many years has been created by the exhibition of the wonderful Kinemacolor motion pictures in natural colors of the grand Durbar ceremonials in India.

CHILDREN TO RULE.

Luna Park's Half Acre for the Kids to Be a Feature of the Spring Reopening.

Forty children whose ages ranged from 7 to 15 years consulted with the officers of the Thompson-Snow Amusement Company, owners of Luna Park, yesterday, about the needs of the big playground especially dedicated to the young people.

As a result the managers concluded to put Luna's "Children's Half-acre" under juvenile control when the park reopens on Saturday, April 6, and to this end a committee on plans and suggestions was immediately selected from the little visitors, with Claudine Gillespie, 13 years old, who lives near the park, as chairman. This committee is to pass every Saturday afternoon at Luna.

The park is being thoroughly overhauled, and in many sections practically rebuilt. New machines designed for the romps of boys and girls are to be placed in the playground. A huge sand mountain will be reared on the "Half-acre." Fifteen tons of sand will be brought from the beach and fashioned into the desired "mountain" so and the wee ones permitted to shovel and dig to their hearts' content.

SUNDAY ACCIDENTS.

Shaver Catches Razor as It Falls and Cuts Hand—Passenger Falls Off Car and Breaks Arm.

"Curses, me faithful razor has played me false," declared A. C. Bisgood, with thespian air as he strode into the Receiving Hospital yesterday with a roughly bandaged left hand. With Shakespearian demeanor he described how his razor fell out of his hand, and how he received a two-inch laceration when he endeavored to catch it. Bisgood lives at No. 138 North Bunkerhill street.

Roger Killion, 13 years old, living at No. 1238 East Thirty-third street, didn't look good to a dog living at No. 1564 East Thirty-sixth street, and he was bitten on the right leg. The boy returned home after the wound had been cauterized at the hospital.

M. J. Farald, who lives in the Salvation Army Barracks, could not keep his balance after he boarded a street car and fell off at Second and Los Angeles streets. His left arm was fractured.

H. J. Thompson of the St. Mark Hotel sustained a contused right wrist, when his auto "kicked back." An X-ray examination will have to be made to determine whether any bones are broken.

at Fifty-third street and Central avenue. The descriptions given by these witnesses and by Patrolman Kahlmeyer and J. B. Miller are that one was about six feet tall, aged about 32 years, weight 210 pounds, dark suit and no hat. The other wore a light suit and light cap, weighed about 175 pounds and was about three inches shorter than the first.

The police can get no enlightenment on the relation, if any, of the burning of a house at No. 421 East Fifty-third street, four months ago, to the murder. Pagano, the brother-in-law, lived in the house at the time. The fire, of mysterious origin, destroyed the house almost entirely. Pagano pretends not to know the cause of the fire.

Tiefel and Campbell, who live near by, are almost certain that Cilli and Areno are the men that ran out of the Soldano house after the killing. Detectives Ritch and Roberds have been unable to get any help from either the Italian suspects or the neighbors of that race. The body is at the morgue of Bresee Brothers. An inquest will be held.

The police are thoroughly aroused over the killing and are determined to compel Italians who must have recognized the murderers as they fled from the house to tell what they know. The foreigners maintain an insolent, careless attitude, as if confident that this murder will go down in police annals as mysterious as a score of others have in the last few years.

"The most successful way of handling these cases seems to be one similar to that used at New York and New Orleans," said Lieut. Benedict, in charge of University Station, from which place the hunt for the murderers was directed. This is drastic, but effectual. Since the people of New Orleans jailed a score of prominent Italians, suspected of knowledge of half a hundred killings, lynched three or four and threatened the others with the same fate unless they confessed there have been no mysterious Italian shootings there. In New York, those in receipt of 'black hand' threats have been armed by the police to shoot down their threateners on sight."

TO PROTEST DECISION.

A mass meeting will be held at Blanchard Hall, Wednesday evening, to protest against the decision of the superintendent of the County Hospital to allow no colored women to enter the training school for nurses at that institution. Among others expected to take part in the programme are Rev. Jesse F. Peck, Rev. E. W. Kinchen, Rev. S. Hecht, S. P. Johnson, Fred C. Wheeler, Rev. C. H. Anderson and Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Nelson Whittlesey, supposed to have been more than 80 years old, was found dead in bed Saturday night at his room, No. 636 Gladys avenue. An examination of the body showed that he had been sick for some time, and the police believe death resulted from an attack of heart disease. A letter found in his effects indicates that he leaves a daughter, Mrs. A. W. Robinson, living at Coachella. The body was removed to the Pierce morgue.

William F. Fisher of Brawley died on Southern Pacific train yesterday while en route to Holtville. He left home in apparently only a few minutes before he died.

An Exeter youth while experimenting with a new discovery which he said "would cure pain, gunpowder," precipitated an explosion which put him in the hospital and ulterior form of the famous Marmola prescription that will permit a person to carry his fat reducer with them at all times, so that each meal will help reduce fat to his body. Marmola Prescription Tablets sold by every druggist, or you can get them from the Marmola Company, 932 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich., and a case will be sent you privately by mail. The Tablets or Marmola Tablets is 75 cents a box.

The Body Is a Fat Factory

When a man or a woman grows big, flabby layers of this worthless fat makes them miserable, it is a certain sign that somewhere within the machinery of that man or woman there is something radically wrong. The healthy man or woman digests all that is good in their food and throws off in a natural manner all that is bad. This is what the digestive juices are made for. When these juices are weakened or too powerful, the body does not get the good things out of the nourishment we eat, and hence grow fat. It is to the blood that which makes the body fat very simple to correct these troubles and remove fat in a natural manner. This secret has been demonstrated in the famous Marmola Prescription tablets, which now have such a wide and increasing sale. They correct fat at the source, and twelve to fifteen pounds a month is the rate to correct the faulty juices and give to the body the very nutrition it needs. They remove fat in a natural manner, and they do it so quickly as to be almost beyond belief. You do not have to diet or exercise, and you may eat what you please. These little tablets are the result of a demand on the part of the people for some form of the famous Marmola Prescription that will permit a person to carry his fat reducer with them at all times, so that each meal will help reduce the fat to his body. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by every druggist, or you can get them from the Marmola Company, 932 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich., and a case will be sent you privately by mail. The Tablets or Marmola Tablets is 75 cents a box.
